HINDENBURG TAKEN BY DEATH

RIOTERS TURN ON OLSON FOR JAILING LEADERS

Dare Him to Run for Governor Again.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on Back Page.)

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Gov. Floyd B. Olson tonight lost the political support of the rioting truck drivers and perhaps of the city's whole organized labor group—at least for the present. Until today most of Olson's public utterances have definitly aligned him with the strikers, but when his National Guardsmen raided union headquarters this morning and then descended upon the labor temple, the tide boiled back and the rioters' support of Olson dropped from him like a ragged garment.

Dare Him to Run Again.

Tonight the remnants of the union leadership—operating without the aid of their president, William Brown, and two of their moving spirits, Miles and Vincent Dunne, who were prisoners—dared Olson to run for governor again this fall upon the platform, "I raided the headquarters of local 574 [the drivers' union]." The strikers' paper characterized the governor in blistering terms tonight, although heretofore it has refrained from criticizing him because his Farmer-Labor party is ostensibly the friend of labor.

Angered by incarceration of their leaders, the strikers also issued a call for a general strike of protest. At a late hour, however, no signs that other unions would join them in sympathy had been observed.

Brown and the Dunne brothers were wrapping blankets about themselves and preparing to spend the night as military prisoners when the strikers' daily bulletin sounded their clarion. The three men had been seized this morning when National Guardsmen, led by the provost marshal, Col. Elmer McDevitt, raided the union headquarters as strikers were gathering for mass picketing.

Turn to Labor Temple.

Dispersing the pickets and arresting their chiefs, the guardsmen turned next upon the Labor temple and went through it, seeking several others who allegedly violated military orders when they held a large massmeeting last night to prepare for today's picketing.

Adjt. Gen. E. A. Walsh declared that no permit for the meeting was issued. The strikers claimed differently, but the arrests were made nevertheless.

This, however, did not stop picketing. Trucks were overturned in isolated districts, drivers beaten, and there were even claims that horses were kicked and abused. Military patrols rushed here and there in response to frantic calls, and at nightfall about 70 violators of the no picketing rule were secure, with Brown and the other leaders, behind the high wire fence of the guard's stockade at the State Fair grounds.

See Possible End to Strike.

Tonight there were signs that caused a renewal of speculation that the strike will end quickly. Observers hesitated to make a strong prediction because other favorable signs have been "knocked down" with monotonous regularity in recent days.

However, there were these heartening circumstances:

Adjt. Gen. Walsh announced that all but 500 troops would be withdrawn from the downtown armories where they have been kept under arms since Thursday, and transferred to the fair grounds, outside the city limits. Although he emphasized that only the governor could stop martial law and that he had given no sign of doing so, it was announced that Olson would have an important announcement to make at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Employers who have refused to deal with the union leadership because they believed it was led by communists were meeting at their hotel. Now that Brown and the Dunne brothers have been removed from the immediate forefront of union leadership, some persons believed that the business men would feel more free to regard favorably the proposal for peace made by the federal mediators—Father Francis J. Haas and E. H. Dunnigan.

Mediators Optimistic.

Father Haas and Commissioner Dunnigan were unusually emphatic in pointing out to newspaper men that the employers were busy over their conference table. Both are reticent men, but they exhibited an optimism not common to their usual attitude.

The union has already agreed to terms put forward by the conciliators, which involve an election among employés and slight wage increases. The employers held out.

While the employers were meeting,

'WANT TO MAKE TEACHERS' LOAN' —JESSE JONES

Sends Hopeful Radio on School Pay.

Jesse Jones, chairman of the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation, announced last night that he would arrive in Chicago next Monday or Tuesday to consider the board of education's application for a $25,447,240 RFC loan to pay Chicago school teachers' back salaries.

"We want to make the loan," said Mr. Jones, who promised he would be here to personally study the appraisals of school board properties which will be given as security for the loan.

Mr. Jones' statement was sent to THE TRIBUNE by marine wireless from the yacht Nakhoda, owned by Fred Fisher of the Fisher Body corporation, on which he is taking a vacation cruise in Lake Superior.

Here First of Week.

"I expect to be in Chicago on Monday or Tuesday," Mr. Jones said, "for the purpose of considering the proposed school board loan for payment of teachers. I have been advised that appraisals will be practically completed by then.

"Real estate loans require more time for consummation than collateral loans, but with every one interested in bringing relief to these thousands of teachers at the earliest possible moment, they and all concerned may rest assured that the Reconstruction Finance corporation will act as favorably and as promptly as the circumstances and necessary procedure will permit. We want to make the loan."

Survey Nears Completion.

Meanwhile efforts to hasten a decision on the school board's application were being made at the Chicago offices of the RFC.

F. D. Gallagher, Chicago manager of the RFC, said the survey of the school properties, the final barrier to a decision on the application, should be completed early next week. The Illinois Supreme court on Tuesday ruled that the school board can legally mortgage its property not used for educational purposes as loan security and a board survey of the property has already been submitted to the RFC.

Board of education members expect that after Mr. Jones has considered the appraisals a Washington hearing will be necessary before a decision on the application is issued.

Loan Important One.

"A loan of $25,000,000 is an extremely important one and requires long and careful preparation," Mr. Gallagher pointed out. "Nearly our entire staf and 35 additional appraisers are now working on the project.

"We are making every effort to speed it to completion. At present we have finished an analysis of the financial positions of the board of education and the city of Chicago. We are now working on an appraisal of the 130 separate parcels of school property to be mortgaged.

"Our survey will be one completely independent of the appraisal submitted with the loan application by the board of education. We want to present to Mr. Jones a full and adequate picture of the school situation."

29 Million Property Value.

The board of education survey estimated the value of the properties at $29,588,692, with additional improvements erected by tenants valued at $10,702,451. The annual revenue from the properties was reported at $850,000.

"I will confer with Mr. Jones when he comes to Chicago and we will attempt to assist him in every way possible," said Richard S. Folsom, board of education attorney, who has been pushing school loan negotiations. "Other than that there is nothing more we can do until there is a loan hearing in Washington.

"I have been studying the opinion of the Supreme court, and find that the loan program, as first designed by Mayor Kelly, has been upheld in every detail. We expect no further difficulty in our effort to obtain pay for the teachers."

Live Wire Electrocutes Man Mopping Wet Floor

Near the body was the sputtering end of a live wire. Vicocikz's wife told the police her husband had been mopping the basement floor and apparently had come in contact with the wire on the wet floor.

Three Torture Kidnapers Get 25 Year Terms

Three men were convicted by a jury last night of the torture kidnaping of Harry Welch, Toledo clothing merchant, last Jan. 14 and were immediately sentenced by Judge Donald S. McKinlay of the Criminal court to 25 years in prison. Edward Greenspan, who lives at 3251 Ogden avenue, next to the tavern at No. 3253 where Welch was held prisoner, was acquitted.

Those found guilty were Rudolph Pisani, 30 years old, 2316 Washington boulevard; Arthur Sway, 23 years old, 1337 West 13th street, and Allan Siegal, 30 years old, of the Diversey Arms hotel, 944 Diversey parkway.

The jury deliberated three hours and ten minutes. After the verdict was returned, fixing the penalty at 25 years' imprisonment for three of the men, Defense Attorneys William Scott Stewart and Samuel Hoffman moved for a new trial.

Grant Stay for Appeal.

Judge McKinlay overruled the motion, but allowed a 30 day stay of mittimus for the perfection of an appeal.

In closing arguments yesterday afternoon Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney and Gordon Nash demanded the death penalty for all four defendants. Counsel for Greenspan had presented ten character witnesses who testified he had always enjoyed a reputation as a law-abiding citizen while in the automobile business. There was no defense testimony presented by the others.

Welch, who was not in court when the verdict was returned, had testified to the abduction and subsequent torture by means of a red hot hammer applied to his chest, to force him to pay $2,000 ransom money. He had come to Chicago on business, Welch testified, and met Siega. The latter enticed him to the basement of the saloon, where the others first threatened him with guns unless he paid the ransom.

Burned with Hot Hammer.

When he demurred they applied the heated hammer.

Welch finally telephoned his mother in Toledo. She became alarmed when he burst into tears and notified police, who trailed Siegal and made the arrest. A few hours before this Welch had escaped when taken to a restaurant to eat. Subsequent investigation implicated Pisani in a $1,000,000 arson ring.

At the request of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney Toledo police are investigating three death threats made to Welch's family. He is under police guard here.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT DUE IN U. S. TODAY; SHIP REDUCES SPEED

ABOARD CRUISER NEW ORLEANS, Accompanying President Roosevelt, En Route to Astoria, Ore., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Ahead of its schedule on the Honolulu-Portland run, the cruiser Houston slowed down at noon today for a leisurely run into the Columbia river by tomorrow afternoon, to bring President Roosevelt back to the American mainland after his long circle of American territories and possessions, both Atlantic and Pacific.

Intermittent fog and rain were encountered by the Houston in its cruise toward the American shore line, which was less than 300 miles away. The fog horns on both the Houston and the New Orleans sounded frequently.

The President will make a brief halt at Astoria tomorrow night while the New Orleans says farewell as his escort ship. Newspaper men and secret service operatives will transfer there to the Houston for the overnight voyage up the Columbia and Willamette rivers to Portland.

Counting on his return to Washington by Aug. 10, the President will not linger in the Oregon metropolis, but will leave almost immediately to inspect the Boneville and the Grand Coulee projects on the Columbia river. It now appears likely he will spend next Sunday in Glacier National park in northern Montana.

Cody's Kitchen Wares Sold at Bargain Prices

Beverly Hills, Cal., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Piece by piece the possessions of the late Lew Cody, screen actor, went under the auctioneer's hammer today as a crowd of 600, most of them curious sightseers, jammed the home and grounds.

The big, rambling English Norman home of Cody on North Maple drive got a bid of $15,010—$10 more than the minimum the auctioneer said would be acceptable. The house, originally built for Pauline Frederick at a cost of $50,000, has two mortgages against it totaling $15,000.

Roberta M. Love was the successful bidder for the house, but when it came time to sign the papers, it developed she was unable to post immediately the 10 per cent deposit on the mansion, so it remained in the hands of the administrator, and will be offered again.

Autos Sold Cheaply.

One of the costly six cylinder English make autos went for only $160, while a new American make small machine was sold for $394. Another big roadster brought $830.

The auctioneer, Dean S. Bedilion, went into the kitchen, opened a window, and sold pots, pans, egg beaters, custard cups, and soup ladles over the sill to the crowd outside.

"This kettle, here——" Bedilion shouted. "Just think— a screen star and his wife, the beautiful Mabel Normand, heated water in this kettle for their afternoon tea. How much, how little am I bid for this rare treasure?"

Buys Turkey Roaster.

A woman thought it was worth 50 cents and went away with it under her arm. Mrs. J. E. O'Brien bought a turkey roaster for $1.35, but said she bid on it not so much for its sentimental as its practical value.

Mrs. C. A. Larson of Westwood paid 5 cents apiece for 18 small pie pans. A meat chopper the actor employed in preparing his raw hamburger sandwiches was sold for $1.90.

Cody's suits sold at $5 each and a $125 overcoat went for $5. The hot weather killed any sales on the actor's many pairs of spats.

Norman Kerry Complains.

Norman Kerry, movie actor, close friend of Cody, complained to the auctioneer that a woman bidder took for 80 cents a hat Kerry said he paid $15 for as a present for Cody. Some two dozen other hats brought $1 each.

A platinum watch studded with numerous small diamonds, valued at more than $1,000, was sold for $200. It was a 1926 Christmas present from Miss Normand, and bore the inscription, "Lew, I love you. Mabel."

Small jewelry such as shirt studs, cuff links, and the like went for a fraction of their value.

Huey's Troops Outnumbered; Police Mobilize

New Orleans, La., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Outnumbered three to one by New Orleans police, Huey Long and his army were forced to crawfish a bit tonight. About half the 600 guardsmen called out at the senator's behest by Gov. O. K. Allen were being demobilized after a day of tension in which it appeared real war might flare at any moment.

Nearly 1,500 police had been mobilized by Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, who today called Kingfish Long a "rat" and some other choice names. The police are armed with pistols, rifles, and riot guns. This action followed the establishment of machine gun emplacements in the windows of the registry office by the senator's state troops and the setting up of other nests on the second floor of the Lafayette hotel, so that the entrance to the city hall was under the muzzles of the weapons from two sides.

Guardsmen "Not Needed."

Shortly after the mayor had instructed Police Chief George Reyer to swear in 500 additional policemen, Adj. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming announced that he had dismissed about half of the guardsmen called out because "they are not needed." There were four detachments quartered at Jackson barracks, standing under full equipment, ready for action at any instant.

Mayor Walmsley's determined stand to prevent usurpation of the city government was credited, however, with the partial demobilization.

"We are just going to keep as many men on duty as are necessary," Gen. Fleming said. "We can get others out at a moment's notice, anyhow. We might even let some more men go tomorrow."

Gov. Allen today left New Orleans to return to his capital at Baton Rouge, leaving the closely guarded Huey Long in command of the troops from his headquarters in the Roosevelt hotel.

The state troops were called Monday night by Huey's orders to seize and hold the registry office, where the records of all persons eligible to vote in the September congressional primaries are kept.

Business Men Protest Situation.

While state and city maneuvered their forces in this battle of intimidation and coercion, leading business men of New Orleans were meeting quietly for the purpose of adopting strong resolutions protesting against armed demonstrations. Officers and members of the leading commercial and civic bodies were meeting to demand that the state troopers be removed and that the 500 emergency policemen be recalled.

Gov. Allen tonight extended his martial law proclamation to cover the restricted red light district. He directed the adjutant general to "determine who, if any, is collecting from inhabitants of the district and for what officials."

A later order by Gov. Allen instructed the troops to check gambling in New Orleans.

Usurpation, Says Mayor.

This dictum was answered quickly by Mayor Walmsley. "The proclamation of the governor evidently is designed to usurp powers, duties, and functions of the district attorney," he declared. "I particularly note that the governor excludes any investigation of graft and paid-for operation of gambling dives in the parishes surrounding New Orleans."

An amusing sidelight to the situation, and one which attracted an immense crowd to one of the busiest corners in New Orleans, was caused by the challenge of Leslie M. Watson, a prominent broker, for Senator Long to meet him, guarded by his militia, and "discuss the issues."

Mr. Watson, who is a brother-in-law of Mayor Walmsley, remained on the corner for quite a while. The crowd cheered him, but Senator Long did not leave his closely guarded quarters in the Roosevelt hotel.

It was announced late this afternoon that police shifts had been cut from three to two, and that all officers and men on vacation had been recalled.

HITLER ASSUMES PRESIDENCY OF GERMAN NATION

BULLETIN.

NEUDECK, Germany, Aug. 2—(Thursday)—(AP)—President Von Hindenburg died at 4 a. m. today (Chicago time). The president's death was indicated to correspondents by the disappearance of the house flag from the flagstaf.

Death came to the 86 year old leader of the German people and former war marshal after a valiant fight against a complication of ailments.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Aug. 2 (Thursday).—(AP)—Chancellor Adolph Hitler assumed the presidency of Germany today upon the death of President Paul von Hindenburg.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—[Thursday.]—President Paul von Hindenburg, nearing the end of his last great battle, clung tenaciously early today to a slender thread of life. Shortly after midnight friends of the "grand old man" of Germany reported that he was without pain and did not recognize his surroundings.

Physicians attending the 86 year old warrior at his estate at Neudeck, East Prussia, expressed amazement at the powers of resistance he was showing. They said he might linger on for "some time." They held out no hope, however, for the president's eventual recovery.

At one time during the night it had been announced that Von Hindenburg was in his death agony and that the end was very near. Shortly after this announcement he rallied, but did not come out of the coma.

Hitler Visits President.

The nation was plunged into grief when it became clear that Von Hindenburg had no chance to survive. The president's home is closely guarded and no one is allowed to approach except members of his family and the highest officials.

One visitor yesterday was Chancellor Hitler, who flew to Marienburg from Berlin and then rushed to Neudeck by automobile. He was in the president's home for an hour and a quarter. The chancellor returned to Berlin by air last night. He appeared to be worn and worried.

The cabinet met late last night, but the result of its discussion was kept secret.

It was learned from Neudeck that while Hitler was at Von Hindenburg's bedside the president's son Oscar, Prof. Sauerbruch and three other doctors were present.

President's Mind Blurs.

For a few minutes it appeared that the president had full possession of his faculties, but then his mind seemed to blur. How long Von Hindenburg and Hitler were able to converse is not clearly known yet. Hitler said the president had shaken hands with him.

Most of Von Hindenburg's family is at his bedside. Among those present, in addition to his son, Oscar, aged 51, are his daughter-in-law, who was Marguerite Freiin von Marenholtz, and his daughter, Frau Joachim von Bruckhusen, 53. No mention is made of his other daughter, Frau Christian von Pentz, 42, though she may have arrived unobserved.

Everything is quiet in the palace, which was built beside the old homestead of the Von Hindenburgs with money collected in the days of the German republic for the president's 80th birthday. From the windows of the sickroom may be seen the forests and low sloping hills of the large estate which was presented to him and his heirs by the Prussian premier, Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, less than a year ago.

Nation Will Pray Today.

A representative of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE strolled past the low roofed ancestral home of the Von Hindenburgs, in which the caretaker of the estate now lives. Secret police officers stopped the representative and politely but most firmly recommended his immediate return to the nearby town of Freystadt. No loiterers are allowed near Neudeck, he was told. Black uniformed Schutzstaffel guards [Hitler's hand picked army of bodyguards] and local police in the background lent power to the polite request.

Germany's national bishop, Dr. Ludwig Mueller, ordered all Protestant churches to throw open their doors today. In services to be held in honor of the memories of the world war dead, the pastors will also pray for Von Hindenburg.

It seemed a strange coincidence that on the 20th anniversary of the outbreak of the great war the man who led the nation in that conflict should be dying. It was on Aug. 1, 1914, that Germany formally declared war on Russia and ordered the mobilization of its troops. On Aug. 2, 1914, hostilities began with the German occupation of Luxemburg.

A controversy broke out yesterday over where the national hero should be buried.

Hanover, which gave the Von Hindenburg family a vault in its cemetery when the president's wife died there, now insists upon its right to give a last resting place for the former field marshal beside her. Hanover feels that it gave the president a home in the darkest days of his life after the war, when he seemed to have no friends left. Hanover believes that he would now want his earthly remains interred near the grave he helped choose for his life's companion.

East Prussia, which Von Hindenburg saved in the days of the world war, wants him to rest either near the monument to the battle of Tannenberg or in the beautiful chapel of the Knights of the Teutonic order in the castle of Marienburg. There he would rest together with the brave men who conquered and christianized vast stretches of land on the south shore of the Baltic sea.

Mystery Veils Hitler Visit.

FREYSTADT, East Prussia, Aug. 1.—Mystery shrouds Chancellor Hitler's bedside visit to President Paul von Hindenburg.

The chancellor and a big retinue arrived at Marienburg from Berlin this morning. Among those in the huge plane were Dr. Ernst Hanfstaengl, chief of the Anglo-American section of the Nazi publicity department, who has just returned from the United States; Dr. Otto Meissner, Von Hindenburg's secretary of state; Capt. Brueckner von Staub, Hitler's personal aid; his own photographer, Hoffmann; secretaries, and staf guards.

The airfield at Marienburg is close to the beautiful castle of the Knights of the Teutonic Order, which towers on a steep hill over the Vistula close to the spot where Napoleon and his grand army crossed the river on the way to Russia.

When the plane landed Hitler and his suite immediately rushed to a fleet of nine high powered open motor cars awaiting them. Hitler took his customary seat beside the driver in the first car. The retinue of picked Schutzstaffel men who were guarding the field piled into more cars and the cavalcade roared through the peaceful and sunny countryside. The hefty guardsmen, their faces shining with health, were a striking contrast to Hitler, pale and obviously tired and strained.

Inhabitants Cheer Hitler.

During the long drive from Marienburg to Neudeck, Hitler was greeted with cheers from the inhabitants of the small towns and villages, who had lined the streets since 8 o'clock this morning. At 5:30 a. m. Schutzstaffel men had begun moving into all the towns and hamlets to be ready for the moment when Hitler's cavalcade would whisk by.

Early this morning a group of six high secret police officials had arrived at Freystadt to prepare for eventualities and to prevent news of the president's possible demise leaking out prematurely.

Hitler's car passed through Freystadt about 1:15 p. m. on the way to Neudeck and returned at 3 p. m. During that time he had been at Von Hindenburg's bedside, had lunched, and had rested near by at the beautiful castle Finkenstein of his friend, Count Dohna.

Since Monday Neudeck has been hermetically sealed off from the rest of the world. Yesterday it was still possible to hire cars to drive past the Von Hindenburg estate. Today car owners were forbidden to drive past the castle, which is separated from the road by an apple orchard and park.

Doctor Describes Condition.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

NEUDECK, East Prussia, Aug. 1.—The country practitioner whom President von Hindenburg personally called in to join the specialists expressed the opinion tonight that the president's remarkable heart may hold out for another day.

"The condition of the reichspresident is very, very serious," said the physician, Dr. Riets, "but he may survive the night. He possesses an unusually healthy heart, although it is becoming weaker.

"The president sleeps most of the time and is very weak. He cannot eat anything. His stomach turns against all nourishment, and his mind is wandering increasingly."

Asked whether any surgical operation was contemplated, Dr. Riets replied:

"Nothing of the kind will be done because it would not help. It would be quite different if the president were two years younger. There is no chance for him now."

Says He Recognized Hitler.

Dr. Riets said Von Hindenburg recognized Chancellor Hitler immediately when the latter visited him today.

"Ach, Herr Reichskanzler," he said the president exclaimed as Hitler came to his bedside, but soon thereafter dropped off to sleep again.

The heavy guard remained about the president's estate tonight.

When the Associated Press correspondent attempted to drive to the estate a Schutz Staffel guard stopped his taxi, as had been done last night.

Von Hindenburg Recalled as a Hard Fighter, But 'He Had a Heart' and Was a Gentleman

Mr. Bennett was The Chicago Tribune's correspondent with the German armies, prior to entrance of the United States into the world war. He learned to know President Von Hindenburg well. Here are some of his reminiscences of those days of battle and bloodshed.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

As man, as soldier, as statesman, Von Hindenburg was rock-bottomed on equanimity.

Throughout Germany the story still runs that only twice during the war did he lose his temper.

Once that happened when the enveloping movement which he had planned for the capture of Warsaw failed because of Austrian delays.

That movement was planned on a huge scale but with mathematical precision. Its military and economic purposes were the taking of the Polish metropolis and the opening of the Vistula to trafic, and the humane element in it lay in the intention that both those purposes should be accomplished with relatively little shedding of German blood.

Unlike the ruthless Von Mackensen and Von Falkenhayn, he was always for saving man power. He had a heart. Troops were not merely troops to him. He used to call them "my boys" in a tone which, heavy as it was, likewise carried a rumbling caress.

Hindenburg's Classic Outburst.

To here epitomize very crudely the field marshal's plan, the idea was that the Austrians should move northeasterly up from Cracow and at certain hours of a certain day make contact with German forces moving southeasterly down from Danzig. A tremendous enveloping movement would thus be effected and Warsaw would fall almost automatically.

But the Austrians were late. The envelopment did not click and the whole scheme had to be revised and relaunched. The price of delay was a heavy one in time, money, and morale.

When Von Hindenburg contemplated the failure which the leisurely war making of his Austrian allies had caused he brought both fists down on his desk with an emphasis which made the inkwells send black rivulets over the maps, and he said:

"God in heaven, they have a genius for being too late!"

That was all he said, but the remark became a classic which the subsequent annals of the Hapsburg empire validated over and over again.

The Second "Blowup."

The other time the old man blew up was in 1916, when, after a ghastly expenditure of man power, Von Falkenhayn's effort to take Verdun had to be abandoned. Von Hindenburg had never approved of the project, but Von Falkenhayn was not only an imperial favorite but also a talker of extraordinary plausibility and charm. And so he went his way to ruin.

Then Von Hindenburg's eyes—usually so sleepy seeming—flashed with the yellow glare which made his gaze terrible when he was roused, and he fixed Erich von Falkenhayn's place in history with these three words:

"This adventurous amateur!"

The bungler of Verdun was never again an important figure in the world war.

Without being in any degree a courtier, the field marshal was a courtly man. Perhaps the more precise way to put it would be to say that he was extraordinarily considerate, and under all circumstances very mindful of the little amenities of life.

On one of the terrific six days of August, 1914, when he was fighting the battle of Tannenberg, a young lieutenant who had been assigned to the courier service appeared before him with dispatches. While the general was scanning them he bent a searching glance upon the courier.

"What is your name?" he asked.

Recalls an Old Comrade.

Amid activity and anxiety such as no soldier had faced since Wellington stood on the northern slopes of the field of Waterloo the mind of Von Hindenburg—he was then 67 years old—leaped back nearly half a century and he mused:

"'Thalberg,' 'Thalberg'—I had a comrade of that name at cadet school."

"He was my father, your excellency."

"So! You will dine with me tonight."

In the holidays of 1914-'15 his headquarters were the royal castle in Posen. When his wife came to Posen to spend the holidays with him she was not permitted to live in the castle, that being a wartime rule.

Hence the field marshal would go down to the Gasthaus Stadt Rom, where she was domiciled, to visit with her, and sometimes he would dine with her there in the public dining room.

That gave us correspondents opportunity to study his countenance and his ways at close range. As he was the least self-conscious of men, he seemed—and no doubt was—oblivious of the fact that he was being studied, and we used to think we were getting the real man, a man incapable of attitudinizing.

A Contrast with ex-Kaiser.

As for the emperor, whom we got very rare opportunities to study at close range—only two in my case—my colleagues felt that he was always attitudinizing, always play acting emperor instead of being emperor.

Von Hindenburg's manner in conversation was energetic, but never spectacular. To his wife and to officers who sat with him at table he talked little, but fluently when he did talk, and with sufficient animation to hold up his end. Deep though his voice was, the tone was not loud, and even diners at nearby tables would not so much hear words as a rich, leisurely rumble.

Sometimes he would make the tableful laugh, and when he did that he would laugh, too, but in an abstracted, almost a sad way. It was tolerant laughter, not the laughter of merriment. It was impersonal.

But when young officers ate with him his benignity, which became a tradition in Germany early in the war, came out. Then his smile was very gentle and winning. He was like a kind old uncle to them all.

In fact, he used to call himself "the old man." When his wife's visit drew toward its close he said to the director of the hotel:

"Well, Mr. Bethmann, tomorrow this domestic life ends and the old man must go back to work."

His Idea of "Punishment."

Most puissant commander whom the war produced though he was—the most puissant and for many a terrible month on the east front the most devastating—his real dread in daily intercourse was hurting people's feelings.

Among his lesser woes was having to make a show of appreciating the sheaves of marches that were dedicated to him.

One day when a bale of forty new ones was laid before him he rumbled:

"I should like to get all these composers into the castle yard while all the regimental bands play all their compositions at once!"

He spoke half in despair and half in fun and was grieved when the person to whom he made the remark gave it to the newspapers.

"Now," he said, "that will make me seem to make light of the compliments which these gentlemen have paid me."

The general was not incapable of a joke, and his most famous wartime joke was a gem of subtlety. Somebody—perhaps it was volatile Gen. Count Bernhardi, who was quartered in Posen at the same time the field marshal was and who would ask anybody anything—asked him what he thought of the Russian generals as strategists.

"I don't know that I can say," he replied. "You see, I know them only"—and here he used the German word flüchtig, which in its various shadings can be translated not only "fleetingly" or "superficially," but also "as fugitives" or, as we might say, "on the run."

But the lion's expression was altogether guileless as he spoke the word.

Empire Takes Up Joke.

The beautiful double entendre was caught up by the whole empire and was done over into this rhyme:

"Sind denn," war Hindenburg gefragt,
"Die Russen Feldherrn tüchtig?"
"Ich weiss nicht," hat der Held gesagt,
"Ich kenne sie nur flüchtig."

For hours on end this man would seem like a sleepy old lion, especially when he was sitting to the portrait painters.

But, be assured, he always knew not only what he was about but also what was going on all about him for many a league, and he knew those things in minute detail.

One morning in Posen he was sitting to Prof. Karl Ziegler, a painter whom he admired, not, perhaps, so much for his art—though it was fine—as for his genius for silence.

"A dark day, Herr Professor," mused the general to the painter, then shook himself out of abstraction and added with gusto, "but it is clear weather where my guns are!"

He referred to a position in front of Bolimow, and wind swept, snow banked Bolimow was ten hours by fast auto from Posen.

In short, vast as were his operations, he had a mind for minutiæ. His mind worked both ways. Vastness of conceptions did not make him discount the value of minutiæ, and minutiæ did not blur the vastness of his conceptions.

Considered All Details.

The state of the weather at the front, the condition of the roads leading out of little Polish towns and across the Rawka, the health of the troops, the position of certain Russian guns beyond the Rawka, and the execution done by two 30 centimeter Austrian guns flanking the high road leading into Bolimow were better known in all their details and angles to the old man sitting to the painter in the quiet studio than they were to us correspondents who that morning were plunging through the snow to see the Austrian guns at work and who were picking up cartridge shells on the Rawka bridge.

His foresight struck veteran officers as uncanny.

Officers arriving on the scene hours before a shot was fired in the battle of Tannenberg observed the concentration of forty railroad trains in and around one town which was a key point of the railway system for miles around.

Trains for the "Prisoners."

"What are those trains for?" asked the newcomers.

"For the prisoners," was the reply of other officers who for many hours had been working out Von Hindenburg's preparations for the encirclement of the Russian host advancing under Samsonov.

"Good God, is his excellency mad!" exclaimed the newcomers — "Forty railroad trains for prisoners that may not be taken in a battle not yet fought."

But in a few days the victor of Tannenberg needed those trains. Without them he would have had on his conscience the scandal of thousands of prisoners starving to death.

And yet the man who thus foresaw was also the man who, amid the rigors of one of the most colossal military movements in all history, could pause to say to a young lieutenant, "You will dine with me tonight."

VON HINDENBURG A PATRIOT ALL OF HIS LIFETIME

Germany Saved from Four Crises by His Strength.

Paul Beneckendorff und von Hindenburg, veteran of three wars, field marshal of an empire, president of a republic, affected the life of a nation as few other men have done. He was the supreme German patriot, a loyal soldier from the time he left his small east Prussian home at the age of 11 to enter a school for cadets until he died as president of Germany, a span of three-quarters of a century.

Duty to country—and to kaiser when there was a kaiser—was the keynote of Hindenburg's life. Four times he came to his country's aid.

In 1914 he led the German armies to the rout of the Russian invaders and later in the war constructed the "Hindenburg line" which so long held the allies at bay. In November, 1918, he led his defeated and demoralized soldiers home, saving the country from being overrun by uniformed marauders.

Goes to Aid of Young Republic.

In 1925 he went to the rescue of a young republic, beset by menaces of communism and Fascism. Taking his stand as president he proclaimed his determination to serve only the nation. In 1933 Hindenburg turned Germany over to Hitler and Naziism, believing that in only this way could its unity and self respect be restored.

Hindenburg was born on Oct. 2, 1847, in Posen, which then was in Prussia. It is now Pozan in Poland. Hindenburg was a descendant of a family of warriors. His father was an officer of the king of Prussia. His mother was Louisa Schwickhardt, daughter of a staf physician.

Finishing his cadet years at Wahlstadt in 1866, Hindenburg entered the war against Austria and was decorated for bravery. Four years later he won the iron cross in the Franco-Prussian war. In 1873 he was made a member of the general military staf.

Weds Officer's Daughter.

He married Gertrude Wilhelmine von Sperling, daughter of a military officer, in 1879 when he was a captain. They had three children, two daughters and a son. Frau von Hindenburg died in 1921.

Hindenburg advanced steadily in the army until he became a general of infantry in 1904. He retired in 1911 at the age of 64. But on Aug. 23, 1914, he was summoned to war and with von Ludendorff drove back the Russians from the eastern border and into their own territory. On Aug. 28, 1916, Hindenburg was made field marshal and commander in chief of the German forces.

As the great war went on Germany became exhausted and after one last drive in 1918 Hindenburg knew he was through. He advised negotiations for peace on the basis of President Wilson's fourteen points. He offered his resignation to the kaiser but it was refused. When the kaiser fled, Hindenburg marched his defeated soldiers to their homes.

Though supporting the republic, Hindenburg was always faithful to the kaiser.

Elected to the Presidency.

Hindenburg came from seclusion again in 1925 as a candidate for president against former Chancellor Marx. Supported by Nationalists and conservatives, Hindenburg won and allayed the fears of the world by swearing fealty to the constitution.

During his seven year term the country's industries were rebuilt and the allied occupation of the Rhineland ended. When he ran for reëlection in 1932 against Hitler, the republicans rallied to him and he won by nearly 6 million votes.

Franz von Papen came into the limelight, believing that backed by Hindenburg—which meant the army—he could stem the rising influence of Hitler. He was wrong and was replaced as chancellor by the late Gen. Kurt von Schleicher. Then backstairs intrigue undermined von Schleicher and Hindenburg was convinced that if Germany were to be saved he would have to submerge his scorn and distrust of Hitler. He gave Hitler the chancellorship on Jan. 30, 1933.

Hindenburg's Power Wanes.

The reichstag elections gave Hitler absolute power and as he and his group spread their control Hindenburg's power waned. Republicans believed that Hindenburg had failed them in changing chancellors. Hindenburg thought, however, that he had safely checked and balanced Naziism by insisting on the presence of Von Papen and other Junkers and Nationalists in Hitler's cabinet.

The Nazis, however, suppressed all parties but their own. Strife developed in their ranks and the "bloody purge" resulted. Hindenburg's last days were clouded with the realization of a conflict beyond his control.

OVERNIGHT AIR LINER ACROSS U. S. FLIES ON TIME

BY HARRY A. LAIRD.

[Traffic Manager of The Tribune.]

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 2 [Thursday].—[Special.]—The initial flight of the Sky Chief, T W A, Inc., overnight airliner to fly on daily schedule from New York to Los Angeles hereafter, arrived at Kansas City promptly on schedule this morning.

Not the least interested passenger was Capt. Frank Hawks, who electrified citizens in 1929 by making a flight over the same route from daylight to dusk. Even pilots shook their heads with the remark that it was all right for a stunt, but Capt. Hawks replied: "Wait, you'll be making the trip with a load of passengers in five years." Now his prediction has come true and practically on his time.

As a guest of honor we have with us Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President.

The plane passed through Chicago last night inaugurating an 18-hour service from New York to Los Angeles. The plane left New York at 4:24 Eastern standard time, arriving here at 9 o'clock Chicago time. It was to reach Los Angeles shortly after 7 a. m., Pacific time, today, which is 10 a. m. eastern standard time.

BELGIUM HEARS ZITA AND OTTO MAY BE IN ITALY

BRUSSELS, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Reports that former Empress Zita of Austria and her son, Archduke Otto, claimant to the Hapsburg throne, have left for Italy have persisted here for several days but could not be confirmed.

These reports said that Zita and Otto are now residing with the Bourbon-Parma family. Officials connected with the household of the former empress declined to make any statement saying that the head of the Hungarian legitimists at Budapest alone is authorized to speak.

In Belgian official quarters it was said that all Zita's children except Otto and the eldest daughter are at Wenduyne, a Belgian seacoast resort.

SON CONVICTED DESPITE PLEA OF LAWYER MOTHER

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 1.—(AP)—A dramatic court fight to save her own son from a burglary conviction was lost today by Mrs. Catherine A. McKenna, criminal lawyer.

After a brisk attack on prosecution evidence, Mrs. McKenna stood tearfully before the jury of nine women and three men and pleaded for acquittal of the son, James McKenna, 23, a carpenter, charged with burglarizing a Compton house last April to steal plumbing fixtures.

The jury, however, convicted McKenna and his co-defendant, Lawrence Koverman. They are to be sentenced tomorrow.

AUSTRIA HANGS THIRD NAZI IN CLEANUP DRIVE

Shot Police Commandant at Innsbruck.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Aug. 1.—A law court and a gallows, a church and a graveyard furnished the setting of further liquidation of last week's sanguine Nazi putsch in Austria today.

Friedrich Wurnig, Nazi fanatic who shot and killed Police Captain Franz Hickl of Innsbruck July 25, about the same time that the Nazis were slaying Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss in Vienna, was condemned to death by an Innsbruck court martial this afternoon and he died at the end of a rope—the third death penalty in two days—at 8 o'clock tonight.

Christian Meyer, an electrician and also a Nazi adherent who aided Wurnig in the shooting was sentenced to 20 years hard labor by the military court. It is believed Meyer escaped the death penalty by giving the police information about the Nazis.

Bury 3 Victims in Vienna.

Capt. Hickl was shot at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon as he was entering the Innsbruck police station. His shooting was part of a general Nazi uprising planned for July 25. As his assassins were condemned today Hickl's funeral was held in Vienna about the same time. Policemen Kaufmann and Fluch, who were killed when the Nazi gang stormed the Vienna radio station Wednesday, were buried along with Hickl.

Paul Hubl, third in command of the Nazi raid on the Ballhausplatz chancellery Wednesday gained another day's grace when the military court postponed his hearing, scheduled for today, until tomorrow morning.

Another Vienna court also sent a carpenter, Emil Paukner, to prison for five years tonight for possessing a Nazi uniform, badges, two pistols, and six pounds of dynamite. Paukner admitted that he was a Nazi, but said he had forgotten to throw the ammunition away.

Pray at Dollfuss Church.

While these scenes were being enacted in Vienna and the provinces, picturesque and pathetic ceremonies were taking place in the little church at Kirnberg and Der Mank, a small village 30 miles from Vienna near where Dollfuss was born. In the small church where he was christened, a requiem mass was said today attended by the aged mother and father and boyhood peasant friends, as well as several members of the government.

The first monument to Dollfuss will be consecrated Sunday when Cardinal Innitzer opens a small church at Hohenwand, in lower Austria. It will be known as Dollfuss chapel.

Suspected of being an intermediary last Wednesday in the plot between Austrian Nazi conspirators and the Hitlerites, Herr von Hahn, chief correspondent of the Deutsche Nachrichten bureau in Vienna, was sought by the police tonight. His house was searched, but he was not found. Police say he has taken refuge in the German legation here to escape arrest.

Makes Bid to Socialists.

The government of Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, new chancellor, today made peace overtures to the Social Democrats and the workers of Austria and deferred until next week a decision whether to accept Franz von Papen as Chancellor Adolf Hitler's minister to Austria. The delay on Von Papen, however, may only be a wish to wait until it is seen whether President Paul von Hindenburg succumbs to his illness, in which case new conditions might be imposed.

It is hinted that as a conciliation move to gain over the Socialists, vanquished by artillery in last February's fighting, Schuschnigg is planning to grant a general amnesty to all imprisoned Socialists in order to strengthen his hands for a ruthless fight against the Nazis.

The government organ, the Reichspost, this morning came out with an eulogistic article praising "the loyalty of the workers" and thanking them for not taking advantage of the government's position last week when it was beset by Nazis to join the latter in the uprising.

The Reichspost points out that the Nazis thought that upon news of their putsch whole armies of workers would join them and that this did not turn out to be so.

Keep Pay from Nazis.

In order to weed out Nazis from government bureaus and offices orders were issued today to withhold the pay of all employés of the government suspected of having Nazi leanings. Even Dr. Anton Rintelen, minister to Rome, who is still in a precarious position as a result of self-inflicted wounds, was docked one-third of his pay and so were Police Commissioners Steinhausl and Gotzman, who have been relieved of their functions for Nazi sympathies.

Police announced today that any one circulating rumors and unfounded stories damaging to the government would immediately be arrested.

It was said tonight Chancellor Schuschnigg will make an early journey to Rome to confer with Mussolini. This likely will be a substitute for the conference which Dollfuss was to have had with Mussolini during a week's visit to Riccione.

Reports reaching here from Belgrade tonight said that the number of Nazi rebels who engaged in fighting in Carinthia along the border and then escaped to Jugo-Slavia are now estimated at 3,000. Belgrade is wondering how to feed them and what to do with them."

Merry Fahrney Parker-Pickering Sued for Bill

Suit to collect $690 from Merry Fahrney Parker-Pickering, twice divorced Oak Park heiress, for items which she purchased on her charge account and allegedly failed to pay for was filed yesterday in Circuit court by Saks Fifth Avenue company, 840 North Michigan avenue. The bill, according to the suit, was incurred between April and September, 1933, and includes 10 hats, 9 pairs of shoes, and 32 pairs of hosiery besides dresses and other wearing apparel. Merry returned recently from Hollywood after a brief appearance in the movies.

TWO BALLOONS STILL ALOFT IN NATIONAL RACE

Three Entries Down in Georgia.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Three of the balloons in the national elimination race came down in Georgia today while the remaining two entries were reported still in the air making slow progress in a southeasterly direction.

The landing of the Goodyear VIII. near Hereut 11:30 a. m. central standard time was followed by the descent of the U. S. army entry No. 2 near Covington, Ga., 40 miles southeast of Atlanta, and the Buffalo Courier-Express bag at Mansfield, Ga., 10 miles southeast of Covington.

Drop into Cornfield.

Former Lieuts. Karl L. Lange and Verner L. Smith dropped the Goodyear VIII. into a cornfield on the outskirts of Atlanta. Their landing was followed next by the army entry No. 2 piloted by Lieuts. Haynie McCormick and J. P. Kirkendall at 3:50 p. m., in a pine thicket near Covington. Pilots George Hineman and Milford Vanik landed in a cotton patch at Mansfield at 4:10 p .m.

All the landings were without incident. The pilots of the army No. 2 bag and the Buffalo Courier-Express bag said they remained in sight of each other practically all day. The pilots of these balloons were delayed in reaching a telephone and it was several hours before their landings were reported. They remained to supervise packing the bags for shipment to their home bases and later started by motor for Atlanta to rest before returning home.

Army vs. Navy Now.

The grounded balloons apparently were out of the race as the army No. 1 entry, piloted by Capt. William J. Flood with Lieut. R. R. Gillespie, and the navy bag, piloted by Lieut. Charles H. Kendall with Lieut. H. T. Orville as aid, were believed still in the air.

Early tonight two balloons were reported sighed over Candler and Almo, Ga., several miles farther from Birmingham, the starting point, than the three bags which landed.

MAN'S BEGINNING TRILLION YEARS AGO, SAYS SAVANT

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The discovery that blood serum of old world monkeys is more closely related to man's than that of new world monkeys was announced today by Dr. Solly Zuckerman, Oxford zoölogist who has just completed two years of research work at Yale university. The announcement has bearing on the riddle of evolution, for it confirms the belief that man is enormously older than had been supposed, and tends to push man's beginnings on earth far back—perhaps to Oligocene times a trillion years ago.

Dr. Zuckerman briefly described his new findings today during a discussion at the Congress of Anthropological and Ethnological Sciences, which is being attended by 1,000 delegates from 42 countries.

Scientists have known that anthropoid apes of the old world, such as chimpanzees, have the same groups of blood cells as man and that in this respect apes differ from old world and new world monkeys. Now Dr. Zuckerman has found the additional fact that serum proteins in the blood of old world apes and monkeys are related to each other and to man's but not to those of new world monkeys. Such a sharp cleavage suggests that the whole old world group split off in incredibly distant times from a common stock, which presumably also gave origin to the new world monkeys.

Girl Fugitives from State Hospital Smash Windows

Two girls, who said they had escaped from the state hospital for the insane at Elgin on Sunday, were held by the Marquette police last night after they had broken five plate glass windows in stores in the vicinity of Sacramento avenue and Roosevelt road. The girls, who were clad in shorts and blouses, identified themselves as Dorothy Brazo, 16 years old, and Frances Blakely, 17, and said their homes were in Danville, Ill. They broke the windows by flinging a suitcase against them.

Giggles in Court

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The novel and poetry writing movie actress, Elissa Landi, giggled in court today as her mother, Countess Zinardi Landi, testified as a defense witness in the trial of the $11,000 suit brought against the actress by a theatrical agency seeking commissions.

Asked by Ralph Blum, the agency's lawyer, whether she had discussed the case with any one before the trial, the countess replied:

"Not any more than your clients have, Mr. Blum."

This greatly amused Miss Landi and she giggled along with other spectators.

Countess Landi said Harry Cohn, Columbia Pictures executive, warned her daughter not to let those "flesh peddlers queer the picture." This remark, said the countess, was made in connection with negotiations for Miss Landi to appear in a Columbia picture.

Elsie Janis, the stage comedienne, told how she brought about a contract between Miss Landi and Cohn.

MATE DIVORCES DAUGHTER OF PROF. W. E. DODD

George Bassett Roberts, New York banker, was granted a divorce yesterday from Martha Dodd Roberts, only daughter of Prof. William E. Dodd, formerly with the University of Chicago and now ambassador to Germany, according to word received from Reno.

They were married secretly March 14, 1932, and news of the ceremony was not made known until last November. Mrs. Roberts was in Europe at that time, having left with her mother and father in July, 1933, after Prof. Dodd's appointment as ambassador. She is now in London.

HITLER REPORTED READY TO MAKE SELF PRESIDENT

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—Adolf Hitler intends to be both president and chancellor of Germany, one of his close friends told the Associated Press today.

If President von Hindenburg dies, the informant said, Hitler would call the cabinet together and read a brief law concentrating all power to himself as president and chancellor.

"The whole thing will take but a few minutes," he said, "for the cabinet will, of course, indorse the proposal. It will simplify Hitler's whole work immensely if he need not first ask somebody whether he may do this or that."

Law Calls for an Election.

Under the constitution Dr. Erwin Bumke, president of the Supreme court, would become acting president until an election was held to choose a successor.

"All that has been taken care of," was the terse statement of the propaganda bureau on the matter of succession. To many observers this indicated the stage has been set for Hitler.

If such are the plans of Hitler, the time is speedily approaching when Germany's enigma, the reichswehr [regular army] will have to uncover itself. It has long been devoted to Von Hindenburg, Germany's world war hero.

Men who know the spirit of the Reichswehr say it is possible Hitler would not have such smooth sailing if he seated himself in Von Hindenburg's chair.

Ever since 1919, it was pointed out, the Reichswehr has adamantly refused to become the football of politics. The army was the chief instrument of the president, while police were the agency of political cabinets.

Foresee Unlimited Powers.

To place the Reichswehr under Hitler, the head of a political government and a political party, friends of the army say, would mean an about face on a policy carefully nurtured as an heritage of the army for 15 years.

Hitler's powers would become unlimited. They would include that of removing men like Gen. Werner von Fritsch, chief of staf of the army, who is said not to be in accord with Nazi policies.

Various German legal minds said it was uncertain which of two sets of emergency decrees takes precedence over the other. The Reichstag on March 23, 1933, voted wide powers to the Hitler government, but these powers in no way touched the rights or the office of the president.

Grants Wider Powers.

On Jan. 30, 1934, the Reichstag gave even wider powers, including that of granting the cabinet right to change the constitution.

Whether the right to change the constitution means that a constitutional amendment of 1932 providing for service of the Supreme court president can be thrown aside was a question legal circles debated.

Legal opposition would, however, remain a mere paper protest, as Hitler holds power enough through police, the Schutzstaffel [picked guards] and the Storm Troops to stamp out such opposition.

The Reichswehr, on the other hand, would have the physical power to enforce any opposition it might feel. Therefore upon the Reichswehr, which hitherto at least has rendered lip service to Hitler, would depend his chances of success were he to make himself president.

War Vets Back Hitler.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—While President von Hindenburg, Germany's most prominent soldier, was fighting his last battle, the Association of German War Veterans issued a proclamation to the German people which said:

"Our former unknown comrade today is der fuehrer [the leader, Hitler] of the German people. Hitler gave the fatherland back to us soldiers. We thank him for this, and especially for the confidence he placed in us.

"Germany's future depends upon the readiness of our countrymen to bear arms to defend the country. We old soldiers know war, and therefore want peace. We want peace of a kind that Hitler repeatedly offered the other nations — peace with honor, liberty, strength, and equal rights."

The proclamation did not mention Von Hindenburg.

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—All the existing world's records for seaplane flight—all previously held abroad—were toppled like ninepins here today as the giant Sikorsky S-42, the Brazilian clipper, carrying a full transport load, and with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in charge for Pan American Airways, flew 1,242.8 miles at an average speed of 157.5 miles an hour. Eight world marks were shattered by impressive margins. The two other official ones had already been won by the plane in previous test flights.

As Edwin C. Musick, chief pilot of the air line, who was at the controls throughout the flight, sent the four engined flying boat over a course of 311 miles which included Manhattan's river front, Long Island sound and the Atlantic ocean it was evident history was being written for American aviation.

Set 5-Sided Course.

Starting at the Stratford lighthouse, the course ran through 5 control points, George Washington bridge, Staten Island lighthouse, Fire Island lighthouse, Block Island, Point Judith lighthouse and back to the starting point.

The elapsed time for the flight was 7 hours, 53 minutes, 58 seconds for a distance equal to that from Newfoundland to the Azores. Yet Pilot Musick used only 69 per cent of the 3,000 horse power of the four Pratt & Whitney Hornet engines streamlined into the wide silver wing. He had fuel enough for another lap when he landed. The margin of range with a mail load for any of the ocean trade routes, Atlantic or Pacific, by way of the islands, had been amply proved.

Cruising speed and less than full horse power were used because the flight was an acceptance test for the air line of this craft which will cut two days' time from the run between Miami and Buenos Aires and put that South American capital within five and one-half days of New York. Strictly transport conditions prevailed during the flight.

Six Persons Aboard.

When the plane crossed the starting line against the blue of a morning sky at 9:42:38 eastern daylight time, she had only six persons aboard. They were:

Col. Lindbergh, as official representative of Pan American Airways' technical committee, of which he is chairman; Pilot Musick, Co-Pilot Boris Sergievesky, chief test pilot of the Sikorsky Aviation corporation; two flight mechanics, Chauncey Wright of the air line and Michael Pravikoff of the airplane company, and C. A. Paffe, radio operator of Pan American.

But despite the small company the load carried was equal to thirty-two passengers and 2,000 pounds of cargo.

TANK WORKER ELECTROCUTED.

Peter Knack, 40 years old, 1735 West Cullerton street, was electrocuted last night while using high voltage equipment in the Chicago Steel Tank company plant at 6600 South Narragansett avenue, Clearing, where he had been employed for 20 years.

NEW BURDEN OF NRA CODE COSTS HITS INDUSTRY

Added Millions Putting Many in Red.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Added to all the other burdensome costs the New Deal has put upon American industry comes now a new tax, running into the many millions of dollars.

Compulsory assessments are being levied upon industries to pay the costs of the code authorities organized by the NRA. While the first of these levies was put on more than two months ago, the work of computing the budgets of the code authorities has gone ahead slowly, and many industries are just now beginning to learn of the new expense the NRA is loading on them.

For the first time the burden of this huge burocracy the NRA has set up—code authorities, divisional authorities, subdivisional authorities, experts, labor advisers, lawyers—is showing up on the red ink side of the ledgers of American business. Before the next year is out the cost is expected to run far in advance of 100 million dollars. This cost is in addition to higher wage costs and heavy general taxation.

Budgets Approved for 52.

To date budgets and levies have been approved by the NRA for 52 code authorities. The total expenditures authorized to these 52 agencies range from $2,500 to $2,750,200, and in the aggregate amount to $9,691,318, an average of $186,871 per single code authority.

Applications have been filed by 141 other code authorities for permission to levy upon their industries, and the budgets they have submitted total $16,718,178, an average of $118,569 for each authority.

While these budgets have yet to be approved, an examination of those already sanctioned shows that only six were altered by the NRA, and that while three applications were reduced by officials, three others were increased above the requested amount.

If the pending applications are approved in substance the total tax upon industry in 193 codes will total $20,409,496. Many of the largest industries have not yet filed applications for budgets—such as iron and steel, automobile manufacturing, brewing, furniture manufacturing, electrical manufacturing, dress manufacturing, cloak and suit trade, and cotton textile.

All Seek to Levy Costs.

But every day the members of various code authorities are applying to the NRA for amendments to their codes to permit the levying of compulsory contributions from industry members. These are granted to most as a matter of course, and then the code authorities submit budgets of expense and suggest methods by which the industries can be taxed.

With considerably less than half of the code authorities having submitted applications, and with new codes still being approved every day, the estimate that the cost will run up to 100 million dollars a year before the end of the NRA was considered reasonable.

Of the budgets approved, the largest is that of the general contractors' code authority for $2,750,200. Despite the lethargy of the building industry, this group has been authorized to levy a tax of 1-10 of 1 per cent on the full value of all construction projects exceeding $2,000 in value.

Next largest to win NRA sanction is the $1,714,158 budget of the trucking code authority, to be raised by taxing every for-hire vehicle $3.

Decorators to Pay ½ Per Cent.

The painting, paperhanging and decorating code authority is given $630,000, with every member of the industry being compelled to pay in ½ per cent of his annual business.

Electrical contractors must give 1 per cent of their productive labor pay roll to the code authority for their industry, which plans to spend $455,624 annually.

Members of the bottled soft drink industry have to pay in $2.50 per employé, with a minimum assessment of $10, to give their code authority $111,850 for a year's service.

Among others of the larger industries whose budgets have been approved are the construction industry, whose code authority will cost $290,000; daily newspaper publishing business, $100,000; graphic arts, $634,616; hosiery, $219,169; ice, $232,600; mason contractors, $150,000; motion picture, $320,000, and retail solid fuel, $157,000.

The money will be spent to pay salaries and expenses of authority members, executive secretaries, stenographers, scientists, experts of every description, clerks and office rentals, stationery and a host of other items.

Some Have Costly Divisions.

Some authorities have divisions for each of which a separate budget is drawn. The retail automobile trade, for example, is asking a total of $2,400,678, of which the national authority would receive $129,900. Among the divisional authorities the following sum are levied: Illinois, $45,000; metropolitan Chicago, $71,364; Indiana, $67,300; Iowa, $81.100; Michigan, $125.260; Wisconsin, $60,000.

In most cases the cost of the authorities will be passed on by the members of industries to the consuming public, thus adding to the cost of living. For example, the members of the hosiery industry, forced to pay 10 cents per $100 of sales to give its code authority $219,619, are expected to add that sum to the price of hose.

Members of the ice industry are ordered to pay a total of $232,600 to the ice code authority by "contributing" 6 mills per ton of ice sold, minimum $2, plus $2 assessment for every manufacturer, plus $2 for every peddler or dealer served by the manufacturer. It is assumed these multiple costs will be paid by the consumers when they buy ice.

In the retail jewelry trade all stores must pay $1 for every employé to the national authority and an additional sum per employé, not to exceed $3, to the local authority.

It is learned that some manufacturers and others against whom these special taxes are levied have defied the NRA and are refusing to pay them on the ground that there is no constitutional authority for such taxes. In the past taxes have been levied only by direct order of congress, whereas now the NRA is levying them by burocratic fiat.

WISCONSIN GLOVE STRIKE DELAYED; FEAR VIOLENCE

Marinette, Wis., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Fearful lest there be more violence than at Kohler, J. E. Taylor, organizer for the International Glove Workers' union, told the local group here today that it has been decided not to call the Boreal company strike for the immediate present, due to the bitterness expressed when the decision to strike was made.

He told the men that "they were sure to get a square deal" from the mediation board and that the arbitration session would be prolonged a week.

A meeting of the Chicago regional labor board will be held in Chicago Aug. 8. The Boreal Manufacturing employés were told by officials to consider the disputes at the local glove factory. Meanwhile it is expected that matters will move along smoothly here.

Senator and Companion Hurt in Crash

Suffers Broken Ribs

West Port, N. Y., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Trapped on a curve of a narrow Adirondack highway, United States Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York drove his automobile over a 20 foot embankment into a mountain brook rather than collide with an oncoming car near here this morning. Senator Wagner and Representative Anning S. Prall, his only companion, were both seriously but not critically injured.

Senator Wagner sustained two fractured ribs on the right side, severe lacerations of the face and knees, and numerous body bruises. He may also have concussion of the brain. Representative Prall suffered a compound fracture of both bones of his lower right leg and lacerations of the hands and forehead.

Witnesses of the crash carried the injured men three miles to the offices of Dr. Harold J. Harris here, where both remained tonight. Dr. Harris said that both were resting comfortably and in no great pain.

The legislators were on their way north on a fishing expedition when the accident occurred.

Senator Wagner is 57. He has been in the senate eight years. He has also served as chairman of the national labor board.

Flying Leap Saves Chicago Pastor from Ocean Trip

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Father Peter Witmanski, pastor of Chicago's St. Joseph's church, saved himself an unwanted trip to Europe today by a flying leap from the deck of the sailing S. S. Washington to the severed gangplank, suspended in midair. He had taken too long to say good-by to his uncle, Bishop Peter Witmanski of Poland, who sailed on the ship.

FEDERAL PLAN FOR HOUSING HAS NEW DELAY

Mortgage Insurance Develops Slowly.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—A billion and a half dollar home modernization campaign, underwritten by the federal government, will get under way within two weeks, James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator predicted today.

The modernization program, the New Deal's second attempt to solve the unemployment riddle, will be a "selling proposition" aimed at convincing people that they should borrow money to improve their homes and give workers employment, Moffet explained.

Action to Be Delayed.

No permanent state housing organization will be set up, according to Moffett, for another six months. Within that time he hopes to set up the second phase of the housing program, the insurance of mortgages to finance new home building.

The fact that this second phase is lagging six months behind is taken by observers here as seriously crippling the recovery effects of the much vaunted program. Even if the full billion and a half dollars of modernization could be rushed through this year, it is pointed out, it would be only a small percentage of normal construction activity.

Setting up of the central housing administration, Moffett said, has been impeded by the flood of applicants for jobs. Seeking to hire only 500 persons, the housing administration has been swamped with 2,500 applications in a single hour and as many as 6,000 in a day.

Hopes to Stir Up Banks.

By mobilizing public opinion to "crack down" on banks Moffet said today he hoped to get existing financial institutions to advance the money necessary to put the modernization drive over. Questioned on the attitude of banks toward the financing of his housing program, Moffet said he thought banks could not afford to refuse construction loans if building trades, supply industries, and the public generally got behind the New Deal's latest recovery attempt.

The program, Moffet explained, provides that the new federal housing administration will guarantee 20 per cent of any modernization loan made by an approved bank or building and loan association. By thus partially insuring loans against loss the government hopes to thaw building credit.

Will Authorize Loans.

All banks in the federal reserve system, in the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, or related with the Reconstruction Finance corporation will be notified immediately that they are authorized to make modernization loans, behind which the housing corporation will automatically place a 20 per cent guarantee, Moffett said.

Rules and regulations under which these approved banks may start making the partly guaranteed loans will be mailed to them before the week is out, Moffett said. By Aug. 15, he predicted, the machinery will be set up and ready to finance modernization loans. He estimated that a billion and a half dollars of repair work could be done on the nation's homes.

BANDITS HOLD UP HOTEL.

Frank Ahern, night manager of the DuLac hotel, 3720 Lake Park avenue, was robbed of $25 early yesterday, by two bandits who forced him to take the elevator to the sixth floor as they fled.

Bedding Makers Ask U. S. Not to Compete with Them

The National Bedding Manufacturers' association forwarded yesterday to Aubrey Williams, acting director of the Federal Emergency Relief administration, a proposal to permit member manufacturers to produce matresses for relief recipients rather than to have the government enter the industry. The proposal guarantees that the cost will be only one-half as much as under the "self-help" plan, which is already under way.

"Our primary stand is that the government should not in any way add to the overproduction of these goods," said J. P. Fanning, editor of the Bedding Manufacturer. "Failing to win this point, we decided that it would help the taxpayer and perhaps the manufacturers if we were allowed to make the mattresses in our factories.

"Experience and efficiency enable us to guarantee that the costs of manufacture would be less than one-half as much as would otherwise be spent.

Project Kills Market.

"The government is furnishing 250,000 bales of cotton and 20 million yards of ticking. This latter order for ticking would keep all of the 2,100 ticking looms in the country running forty hours a week for nine months. As a result the raw material market for mattress manufacturers has also been demoralized."

To illustrate preliminary effects of the mattress making program, Mr. Fanning asserted that at the market held at High Point, N. C., recently several producers were unable to make a single sale because of the announcement of the project.

Mr. Fanning said that the government's action was increasing the losses of bedding manufacturers.

"And regardless of all this the fact is that the government is giving relief clients caviar instead of beefsteak," he declared. "The mattress I sleep on and those used by most employed people is made of cotton linters. The government is using staple cotton, costing three times as much."

Plan to Hire 3,200 in State.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that the government's mattress manufacturing program in Illinois will be on a much larger scale than was previously announced at the Illinois Emergency Relief commission headquarters.

H. F. Taylor, organizer and director of sewing projects for the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, which is coöperating with the commission, said there were to be at least 100 plants set up in this state.

There will be an average of 32 persons employed in each plant, making a total of 3,200. Women will receive a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour and men 65 cents an hour. The main plant, at 510 East 51st street, will employ 600 persons in two six hour shifts beginning Monday, and will turn out 300 hand-made mattresses a week.

"The mattresses," Mr. Taylor commented, "will be of the very best materials, and will last for 20 years."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—A decision by the national labor relations board on the NRA case against the Chicago Motor Coach company is expected tomorrow or the following day.

A finding by the board adverse to the company is indicated by the trend of its recent decisions on similar cases. The case, argued before the board on Monday, centers in the discharge of 25 workers. The company claims the men were dismissed for inefficiency, while the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employés claims they were fired in violation of the NIRA for union activity.

A finding by the board against the company probably will be accompanied by a demand that the workers be reinstated. If this demand is not complied with in a given period of time the board will ask the NRA to remove the company's Blue Eagle and refer the case to the department of justice.

NRA GIVEN PACT ON COOK COUNTY ELECTRICAL PAY

Electrical contractors in Cook county submitted to the National Recovery Administration yesterday at Washington an agreement dealing with pay and working conditions for their employés. A public hearing will be held on the agreement on Aug. 17 at the Chicago offices of the NRA at 32 West Randolph street.

The agreement provides that no electrician work more than 40 hours a week, 8 hours in any 24 hour period, or 5 days in any 7 day period with exceptions for emergencies. Class A journeymen will receive $1.50 an hour and class B journeymen will receive $1 an hour. Double pay is provided for overtime.

A. F. OF L. WARNS U. S. SPENDING TO MEAN DISASTER

Asserts Easy Money Orgy Will Bring Inflation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The American Federation of Labor, through its monthly survey of business, today issued a warning that the enormous expenditures of the government for emergency needs and the artificial increase of buying power, if continued, will lead to currency inflation to meet the huge accumulating deficits.

The survey, regarded as the most alarming statement the federation has issued since the beginning of President Roosevelt's recovery program, called attentinon to the steadily mounting tax burden, the extension of the relief rolls, the decline in business credit with the increase of government borrowing and the failure of NRA to put men to work in industry.

"The government can not go on borrowing more than its income for very long," the statement said. "We can not go on increasing buying power in this way without a general expansion of production and consumption. Industry can not pull itself up by its own boot straps."

Reports Business Better.

The survey reported that business on the whole had shown an improvement during the first half of 1934 with a production total of 18.4 per cent over the first half of 1933. The total buying power of workers' income from industry was 18.3 per cent above the first six months of 1933 and the income from government emergency work brought the total to 23.9 per cent above 1933, the statement said.

Then it continued with this warning: "These gains are important, but they are not enough to restore business to pre-depression levels nor to put the unemployed to work. The gains in buying power thus far have been due to two things, first, the NRA program to reduce hours and raise wages; second, the enormous expenditures of the government for emergency needs. There has as yet been no corresponding increase in the creation of wealth sufficient to pay all the costs of the gains."

Stresses Expansion Need.

The survey emphasized the urgency of the present need for a general business expansion with a statement of government expenses for the fiscal year ended June 30. It gave the nation's total bill for federal relief alone—to farmers, banks, business, and the unemployed—as 4 billion dollars. It pointed out that the total income of the government was only $3,116,000,000, or just enough to pay its current running expenses of $3,101,000,000, leaving the entire relief bill to be met by borrowing.

Warning that the government could not go on borrowing more than its income, the survey declared that taxation was not an alternative because state, local, and federal taxes already take 26 per cent of the nation's income.

"We cannot go on taking one-fifth of the wealth we produce and, in addition, borrow a like amount to support 16,000,000 persons who are creating no wealth," the survey continued. "The latest available figures showed 16,826,000 persons on relief rolls supported by public funds in April. Over 12 per cent of our entire population are now on relief rolls. Unless immediate measures are taken to start business going on a nation-wide scale we shall probably resort to currency inflation to meet the huge deficits accumulating."

Business Credit Declines.

The survey pointed out that while the government borrowed 4 billion dollars for emergency needs the credit used by business showed a decline of 27 billion dollars from 1929 to 1934.

"Clearly," it added, "the federal government could not possibly borrow enough to replace the credit normally extended to business through the banks and security markets unless it used the credit to create a proportionate amount of wealth. Funds loaned to the government produce no wealth.

"Nothing in the business picture at present gives promise of substantial business improvement in the near future. The present situation is a challenge to the administration to give us a plan whereby industry, labor and the government may coöperate to restore business."

AMERICA'S FIRST SKY TRAIN TEST PROVES SUCCESS

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—America's first sky train—a 220 horsepower biplane towing a string of three gliders—took off from Floyd Bennett field today, circled over Brooklyn and then turned to the field for a series of perfect landings at one-minute intervals.

The whole demonstration consumed but 24 minutes and observers agreed it was executed admirably, although the four-man crew of the train abandoned in midair their original plan for a one-hour test flight over Manhattan's skyscrapers.

"The air was too rough," explained Jack O'Meara, 1933 glider champion who conceived the sky train idea. "We decided it was taking an unnecessary chance to fly over Manhattan. We may try it again later."

Failure to complete the full test flight, it was said, would not affect tomorrow's plans for a demonstration in which the glider train will attempt to deliver mail to Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington.

In today's test the three gliders were separated by half inch strands of steel cable each 100 feet long.

300 PASSENGERS TRANS-SHIPPED IN LAKE ERIE

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Approximately 300 Detroit-bound passengers on the S. S. Greater Detroit were transferred to the S. S. Eastern States in Lake Erie this morning, after the Greater Detroit had been disabled by a broken connecting rod.

Officials of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company, which owns both ships, said the two ships were lashed together in the lake and the transfer of passengers made without untoward incident.

The Greater Detroit, bound from Buffalo to Detroit, continued under its own power, but at greatly reduced speed. The breakdown occurred about 6 a. m.

The Eastern States was en route from Buffalo to Chicago.

CODE AUTHORITY DEFENDS BAR ON LABOR AT HOME

Says Children Help Make Mother's Flowers.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—In an attempted justification of the NRA order preventing women with dependent children from working in their homes, the code authority of the artificial flower industry today released the results of a study made last March which concluded that there was danger of child labor in the home if home work were permitted.

Nathan Straus Jr., head of the National Emergency council, who forbade Mrs. Kathryn Budd of Brooklyn to earn from $18 to $25 a week making artificial flowers to support her two small children, maintained silence on the subject, but W. H. Schlicter, executive secretary of the code authority, defended his chief's action.

Survey Made Before Order.

Curiously enough, the survey was made two months before President Roosevelt in an executive order in May modified the code to permit home work by the aged or crippled or those with aged or crippled dependent upon them.

The survey was made by seven social workers who visited 1,700 homes. In the families visited there were 869 children between the ages of 8 and 15 years. Thirty-three of these children were found helping their elders in the home work. Ninety-nine additional children admitted working, it was stated, and the social workers "suspected," according to the report, that 29 other children also worked.

There was no evidence that the 718 remaining children were engaged in child labor, the report admitted, but the conclusion reached, nevertheless, was that children would be employed as long as home work was allowed.

Big Companies Accused.

Attorney Julius W. Hochfelder, representing the Home Workers' Protective league, charged that the order prohibiting mothers from home work was the result of pressure brought to bear by the big manufacturers who use only factory workers and the labor unions who cannot collect weekly dues from home workers.

Secretary Schlicter denied this. He named the outstanding manufacturers of artificial flowers as follows:

Kaplan Brothers, Max, David, and Jacob Kaplan, owners; Rossig corporation; First American Natural Ferns company, Alex Friedman, president; Grand Artificial Flower company, Morris Sobel, president; Premier Artificial Flower company, George G. Singer, president; New York Novelty Flower company, Louis Vasselico, president, and August Bentkamp, all of New York.

"The NRA drives nobody out of business," said Mr. Schlicter.

Calls It Simply Excuse.

"On the contrary," retorted Attorney Hochfelder when informed of this statement, "the banning of home work puts more than 200 firms in New York out of business and leaves the entire business to the few with factories. The talk of child labor is ridiculous. It is the usual excuse for concealing other motives in this NRA foolery.

"The code for the industry states emphatically that all provisions apply equally to factory and home work. The $15 a week minimum salary, the minimum age of 16 years, all the other rules apply to the home worker.

"The code was supposed to have been drawn up by representatives of all concerned. But the 74,300 mothers affected in this one industry alone never had a chance to give their views. Only labor and the factory owners were consulted, and they, of course, were against home work at all."

DIONNES NOW HAVE TO GUARD QUINTUPLETS FROM TOURIST HORDE

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The famous Dionne quintuplets have made a Mecca for tourists of the Callander-Corbeil district. The visitors write to the home folks from this northern Ontario region much as did a visitor from Wisconsin today, who inscribed: "We are camping five miles from the birthplace of the quintuplets."

People don't ask the distance to villages or towns. They want to know, "How far to where the quintuplets live and which way do we go?"

Many visitors call at the home of Dr. A. R. Dafoe, the country practitioner who has brought the five babies safely through 65 days of life—longer than any other known set of quintuplets have existed. Dr. Dafoe says four physicians, on an average, call upon him daily. They ask to see the babies, but he cannot grant that request. At Corbeil, opposite the Dionne farm, where the quintuplets rest in their incubators, Oliver Dionne, grandfather of the babies, stands guard at the gate, and never relaxes his vigil.

QUIZ FIFTY MORE TODAY IN WATER METER FRAUDS

New Arrests Expected; Probe Broadened.

Expansion of the water meter fraud investigation to embrace hotels, breweries, cleaners, and other businesses suspected of cheating the city was announced yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Vernon Thompson. He said approximately 50 persons would be questioned today and that additional arrests are expected.

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt launched the inquiry when his charts showed water revenues dropped from 13½ million to 11 million dollars in a year. He concentrated the first investigation on laundries and dairies, which are heavy users of water.

Charges of violating the state statute prohibiting tampering with water meters will be placed against owners of 18 laundries and dairies probably today, Mr. Thompson said.

Fixers Identify "Customers."

All have been identified by two men in custody as having paid amounts ranging from $10 to $250 to have their meters fixed, usually so that only one-fourth of the water used was registered.

All except three of the firms admitted the charge, according to Mr. Thompson. They were accused by Edward Reiter, 33 years old, 3151 South Springfield avenue, chauffeur in the city water bureau for eleven years, and Albert Dorsey, 3260 Maypole avenue, who allegedly contacted "customers" for Reiter's fixing.

Mayor Kelly expressed hope yesterday that the city would recover $200,000 lost through the fraudulent meters. Commissioner Hewitt has placed the loss as uncovered so far at $80,000.

"There's no reason why the big fellow who is making money out of the public shouldn't pay water taxes as well as the little fellow," the mayor declared.

Cash Vital to City.

"It's this money that the city needs to pay its operating expenses. It isn't a popular thing to be constantly driving to bring in fees and licenses, but the city government must function."

Mayor Kelly pointed out that the city had threatened to shut off some of the fraudulent meters nd was promptly faced with injunction suits which are now pending in the Circuit court.

It was then, he said, that the state's attorney's office was called in. The mayor declared that he understood some "minor hoodlums" were involved in the case.

Eugene V. O'Connor, investigator for the state's attorney's office, indicated that at least two more fraud rings, operated by employés or former employés of the water bureau, may be uncovered.

FINES WOULD-BE THIEVES.

Joseph Carney, 23 years old, 4337 South Seeley avenue, and Leo Gomski, 20, of 3023 South Keeley avenue, were fined $10 each yesterday by Justice of the Peace Chas C. Foster of Palos Park for the attempted theft of an automobile horn from a parked car at 111th street and Archer avenue.

TRAFIC TICKETS RAIN ON HIM FOR 3 YEARS IN VAIN

Allman Gets Stray Letter and Clerk Is Suspended.

The amazing story of a motorist with a "drag" who, secure in the knowledge that he could "fix" them, nonchalantly accepted ticket after ticket for unlawful parking for almost three years of a mounted trafic policeman who doggedly handed out the summons day after day and wondered what ever became of them, was unfolded yesterday.

Those involved, according to Police Commissioner James P. Allman, are George Basso, an organizer for the Chicago Flat Janitors' union, 130 North Wells street, the motorist; Mounted Policeman John Connors and Willie Grecco, 3557 Lexington street, a Municipal court clerk formerly assigned to the Trafic court, but now at the Fillmore street court.

Grecco was promptly suspended by Joseph A. O'Leary, secretary to Joseph L. Gill, clerk of the Municipal court. Grecco is a Democratic precinct captain in the 29th ward.

Slips Mailed to Clerk.

The situation came to light when a torn envelope containing four police arest slips issued to Basso was returned by postoffice authorities to Commissioner Allman. The envelope had been addressed to Grecco.

It was turned over to Commissioner Allman, however, because its condition made it virtually undeliverable to the addressee, and the inclosed trafic tickets revealed it was police business. The name of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union appeared on the envelope, but the commissioner's name was on each trafic ticket.

Commissioner Allman immediately launched an inquiry. He found that between Nov. 2, 1933, and July 9, 1934, Basso had been served with 28 parking tickets, with the following results: No disposition, 1; warants recalled, 15; warants served and no disposition, 5; warants returned with notation, "Can't be found, 7.

Four or Five Times a Week.

Basso was arrested yesterday on Commissioner Allman's orders. He was served with a warant on an old parking charge and released when he posted a $5 cash bond. He will appear in Trafic court Aug. 8.

Policeman Connors declared Basso began parking his expensive sedan in front of the Wells street address about three years ago and declared he had issued tickets as often as four or five times a week.

"He'd usually park about 11 o'clock in the morning," Policeman Connors said. "The car would remain there until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. I got in the habit of glancing at that one place every morning as I rode along the street, expecting to see the car there.

"Basso never objected or talked back when I gave him a ticket. I never said anything either. It's my job to give out the ticket, not to engage in conversation. I never asked him what happened to them, but I always wondered."

Policeman Does His Duty.

Of the 28 tickets disclosed by the records one had been issued by Connors and the other by his partner, Maurice Murphy.

Commissioner Allman referred the entire affair to Clerk Gill of the Municipal court, with a request that action be taken.

"It shows that the policeman wasn't stopped by fixes," the commissioner said. "He performed his duty and issued tickets continually. Another man would probably have become disgusted and stopped."

Basso could not be reached yesterday afternoon for his comment on the ticket marathon.

ELECTRICIAN DIES ON JOB.

John Hillinger, 45 years old, an electrician of the Arcadia Grain mills, 500 West 138th street, Riverdale, died apparently of heart disease while at work yesterday. He lived at 1506 North Harding avenue.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Great Lakes coast guardsmen yesterday were perfecting drills and maneuvers to be staged Saturday at the Fair in celebration of the service's 144th anniversary. A fleet of coast guard vessels including the Rush and the Escanaba, largest cutters on the lakes, will anchor in the lagoon and near the Exposition. Among features of the day will be a radio directed lifeboat drill. Motion pictures taken aboard the cutter Northland during its trip through Arctic waters was shown yesterday for coast guard and naval officers and newspapermen in the Little Theater at the Ford exhibit. The film will be shown Saturday at 9:45 p. m. at the Lagoon theater as the closing event of coast guard day.

Awards in the John R. Thompson Jr. amateur photographic contest for the best picture of the fountain in the North lagoon will be presented to the winners tonight at 8 o'clock in the Hall of Photography.

Eighteen hundred members of the Civilian Conservation corps camp in the Skokie valley, will arrive at the Fair in a body tomorrow morning to be guests for the day.

Chicago week beginning Monday will be a full week of special days. Monday is to be service club's day. National groups will celebrate at the Fair Tuesday, fraternal organizations on Wednesday, war veterans on Thursday, neighborhoods on Friday, and high schools and colleges on Saturday. Sunday the 101st anniversary of the incorporation of Chicago, will be all-Chicago's day.

The reorganized Spanish village yesterday presented its premiere performances of "Hispanana," a historical Spanish light opera in pageant form. It is given on the village square at 4, 7, 8:30, and 10 p. m. each day. A cast of 45 is under the direction of Miss Helen Tieken, who last year produced "Wings of a Century."

The Dymaxion, stream lined, three wheeled automobile now on exhibition at the Crystal house on Northerly island, was used in the finale of the first afternoon performance of the pageant, "Wings of a Century," yesterday.

The Railway Express Glee club of 33 men, which is entered in the Cook county male chorus contest of the Chicagoland Music Festival, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, to be held Monday night, Aug. 13, in the Grand ballroom of the Drake hotel, will give a concert tonight at 7:30 at the Railway Express Agency's headquarters in the Travel and Transport exhibit at the World Fair grounds. Louis M. Gregsamer is the director, and Reuben B. Gustafson, the club president.

An exhibit of the public works administration, the first of the government emergency projects to be represented at the Fair, will be opened soon in the federal building.

One hundred and forty salesmen for Swift & Co. will arrive in Chicago today for a week each at the Fair, prizes won in A Century of Progress sales contest conducted by the company. They will be addressed at a luncheon this noon at the Shoreland hotel by K. S. Vance, sales manager of the company, after which they will visit the Swift exhibit.

FAIR WILL HONOR GEN. JOHNSON AND NRA DRIVE TODAY

Administrator to Talk at Lagoon Theater.

NRA day will be observed today at A Century of Progress Exposition with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Blue Eagle dictator, as guest of honor. Under flapping recovery banners on the stage of the Lagoon theater the militant National Recovery administrator will survey the conditions of the country after a year of federal regulation of business and industry.

Gen. Johnson is to make his address at 8:30 in the evening. The speech will be carried throughout the grounds by the public address system and will be broadcast by a national radio network. The program beginning at 7:30 includes Mayor Kelly, Gov. Horner, Tax Commissioner Barnet Hodes, Illinois NRA Compliance Director John E. Cassidy and R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor.

Plans for the reception of Gen. Johnson at the Fair will be made in accordance with wishes he may express on his arrival this morning. Fair officials said he may spend the afternoon visiting the Fair, though it is possible he will go into conference on the stockyards strike.

Using Army Airplane.

Gen. Johnson will arrive in an army plane at the Municipal airport at 11:30 a. m., after leaving Tulsa, Okla., at 5 a. m. He spoke last night on the birthday of the NRA in his home town of Okmulgee, Okla., where he visited his mother. The general informed Charles F. Horner, his special assistant, of his arrival plans, after Horner reached the Fair yesterday from Washington.

During the flight he will keep in communication by radio with the airport. Immediately after his arrival he will address a luncheon of Illinois code authorities at the Congress hotel.

Several hundred representatives of the 215 national, state, regional and local authorities are to attend. Illinois state and municipal officials have received invitations to be present.

Today is the tenth in the 1934 series of Children's days. All children under 12 years of age will be admitted to the grounds and most of the concessions for a nickel. The day will open with a colorful parade.

New features will be added to the all star circus performance in the afternoon. Other Children's day features, including a balloon race from the 16th street bridge, are planned.

Seek Irish Queen.

The first of a series of preliminary contests to find the most beautiful Irish girl in Chicago, who is to be crowned queen for Irish day on Aug. 15, will be held in the Irish Village in the evening. The contest is being sponsored by the Irish day committee headed by Mayor Kelly.

The rise in attendance continued yesterday with the observance of Rhode Island day and the second souvenir day. Gov. T. F. Green of Rhode Island was guest of honor and was received with a 19 gun salute as he entered the grounds.

Thousands of souvenir hunters lined the way into the Foods and Agricultural building to receive gifts from exhibitors. Early visitors formed lines at the building before the doors opened. The lines continued until the building closed for the day.

At midnight 85,209 persons had entered the Fair grounds.

TERMS DILLINGER AUTOPSY MERELY ROUTINE MATTER

But Father Gets Permit to Exhume Killer.

Only the routine chemical analysis of vital organs was performed in the autopsy of John Dillinger, bank bandit and murderer, Coroner Frank J. Walsh said yesterday after published reports that Dillinger's brain was kept in Chicago for examination when his body was removed for burial in Indianapolis.

Meanwhile at Indianapolis John Dillinger Sr. announced he had obtained permission from the Indiana state board of health to exhume the body of his son. The father of the slain desperado gave no reason for wishing to disinter the body and said that he had not decided whether he would use the permit.

Retain Four Specimens.

Coroner Walsh explained that it was the custom in all important cases to make an autopsy on a body and retain portions of the vital organs.

"The doctor who makes the autopsy retains these portions," the coroner said. "These include the brain, liver, lungs, and heart. About one ounce of each is kept.

"These portions were taken from Dillinger's body by Dr. J. J. Kearns and sent to the coroner's office toxicologist, Dr. Clarence W. Muehlberger, for chemical analysis as is always done. I received a report after the analysis was made and found there was nothing irregular about Dillinger's organs."

The seizure of Fred Brenman, an ex-convict, by government agents yesterday in East Chicago, Ind., was believed at first to have some connection with the Dillinger case, but this was denied by Melvin Purvis, chief of the department of justice agents in the Chicago area.

Held Under Dyer Act.

Brenman had worked with Dillinger in the Michigan City prison factory and after their release the two men associated in East Chicago.

"Brenman was arrested on a charge of violating the Dyer act by transporting a stolen automobile over a state line," Mr. Purvis said, "and will be held in the East Chicago jail."

Gov. Horner announced yesterday that Illinois will pay the $1,000 reward offered for Dillinger's arrest as soon as it has been determined who merits it. The identity of the recipient or recipients will be kept secret.

ROB MADISON ST. CAFETERIA.

Four bandits entered the Publix cafeteria, 734 West Madison street, early yesterday, pushed the cashier, Mrs. Beatrice Pritchard, away from the counter as she reached for a pistol, and fled with $25 taken from the cash register.

WOMEN TO SEEK CODE REVISION FROM JOHNSON

A group of professional and business women will attempt to see Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, on his arrival this morning, to present requests for a revision of codes discriminating against women in wage scales and hours. Request for an audience was wired Gen. Johnson last week by a committee of the National Woman's party.

Miss Jane Magan, first vice president of the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, said there are 100 temporary codes and 23 permanent codes which set lower wages for women than men, defeating the purpose of the NRA act. In these codes, Miss Magan said, the wage differential range is from 2½ to 15 cents an hour. Nine codes limit the woman's working week from four to eight hours less than for men, she said.

"When private employers discriminate against women it works a hardship," Miss Magan declared, "but it is far more disastrous to have the government set its seal of approval on such a policy."

CRUSADER CHIEF HERE TO LAUNCH BATTLE ON REDS

Support of the Movement Grows, Says Clark.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

FRED G. CLARK.

Fred G. Clark, commander in chief of the Crusaders organization of business and professional men who are undertaking a new campaign in behalf of American democracy as opposed to communism, socialism, or fascism, arrived in Chicago yesterday to aid in the local organization of the movement. He conferred with Seymour Wheeler, vice national commander, and announced the addition of the following names to the new national advisory council:

PAUL DAVIS, president American Trust company, Nashville, Tenn.

WALLACE ALLEXANDER, attorney, San Francisco.

"This is a non-partisan, coöperative movement," he said. "We expect to begin a national membership drive early in September, possibly announcing it on Constitution day, Sept. 17. In the east, particularly in New York and Pennsylvania, the local chapters are very active now. In Pennsylvania the Kiwanis, Rotary, and other organizations are joining the work of Americanization.

Get Support in South.

"In Louisville the Sentinels of the Republic are helping. We want to get all organizations under one spearhead on this fight. The other organizations, however, will keep their identity.

"Questionnaires are to be sent to candidates for office, asking them whether or not they subscribe to our program of principles. The election of a sound congress is our first objective.

"We will do everything we can to get such a congress and resist all efforts to change the present form of government. The fight against communism is only one part of our program. We are supposed to have representative government instead of government by organized minorities. We will see if we cannot get it. Congressional committees will be organized in each district. The chairmen in many districts are already at work and thousands of new members have been added to our rolls.

"The fundamental purpose of the Crusaders is to make articulate on public questions the voice of the great majority of the unorganized masses. The Crusaders believe that the great majority of Americans do not knowingly wish to abandon their representative, democratic form of government.

Want Open Discussion.

"They believe that Americans as a whole do not knowingly wish to yield up their constitutional rights. The Crusaders are striving to provide an organization which will make possible free and open discussion of public questions, to fight against rule by organized minorities, to strive for a balanced budget, and governmental expenditures not exceeding the limits of bearable taxation, and to defend and protect the Constitution."

Chicago members of the advisory council are D. A. Crawford, president of the Pullman company; Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil company; Sewell Avery and Albert D. Lasker.

Later on in the campaign the work is to be carried into educational institutions.

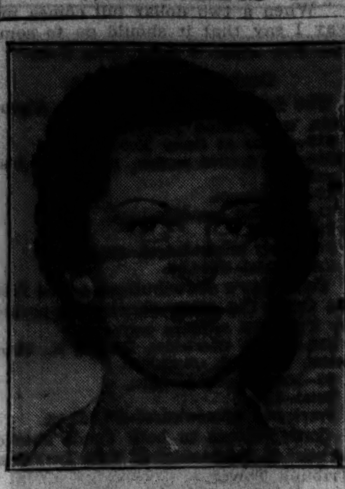
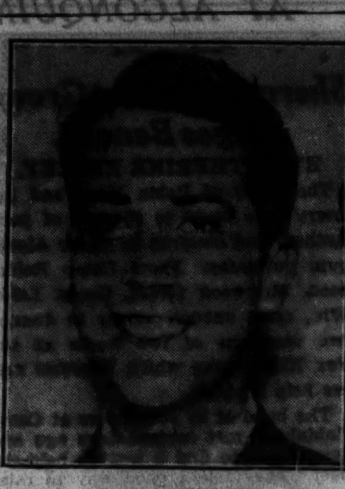
WINNERS IN CHICAGOLAND MUSIC FESTIVAL



MRS. BETTY POWER, Contralto.



JOHN NEHER, Bass.

RALPH SAPPE, Tenor.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

YOUNG MOTHER WINS TRIBUNE'S NORTH SIDE SING

3 Divisions Decided; 2 More Tonight.

A young mother, a dental student, and a jobless young husband sung themselves into first places in the contralto, tenor, and bass divisions of THE TRIBUNE Chicagoland Music Festival contest for north side singers held last night at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Tonight competitions will be conducted in the same hotel for sopranos and baritones. The north side winners will compete on Aug. 16 in the Drake hotel with those of ten other sectional contests for the honor of singing at the Festival in Soldiers' field on Aug. 18.

Mrs. Betty Power, 26 years old, of 643 Gordon terrace, contralto winner, had never before entered a contest, although she is a graduate of the University of Michigan school of music. She won with Weatherly's "Danny Boy," which she often sings as a lullaby to her 2 year old son, Robert.

Opera Aspirant Second.

Second place went to Miss Jennie Podolsky, 32 years old, of 2526 North Kedzie boulevard. She works as a secretary to two physicians, and hopes to embark upon an operatic career. Miss Nell Esslinger, 31 years old, of 2726 Pine Grove avenue, who is secretary to a radio producer, took third place. She came to Chicago last October and found work six months later.

Ralph H. Sappe, 29 years old, 1118 Main street, Evanston, was the dental student who won the tenor division with Campbell-Tipton's "A Spirit Flower." He sings in the Epworth Methodist church. While his voice now supplies merely his hobby, he hopes to go eventualy into concert work. His home is in Colfax, Ia.

Jack Wheelock, 26 years old, 443 Wrightwood avenue, who came from Kearney, Neb., to enter the American Conservatory of Music last year, won second place. Third place went to Robert Morris, 21 years old, 30 West Chicago avenue, the son of a Hot Springs, S. D., Baptist minister.

Leading Teachers Are Judges.

He hitch hiked to Chicago without funds a year ago, won a scholarship to Northwestern university school of music, and got a job singing with Ted Weems' orchestra at the Palmer house.

With his bride of a year, John Neher, 23 years old, of Shelbyville, Ill., came to Chicago three weeks ago and still is looking for a job. He won first place in the bass division by singing A. J. Lamb's "Asleep in the Deep." He attended the University of Illinois.

Arthur E. Green, 1411 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, who won third place in bass last year, slipped up to second position this year with Ange Fleagier's "The Horn." He is employed by the Commonwealth Edison company. Third place went to Ben A. Gage, 19, of 2418 Hartzell street, Evanston, a junior at Lawrence college, Appleton, Wis.

Lillian Rosedale Goodmand, Raymond Koch, and Frank Bennett, leading teachers, were judges. Allan Grant, W-G-N staf pianist, accompanied the singers.

County Board Acts Today on $730,123 Supply Bills

The county board, sitting as the finance committee, yesterday voted to pay outstanding 1933 supply bills totaling $730,123. The resolution will go before the board for action today.

The payment was made possible by the recent sale of $3,000,000 worth of 1934 tax anticipation warrants to loop bankers. The bills to be paid, which included one item of $56,731 owed the Illinois Bell Telephone company, included food and supplies for county institutions, yearly equipment for the county hospital, and other county buildings.

Before the meeting members of the public service committee of the board concerned themselves with beer selling and with the herd of elk in the forest preserve. Commissioner Homer J. Byrd reported that the 43 elk in the Elk Grove preserve are in bad shape.

Would Sell Old Bulls.

"I am told that the elk are diseased," the commissioner said. "They are so inbred that many of them cannot take care of themselves, and there has been considerable comment throughout the county concerning their sad plight. We should dispose of the bulls and the diseased animals and import some new bulls. Some of the animals scarcely can walk and they stagger pitifully."

Charles G. Sauers, superintendent of the forest preserve, recommended that the herd be reduced from 43 to ten, and that the remaining ten be turned over to the Brookfield zoo in the fall. The matter was postponed for consideration at the regular board meeting today.

The question of the sale of beer in the forest preserves was injected into the hearing by the complaint that a concessionaire is violating the rule excluding the beverage. The head forester reported that the concessionaire had promised to discontinue the sale of beer.

She's No "Blue Stocking."

Mrs. Edward J. Fleming, commissioner and member of the committee, insisted that since the commissioners have voted to exclude beer from the forest preserves they should enforce the order. She asserted that she "was no blue stocking" when Commissioner Charles H. Weber termed her a prohibitionist.

"We were discussing beer," Commissioner Weber countered, "not the color of your hosiery."

Mrs. Fleming said that "a lot of colored men broke loose and did a Hottentot act in the preserve last Sunday," and that a number of persons became frightened and left. Mr. Sauers explained that the Negroes are part of the Order of Military Guards, an organization camping in the preserve.

Too Much Beer, He Says.

He said that the guards had imbibed a quantity of beer at a Democratic picnic near their encampment.

The district forester in charge said that the permit for the picnic had been issued to the "41st precinct," but was unable to determine the number of the ward. The committee voted to postpone action on the beer question until the Supreme court has ruled on the question of whether 3.2 per cent beer is intoxicating. It was understood that beer sales are forbidden until the ruling.

LEGION URGES U. S. 'SCOTLAND YARD' TO BALK RED AGITATORS

Establishment of a federal "Scotland Yard" to keep a close watch on communists and prevent the activities of agitators who foment violence throughout the United States was advocated last evening by the Cook County council of the American Legion. A resolution to this effect was adopted unanimously by delegates who met in the city council chambers.

The Legionnaires recommended that President Roosevelt be asked to direct the establishment of an agency, "somewhat similar to Scotland Yard" to prevent repetitions of rioting which was the work of "agents provocateur."

3 Women Election Judges Are Fined for Contempt

Three women election officials, who served as judges in the 3d precinct of the 5th ward Nov. 8, 1932, were fined $15 and costs each on charges of contempt of court yesterday by Judge George Long of Rock Island, sitting in County court here. The three, who were found guilty of misconduct in their duties, are Jessie Cochran, 5218 Harper avenue; Irene Earl, 5107 Blackstone avenue, and Agnes R. Brooks, 5220 Harper avenue.

GUARD CAPTURED MICHIGAN CITY FUGITIVES HERE

When the two convicts who escaped from the Indiana state "paper" prison at Michigan City Saturday arriver in Chicago last night from Mexico, Mo., where they were captured Tuesday, a squad of detectives under Sergt. Joseph Haksa was on hand to insure their safe transportation over the state line. Fearing that Chicago friends of the two desperadoes might attempt their rescue, the warden at the prison asked Chicago police to provide the escort. The convicts were William C. Jay, 43 years old, and John Burnett, 24 years old. Burnett was shot resisting arrest.

Heart Disease Kills Boy as He Begins His Swim

Arthur Valshki, 19 years old, 6326 Giddings street, died after three or four minutes' swimming in the Belmont yacht harbor yesterday, apparently of a heart disease. An inhalator squad labored in vain to revive the swimmer after a life guard took him from the water.

ROB COLLECTOR OF $850.

Albert Stevenson, 758 North Central avenue, a collector for the Realty Management company, 748 East 79th street, was robbed of $850 last night by two bandits who confronted him as he entered his automobile at 5659 South Union avenue and forced him to drive to 61st and Wallace streets.

taken out of regular stocks and reduced to prices as low—and lower than last August's prices for our

August Clearance

AT $31.50

Year round fabrics, many with two pairs of trousers, single and double breasted models, some Freesways, a complete collection of sturdy, dependable suits that have retailed at considerably more money this Spring. Decidedly, a value group if we've ever seen or offered one.

AT $36.50

Many hand-tailored suits that ordinarily should be sold at dollars more; practically every suit here was a leading seller this season; drapes, Freesways and single and double breasted business models as well. Unusual fabrics.

AT $43.50

(with one and two trousers)

Deerpath Drapes that have been tailored in our own Stanford Williams shops. Fine suits, needled to perfection and many are made of rich, imported fabrics. The bulk of this clothing we tailored ourselves; the rest represents the cream of leading manufacturers. These values are truly unmatchable!

Last August's prices were $33.50, $37.50 and $43.50, and then, as now, these prices were put on suits right out of stock. Today these lowered prices are even more dramatic because they mean that they are less than the prices at which we have been selling suits like these all this season.

We hold only two events like this each year—in February and August. Definitely this event is a clearance for there is not every style in every fabric, but a complete range of sizes is available; and we repeat again that nothing has been purchased for this August event, and that every suit in this sale has been tailored either by us or for us to our own specifications. Our sole reason for this important clearance is to make way for new Fall suits which will arrive around the middle of the month.

U. S. WILL FIGHT CHANGE IN NAVAL RATIOS: SWANSON

Secretary Seen Answering Japanese Statement.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Secretary Swanson frankly told Japan—and the world—today that while the United States might favor a slash of 20 per cent in naval armaments, it would oppose vigorously any realignment of existing naval ratios for the principal powers.

The secretary of the navy said he gave only his personal opinion, but high naval officers surrounded him as he spoke, and apparently he laid down the position of his department—if not that of the administration.

"I take the same position I always have," Secretary Swanson said. "The naval powers met in London and distributed naval strength as they thought just and right. Naval strength is relative. If we abandon the ratios there is no telling where we shall go."

Follows Okada Statement.

Swanson's unequivocal statement was prompted by questions regarding his reaction to a statement by Keisuke Okada, the new Japanese premier. It was interpreted by observers as a reply to Okada's recorded desire for a further reduction in sea power and his expression of dissatisfaction with the existing 5-5-3 naval ratio between this country, Great Britain and Japan.

Swanson emphasized he was expressing a personal conviction in asserting the United States should be willing to work toward a horizontal 20 per cent cut in armaments by signatories of the London naval treaty.

Since Japan is virtually at treaty strength and England much nearer than the United States, the secretary said, these powers would have to make a reduction in actual fighting craft and not merely tear up blue prints. He added that for the United States a 20 per cent cut would mean abandonment of some naval construction.

Would Abandon Over-age Ships.

"I am willing to abandon over-age ships and refrain from replacing them to an extent of 20 per cent," Swanson declared. "I have already advised a 20 per cent reduction in public statements and reports."

Swanson said he did not believe the United States could agree to give Japan naval equality as it would be "a one-sided proposition." He said nothing had occurred "to change my conviction" that present ratios should be maintained.

Asked by reporters whether Japanese insistence on a change in ratios would wreck the 1935 naval conference, Swanson said, "I would not say so." He said he would not like to predict what might be the outcome of the parley should Japan insist on parity, or a rating higher than the present alignment.

Urges Navy "Second to None."

Whether a breakdown of the conference would mean an expansion by the United States in its naval building program would be up to congress, Swanson said. Quickly he added:

"I believe in an American navy second to none."

Referring to a statement by Stanley Baldwin, acting British prime minister, that his country's frontiers extend now to the Rhine, Swanson said in response to a query that "our frontiers include our farthest territories."

"We are surrounded," he said, "and determined to defend ourselves."

TRADE OF CUPID IN JULY ROCKETS 55% OVER 1933

Sidney Summerfield, chief clerk in the marriage license bureau, reported yesterday that 3,325 marriage licenses were issued during July as compared to 2,142 licenses issued during the same month last year—55 per cent more. During the first seven months of the year, 23,482 licenses have been issued as compared to 17,280 licenses issued during the same period in 1933, he said. Dan Cupid appears to be on the upgrade, Summerfield declared, as so far more licenses have been issued than in previous years except 1929 when 24,589 licenses were obtained in the first seven months.

Ship Lost on South Seas Reef; All Aboard Safe

PAPEETE, Tahiti, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The "dangerous archipelago"—known in the South Seas as the Tuamotu group of islands—has claimed another victim, this time the interisland steamer Ville de Papeete, which is a total loss on the reef at Haraiki Island, 300 miles east of here. All those aboard reached shore safely. The Ville de Papeete was a 164 foot ship of 615 tons.

JAP PRINCE SAYS U. S. INFORMATION ON ORIENT IS BAD

Claims Americans Do Not Understand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 1.—The American people, including influential leaders, are badly informed on far eastern and particularly on Japanese questions, Prince Fumimaro Konoe, president of the house of peers, said today upon his return from the United States.

"It is regretful that many American leaders seriously believe that the army is running matters here and that there is likelihood of a Russo-Japanese war," he said. "Soviet peace propaganda has been so effective that Americans feel the war rumors must be due to the Japanese inciting trouble."

Prince Konoe expressed gratification, however, that there is an increasing interest in the far east and an earnest desire to learn the true situation.

Premier Keisuki Okada and other notables turned out at the station to welcome Prince Konoe.

It is expected the prince's report on the American naval attitude will be seriously studied. In this connection, Prince Konoe said the American people are not well acquainted with naval matters and are not considering the forthcoming naval conference except in terms of ratios.

Charge Japan with New Aims.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 2.—[Thursday.]—A group of 2,000 Chinese, including former Manchurian generals and also the radically inclined Mme. Sun Yat-sen, widow of the late founder of the Chinese republic, circulated a declaration today charging that Japan is planning to annex all of China and convert the country into a Japanese colony. The statement called upon all Chinese to "unite in a holy war against Japanese imperialism."

The document attracted wide attention, since it is the first indication of open opposition to the present policy of the Nanking government of conciliation with the Japanese.

The organization styles itself a "preparatory committee for armed defense." It states that its program amounts to a declaration of war against Japan, and says that the ultimate purpose is to seize and confiscate all Japanese properties in China, valued at more than $600,000,000, as a means of financing the anti-Japanese struggle.

Accuses Nanking Régime.

The declaration charges Nanking with "betraying the nation to Japanese imperialism." It opposes the theory that China is unable to fight and defeat Japan, pointing as an example to Washington's ill equipped forces which defeated Britain and won independence. It claims that Chinese opposition will be able to accomplish a similar victory over Nippon.

The declaration also contained a detailed analysis of conditions in Manchuria, alleging that volunteer units of so-called bandits actually control most of the country excepting narrow strips along the railways, which are garrisoned with Japanese troops.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 1.—With bail refused and held under the closest supervision, three men are awaiting trial here in an alleged plot to slug and chloroform John S. McLean, millionaire president of Canada Packers, Ltd., convey him to an underground tunnel on the edge of the city, and hold him for $100,000 ransom.

Frank Wood, 23, of New Toronto, an applicant for a policemen's job in his own municipality, and Harry and James Leslie, brothers, 40 and 26, of Mimico, are those charged with conspiracy to kidnap. Two others are held as material witnesses.

Police claim they have been aware of the plot throughout the digging of the tunnel hideout for the intended victim, and that McLean's every outdoor movement has been supervised by them for a fortnight.

CLAIMS BRITISH DICKER FOR AIR BASE IN HOLLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—[Thursday.]—Despite denials in official circles in London of a report from Washington that British plans to establish air bases in Belgium and Holland were outlined to Secretary of State Cordell Hull during the world economic conference, this morning's Daily Herald declares it knows that during and since the conference unofficial suggestions have been made by British ministers to the Dutch premier, Hendrikus Colijn.

One of the suggestions is that the British air fleet should have at its disposal airdromes on the east frontier of Holland if Holland is placed in a position similar to that of Belgium in 1914. These tentative proposals, the Herald declares, are bound up in the tendency of British policy toward a definite military understanding with France.

The war office view is that Britain's new military policy must be dictated by the prevention of a hostile power from establishing itself in the low countries. For this reason the war office desires an understanding with France whereby British planes can concentrate quickly on airdromes in the north of France, and also would like to reach an agreement with Holland and Belgium.

POPE AT SUMMER CASTLE; FIRST TO LEAVE VATICAN

Villa in Alban Hills, 17 Miles from Rome.

CASTEL GONDOLFO, Italy, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The reverential salutes of hundreds of peasants greeted Pope Pius XI. as he arrived tonight at this quaint village, perched on the side of the Alban hills, to take up residence for the summer in the beautiful papal villa here.

Without ceremony or fanfare his holiness shortly before sunset motored from the Vatican, 17 miles away. Tonight will be the first night since his ascendency to the papal throne that he will not sleep in the Vatican.

The pope found this village, which since 1869 has not counted a pope among its residents, bedecked with flags. Virtually all the villagers were in the public plaza and their number was augmented by peasants who came from miles around. They cheered as the pope's four-car motorcade arrived, and as he stepped from his machine they knelt reverently.

Gives Citizens Blessing.

The pope rewarded them for their show of devotion with a special apostolic benediction, bestowed from a balcony of his villa facing the plaza. Then he retired to rest after a strenuous day at Vatican City, where an effort was made to clear up pressing state business and to crowd in time for audiences which had been scheduled.

The length of the stay at Castel Gandolfo has not been determined. The pope's intention to continue his ecclesiastical activities unremittingly through the summer vacation was revealed with the announcement that he will start the first day of his so-called holiday tomorrow by receiving a number of prelates, including four American bishops. They are Bishops Bernard J. Mahoney, Sioux Falls, S. D.; Joseph F. Rummel, Omaha, Neb.; Richard O. Gerow, Natchez, Miss., and Jules B. Jeanmard of Lafayette, La.

No Flourish at Leaving.

The pope left the Vatican unobtrusively and almost unnoticed. His reported wish that there be no ceremonial leave taking, as was the practice in olden days, was observed. The pope sped to his summer home in an American automobile.

One of the pope's interesting activities here will be the ceremonial pressing of a button which will illuminate a statue of the madonna hundreds of miles away. The statue overlooks the Straits of Messina between Italy and Sicily.

CIRCUS SWELLS FUND FOR POOR AT ALGONQUIN

SherwoodForest Group Stages Benefit.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The spirit of Robin Hood and his merry men came to the aid of poor mothers and children at Camp Algonquin yesterday. From Camp Robinhood, Sherwood forest, Green Lake, Wis., came enough money to finance two vacations of two weeks at the Fox River camp which TRIBUNE readers help support.

The band of 26 youngsters at Camp Robinhood met several days ago and determined to find a way to help the poor. They felt a good way to raise money would be to hold a circus. After several practices, the circus was presented to the Sherwood forest guests. A total of $18 was raised.

Local Folk in Cast.

Those from Chicago taking part were Elizabeth and Ann Felsenthal, Audrey Fischell, Jean Ellen Hefter, Marjorie Decker, Betty Kahn, Dick and Bill Erman and Tommy Franklin. Others were from St. Louis, Cincinnati, Little Rock, Ark., and Kansas City.

An anonymous donor sent $2 to the camp fund with this explanation:

"When a two dollar bill comes my way I say that it should go to some one who needs it more than I do."

"Ma" Ferguson Will Call Special Session on Relief

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson announced today she would convene the Texas legislature in special session Aug. 27 to authorize the issuance of additional unemployment relief bonds.

DR. ALICE DENIES SLAYING; FIGHTS FOR INSURANCE

Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop reiterated yesterday her innocence in the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, for whose death she is now serving a 25 year sentence in the woman's reformatory at Dwight. Her denial was contained in an answer filed by Attorneys W. W. Smith and Frank G. Tyrrell to a suit brought by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company in the United States District court seeking cancelation of a $5,000 double indemnity insurance policy which it issued.

Dr. Wynekoop and her son, Earle, husband of the slain Rheta, were beneficiaries under the policy. The attorneys, who represented Dr. Wynekoop during her trial, were assigned the policy as their fee. They alleged in their answer that even if the policy is not payable to Dr. Wynekoop, because of the conviction, it must be paid to Earle, who was not implicated in the murder.

The insurance company's suit is based on charges that the policy was obtained through fraud, and that certain important facts regarding Rheta's physical condition were withheld from them. The policy was issued shortly before her murder.

STATE SALES TAX IS $36,632,933 FIRST 12 MONTHS

135,000 Companies Pay; July Sets Record.

The Illinois sales tax in its first twelve months of operation produced $36,632,933 revenue for the state. July collections were $3,549,729, the highest for any month of the year. The figures were announced yesterday by K. L. Ames Jr., director of finance.

There are now 135,000 companies in Illinois paying the two per cent excise on gross receipts. In the first month the tax was in effect there were 81,000 firms on this tax roll and this grew to 104,000 for the second month's returns.

Collections by Months.

August	$ 2,211,133.84
September	2,978,377.10
October	3,044,046.82
November	3,092,386.29
December	2,985,184.25
January	3,522,989.98
February	2,820,445.39
March	2,742,470.35
April	3,142,722.59
May	3,211,239.85
June	3,332,207.46
July	3,549,729.33
Total	$36,632,933.25

The collections for each month, as indicated in the table, are the levies on gross sales during the preceding month. Increased efficiency in the administration of the law probably accounts for the growth in the revenue even more than any improvement in business. For example, the tax on sales in December, recognized as a big business month, was $3,522,989, as compared with $3,549,729 collected for sales in June, a month that usually introduces a summer lull in business.

98 Lawsuits in County.

The director of finance has a hundred field investigators and auditors engaged in combing this revenue from retailers. In Cook county alone the state's attorney has instituted ninety-eight lawsuits to enforce collections. However, even the present rate of collections falls behind estimates when the legislature passed the bill. These estimates averaged about $45,000,000 a year.

The law imposes severe penalties for failure to file a return or failure to pay when due. For failure to file a return the penalty is 25 per cent.

Mr. Ames was without statistics, but he estimated that 65 per cent of the sales tax from the entire state is collected in Cook county. He declined to estimate how many are evading the excise.

Relief Work Aided.

Collections for the first six months went to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, in accordance with the law. Starting Feb. 1, however, the revenue was divided between the state school distributive fund, soldiers' compensation, waterway bonds, blind relief, and the University of Illinois.

"These are fixed charges that must be paid each month," Mr. Ames explained, "before the general fund gets any of the money."

In this manner, he pointed out, the revenue lost to the state when its share of the general property tax was removed by Gov. Horner Jan. 1 is made up. The relief commission is now supported by federal funds.

LAST OF 11 WHO ESCAPED KANSAS PRISON IS TAKEN

Lansing, Kas., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The gates of the Kansas state prison clanged shut behind Jim Clark, 30 year old southwestern desperado, today and the law scratched the last name off the list of 11 convicts who broke out of the prison Memorial day, 1933.

Of the 11 three have been slain. The others are back in prison—one of them blinded as a result of bullet wounds received in an attempted bank holdup.

Clark was surprised as he was leaving an apartment house in Tulsa, Okla., early today. He was captured before he could use a .45 caliber pistol wrapped in a newspaper.

Two women, who gave the names of Sallie Johnson, 34, and Goldie Johnson, 19, were with him. Officers said Goldie was Clark's wife and that she grabbed his arm and prevented him from shooting when they made the arrest. She probably will be brought back to Kansas to face charges of harboring a fugitive, officers said.

RELIEF SEEKERS ORDERED TO FILE NAMES FOR JOBS

Officials Act to Guard Against Shirkers.

Relief clients and applicants will hereafter be required to register for work before they are given continued support by the state. Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, yesterday instructed all county emergency relief committees and local relief administrators to notify every employable person on relief to file an application for a job.

To "help clients make every possible effort to obtain work" is an important factor in handling unemployment relief, Mr. Reynolds stated. While there had previously been an "understanding" and a "custom" concerning the required effort to get a job, there had never been a definite rule.

Make Custom Mandatory.

"I talked it over with Dr. A. H. Atwood, director of the state bureau of free employment, and with J. H. Bergthold, director of the federal reemployment service," said Mr. Reynolds. "We agreed that it would be a good idea, so I issued the bulletin making it a universal rule as to what must be done.

"Previously the practice had varied even within the same county with the requirement being made according to the opinion of the head of each relief station.

"While one would expect that normal, able bodied persons would be eager to go back to work, I felt that we ought to provide a safeguard against slackers. Therefore the new order."

Registering all employable persons at their local free employment offices should help many to secure work, it was said, and thus halt the constant upward trend of relief expenditures. The allocations for this month are $9,743,929 for all projects, including drouth, a new high mark.

Mr. Reynolds was asked why the employment registration order had not been issued long ago.

"It probably should have been done earlier," he said, "but it just wasn't done."

Maps Program

A vastly increased program of recreation for Chicago's children and adults was discussed yesterday at the first meeting of Mayor Kelly's new recreation commission in the mayor's office. Dr. Philip Seman was named chairman of the group, which had been appointed by the mayor following sanction of the city council.

"There is a sweeping trend toward more leisure time for all of us," said Dr. Seman, "and we must find ways and means of filling in this time if we are to prevent delinquency and indolence. The answer may be in the development of Chicago's lake shore World's Fair site as a center of healthful recreation, amusement, and education."

Dr. Seman also proposed that the 5,000 policemen be schooled to be friends of the boys and girls. This influence, he declared, would have a marked effect in decreasing juvenile delinquency. Other officials of the new commission named at the meeting were Judge John P. McGoorty, vice chairman, and Dean Charles W. Gilkey of the University of Chicago, secretary-treasurer.

$16,000 RELIEF FOR 946 HOMES.

Muscatine, Ia., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Muscatine county has $16,000 for August relief of 946 families, Gus Albee, emergency relief administrator, announced today. July relief costs totaled $12,566 which was $3,000 more than June relief expenses.

BOY, 3, IS FOUND DRUNK; FATHER GETS SIX MONTHS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—A case of drunkenness which involved a 3 year old boy, found wobbling unsteadily along the street, today drew from a police court judge one of the longest sentences on record here growing out of a simple charge of intoxication.

Judge Ralph Given sentenced Bernard Manyette, 33, to six months in jail after it was testified he had given whisky to his young son, Paul, Manyette denied the charge.

Passersby at Sixth and F streets noticed the youngster last Monday. He was taken to a police station and given treatment after it was discovered his stomach held alcohol. A few minutes later Manyette burst into the station to say his son had been kidnaped. He admitted having been drinking himself and was charged with intoxication.

France Nabs Maid, 70, as $33,000 Art Swindler

MONTEUX, France, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A 70 year old housemaid, Mme. Valopin, was arrested today on a charge of having obtained 500,000 francs [about $33,000] from three Avignon art lovers who are alleged to have been deluded in the belief they were buying rare pictures and royal heirlooms from the magnificent Paris residence of the Princess Bourbon-Parme. Mme. Valopin was taken into custody in a handsome home which she had purchased with the money obtained from the collectors. Police charged she laid the groundwork for the deal by traficking honestly for years.

PRINCE OF WALES IS RED CAP FOR FAIR AMERICAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 1.—In the new rôle of red cap to a woman supposed to be an American, the Prince of Wales left Paris for Biarritz tonight with an air of mystery and enjoyment. Just before the train pulled out the prince grabbed a heavy bag, on which was lettered the name Mrs. Simpson, hefted it into the next compartment and received an intimate, "Thank you, sir," for his pains, to which he replied with a smile.

There were two younger women with Mrs. Simpson, but no one could learn their names or whether they formed part of the royal junket. Maj. Aird, the prince's aide-de-camp, answered reporters' questions by saying, "They are English, I believe," but smiled knowingly when a reporter suggested that Mrs. Simpson is American. The sixth member of the party named Guist, was also very busy maintaining the secrecy of the prince's departure.

The prince arrived by plane from London this afternoon and went directly to royalty's hotel, the Meurice. He then went for a stroll, came back to his hotel for tea, then for another stroll and back for dinner in a private room. An employé of the hotel swore up and down the prince's dinner was a stag affair.

At the station everybody was warned to say that the prince had taken an earlier train.

RIOTERS TURN ON OLSON AFTER RAID ON UNION

Dare Him to Run Again for Governor of Minnesota.

Father Haas, Dunnigan, and Olson also conferred, and although it was difficult to predict the ultimate end of these gatherings, all of the circumstances heightened the feeling that peace was near.

Union Rough With Olson.

The union's dropping of Olson was not a gentle act. It was couched in the hard, blunt language common to strike papers and it did not spare the governor of Minnesota.

"Let him run for office on the platform, 'I raided the headquarters of Local 574,' read the editorial in the Organizer, textbook of the strikers. "Let him say, 'I flung their leaders into the military stockade. I broke a strike which Johannes [chief of police] couldn't break. Therefore, workers and farmers, vote for me!'

"Let him come before the working men who put him into office and defend his actions. He will hear a roar of protest that will make the indignant shouts of 25,000 working men who gathered last night at the parade grounds sound like a whisper."

Adds to Olson Foes.

The dropping of Olson by the union added to the large voting groups already against him. Business men who have been fighting the strike have exhibited a growing disregard for his candidacy as the downtown no parking law continued to cut into their trade. Coupled with that was the fact that no truck permits have been issued to the large stores.

Much speculation was had today on why the governor, hitherto so friendly to the strikers, had permitted his troopers to raid the union headquarters. An answer was hard to obtain. The governor's formal statement was as follows:

"It is regrettable the union saw fit to issue the statement that resulted in these incidents today. The National Guard has certain orders and regulations which must be carried out, otherwise the organization ceases to be a National Guard.

"I think it unfortunate, their challenging and defying the National Guard, but the guard had no other alternative."

Find Improvised Hospital.

The fifth death to occur during the riots came today. John Belor, 49, a striker wounded ten days ago in a brush between pickets and police, died of gunshot wounds. Another man died last week. Two were killed in May and a citizen died yesterday when his car was struck by a National Guard patrol.

In the strike headquarters this morning were found several other wounded, all being attended by a "Dr." T. A. Enright, who told reporters that he was not a registered physician, but had been caring for the injured from the riot.

Irving Schein of Chicago was among those arrested at the headquarters. He declared that he was a correspondent for the Daily Illini, and had on his person mimeographed copies of a report of last night's massmeeting. These said there were 65,000 persons at the meeting, a figure which beat that of experienced estimators by about ten to one.

REROUTING NEXT WEEK WILL END DIXMOOR 'TRAP'

The state highway department is to change route markers next week so that the Governor's highway will follow Western avenue north from 175th street to 95th street, according to an announcement yesterday by Division Engineer Kendrick Harger.

This remapping will eliminate the stop sign for north bound trafic at Western avenue and 147th street, the stop sign where Mayor Charlie Special of Dixmoor and his police made so many arrests that State's Attorney Courtney is investigating speed trap complaints received by THE TRIBUNE.

The Governor's highway route markers now continue east in 175th street to Wood street, thence north to 147th street, and back west again to Western avenue. A survey by THE TRIBUNE roadster last Sunday showed that the present routing carries strangers about a mile farther than would the proposed direct route in Western avenue.

Pacific Coast Figures Cost of Strikes at 300 Millions

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Portland, Ore., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—As peace followed the dock strikes on the Pacific coast, men returning at San Francisco, Portland, and Seattle, sentiment seemed growing that one pressing problem is that of defining more closely "collective bargaining" as operating under NRA.

There was an estimated loss of some 300 million dollars to the west coast states in the 84 days of the strike. The loss is computed at 50 millions in Oregon, 100 millions in Washington, and 150 millions in California. Pacific coast residents wonder how much of that can be regained.

Fertile Ground for Reds.

In the calm now succeeding the dock warfare, one deduction voiced in the northwest is that NRA has proved "as fertile a field for minority of labor agitators, professional disturbers, and communists as for conservative organized labor." The strike wave is pointed to as evidence, denunciation of radicalists' part in the dock strike which was blown up into the dimension of a general strike of 77 hours duration in San Francisco is voiced in the Washington press.

There is an undercurrent of criticism that "the brain trust" showed itself incompetent and inefficient in the ways of mediation. Through the strikes the radical minority in capturing control from old line conservative leaders, kept shrieking, "we're carrying out principles of NRA."

Some Press Comments.

The Shelton Journal says: "The time is not ripe to sovietize the United States, although this country has been speeding unchecked in that direction."

The Walla Walla Bulletin asks "Why should we tolerate incursions into our land by a handful of paid agitators to attempt overthrow of our system by violent means?"

The Port Angeles paper says: "American people are not going to be blackjacked into submission by a small regiment of self-seeking communists."

The Davenport Times remarks: "The last election sent to congress a number of men whose chief aim has been an appeal to the radical and irresponsible elements."

The Centralia Chronicle declares the coming issue is constitutional government as opposed to decided tendencies toward socialism under the present Democratic administration.

The Mount Vernon Herald proclaims: "The President cannot get back to the mainland too soon; he left his labor troubles with Mme. Perkins, secretary of labor, who has accomplished nothing visible to the naked eye."

This all reflects a growing unrest in the northwest which may be reflected in the November elections. Along with it seems to be traveling a growing feeling among business men, large and small, and ordinary folks on the streets in Portland and Seattle that the time seems ripe to taper off on NRA and give business itself an opportunity at recovery from within as well as from the "priming the pump" process.

General Conditions Better.

The north Pacific cities, despite the strike, appear to be greatly improved in conditions. Tourist trafic is reported heavy by leading hotels, considering the period. Although lumber and the fisheries have been held back by the strike in addition to shipping the downtown stores appear to be doing pretty good trade.

The movies houses are well crowded at reduced rates. How much of this is attributable to business itself nobody knows, but it is most generally ascribed to the millions of government money poured into the pump for priming.

Oregon has a population of less than a million. One local newspaper this morning carried a tabulation from its Washington correspondent indicating that federal expenditures and allotments, doles and benefits in Oregon, mostly for public works since the recovery program was launched, have reached the astonishing total of $102,984,000.

This would be more than $100 for each man, woman, and child in the state.

It is set forth that this sum does not include the loans of 60 million dollars to farmers, homeowners, and banks, most of which has already been repaid. Only part of the 102 millions has been spent but this priming is accounted by some business experts as the great source of recovery to date, the pickup being attributed to the spending of government money which the tax payers throughout the country, especially in the populous industrial states will have to pay in taxes.

NEW U. S. DRIVE ON BOOTLEGGERS NETS TWO STILLS

The drive to eliminate bootleggers, announced recently by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, was launched yesterday when federal agents seized two stills in the Chicago area.

Agents raided an abandoned factory building at 525 West 76th street and seized two 2,000 gallon stills. A second raid on a farm near Joliet netted the agents an outlaw distillery with $12,000 worth of equipment, capable of turning out 1,000 gallons of alcohol daily.

Bernard Frankoff, 42 years old, and Ralph Santa, 30 years old, arrested in the 76th street raid, waived examination and were held to the grand jury by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on charge of violating the revenue act. Bond was set at $5,000 each.

Agents found 1,000 gallons of alcohol in the factory raid, 49,000 gallons of mash, and the two stills which had a total capacity of 4,000 gallons daily. The still were in full operation when they entered, the agents said.

Canadian Mounted Police Sent to Strike Riot Zone

STELLARTON, N. S., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Reinforcements were hurried into Stellarton today by the Royal Canadian mounted police to prevent further riots among miners of the Acadia Coal company after pickets rushed a group of six policemen, injuring two and bruising others. Several miners were injured. The strike is in protest over the suspension of a miner for using profane language to a manager.

NEW RAILROAD LABOR BOARD MEETS HERE IN ORGANIZATION SESSION

The National Board of Adjustment, created recently to handle railroad labor grievances, held an organization meeting yesterday at the Palmer house and prepared to hire a staf to be paid by the government.

The board consists of 18 management representatives and an equal number of labor spokesmen. It will operate through four divisions, three of ten members each, equally divided between management and labor, and the fourth of six members. The latter will handle marine matters, including labor disputes involving longshoremen.

Macy Nicholson, chairman of the former Western Train Service board, is chairman of the new board, and also chairman of the first division, which will handle all complaints involving operating employés. The second division will handle cases involving shop crafts and maintenance men, and the third those involving telegraphers, signalmen, dispatchers, clerks, sleeping car and dining car employés, and maintenance of way men.

The 36 members are paid by the organizations which they represent, but each division has a paid secretary, and it was proposed yesterday that each of the members be given a secretary, in addition to general clerical help to be employed. About 22,000 square feet of floor space will be required for quarters, it was said.

ROBS WOMAN; JAILED.

John Soboj, 25 years old, 2135 North Winchester avenue, was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction by Judge Alfred O. Erickson for robbing Mrs. Julia Ulick, 50 years old, 1139 North Hoyne avenue, of $40 near her home.

NEW MEDIATION ATTEMPT FAILS AT STOCKYARDS

Commission Men May Defy Strikers.

As another mediation attempt failed last evening in the stockyards strike, there were indications that live stock commission merchants would take steps today to resume trading in the yards without waiting for a settlement.

The commission men have been exerting all their influence to bring the strike to an end since Monday. It has been going on since July 24, when 800 stock handlers walked out, charging that the Union Stock Yards and Transit company had refused to abide by the terms of an arbitration award. The award was made by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, who was chosen arbitrator after a strike last November.

Since the strike opened the commission men have accepted no shipments of commercial stock for sale at the yards.

Stand Averts Violence.

This, observers say, has had a strong influence in preventing violence. However, the commission men have lost heavily as a result of their passive action.

The Chicago Live Stock Exchange, their organization, met yesterday morning to vote on the question of resuming trading. Before the vote was taken, it was reported, a message was received from union leaders predicting that a strike settlement might be effected at a conference scheduled for yesterday afternoon. Accordingly, the commission men postponed action until today.

Federal conciliators met with union representatives and company officials in the afternoon at the office of O. T. Henkle, general manager of the stockyards. After a discussion of more than two hours and a half the meeting broke up. Despite previous reports of concessions, it was learned that neither side would budge from its stand.

Set New Parley Today.

Carl Steffensen, executive secretary of the NRA regional labor board, and one of the mediators, announced at the close of the meeting that another conference is to be held today. Whether the commission men would wait on this conference, after postponing their action on opening the market to await results of the fruitless conference yesterday, was doubtful.

The strike of meat cutters and butchers in the plant of C. A. Burnette & Co., packers at 944 West 38th place, which was called Tuesday evening, was settled yesterday.

Although the butchers' union is affiliated with the stock handlers, the strike had nothing to do with the stockyards walkout. It was caused by the discharge of one of the union stewards working in the plant.

NAB 2 FOR USING MAE WEST AND B. YOUNG IN ADS

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Two men accused of using the names of Mae West, movie actress, and Brigham Young, late Mormon church leader, in connection with advertising for certain medicines were haled into the city prosecutor's office today for investigation.

The men were identified by authorities as R. R. Remington and R. C. Van Meter, owners of the Exzone Medicine company.

Frank Potter, deputy city prosecutor, said he will file complaints charging the men with slandering Brigham Young and with violating the pure food and drug act. Unless Miss West lodges a complaint against them they will not be charged with slandering her, Potter said.

Supporters of Kohler Strike Attempt to Mob 3 Marshals

Sheboygan, Wis., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Three men, deputy marshals at Kohler, who were on duty during the recent rioting there when two were killed and 43 injured, were menaced by a mob of strike sympathizers here today.

The three men, William Kellner, Robert Schroeder, and M. Braun, were recognized at a relief station. The mob defied them to come out.

"Lynch 'em!" "Beat 'em up!" were epithets hurled at the men by the crowd, which grew to serious proportions. FERA workers on the new county courthouse here were called upon to leave their jobs and join the pickets. Soon the entire relief department was surrounded by a mob.

Policeman Calls Help.

A policeman, attracted to the scene by the crowd, attempted to get the men out, but when he realized the seriousness of the situation he turned the men back into the office and telephoned headquarters for help.

Chief of Police Walter H. Wagner, realizing that a riot was inevitable if he tried to combat the temper of the mob, chose a different course.

He telephoned leaders of the striking union, explained the situation, and directed them to use their influence to give the alleged deputies safe conduct.

As a result Art Kuhn, president of the striking union, and Rudolph Renn, member of the strike committee, came in from Kohler to address the crowd. They led the three men out. They had been imprisoned two hours.

Kohler Village Peaceful.

Meantime Kohler village was peaceful. The 105th Wisconsin cavalry, which is maintaining peace today, moved its camp from the lawn north of the Kohler office to a point back of the American club, just across the street.

Guardsmen officers report nothing new and neither does the Rev. Father J. W. Maguire, strike mediator.

All riot patients except those seriously wounded and those unable to walk as a result of being shot in the legs have left the hospitals. Alex Weinert, most seriously hurt of the rioters, is expected to recover.

Fear Renewed Rioting.

Fear that the Kohler riots will burst again into violence as soon as the state troops are withdrawn resulted today in the decision to send a special committee of the county board to visit Gov. Schmedeman and petition him to keep the soldiers in Kohler.

The situation in Kohler is known to be tense although picketing has been perfunctory ever since the militia was rushed in last Saturday morning, following Friday night's rioting.

3 BAKERS' UNION MEN ARE HELD IN KROGER STRIKE

Henry Topp, secretary of the Bakers' Joint Council of Chicago, and two members of the bakers' union were held yesterday at state's attorney's office as the result of an investigation of a campaign of terrorism against the Kroger Consumers' stores. Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan said he expected to charge the prisoners with conspiracy to injure and boycott the stores.

Held with Topp are Gilbert Mann, 537 West 63d street, an organizer for the bakers' union, local No. 2, and Thorsten Olson, 1152 West Marquette road, a member of the union.

Prosecutor Coghlan said the bakers called a strike on June 19 in effort to force the Kroger stores to operate on a closed shop basis. State's attorney's investigators entered the case after 30 windows had been smashed and 20 stench bombs exploded in the stores.

Detectives assigned on complaint of Miss Genevieve Roney, treasurer and general manager of the Kroger company in Chicago, raided the union headquarters, 632 West 69th street, arrested 50 men, and seized books and records. Prosecutor Coghlan said six vials containing material used in stench bombs were found in Topp's automobile.

All of the men seized in the raid were released after questioning, with the exception of Topp, Mann, and Olson.

Prosecutor Coghlan said yesterday strikes directed against the Continental and Scholze Baking companies were terminated Tuesday without concessions to the bakers.

The prosecutor said the striking employés, with the exception of several with radical leanings, expressed satisfaction with working conditions and wages. They were unable to give a reason for the strike, the prosecutor said, except that they had been "called out."

N. Y. Building Workers Delay Strike Decision

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Decision upon a general strike of workers here engaged in heavy construction was postponed until Friday by the joint labor committee on heavy construction and railroad work meeting today. The delay was taken to allow the board of labor review an opportunity to review the issues.

HOLD DOCTOR'S DEATH SUICIDE.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of suicide while deranged over financial trouble in the case of Dr. Harry C. Asher, 55 years old, who shot and killed himself in his office at 1801 North Clark street Tuesday.

'FIGHT TYRANTS,' CAMPAIGN CRY OF RAINEY RIVAL

W. E. Wright Calls NRA Despotic Regime.

Waverly, Ill., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The tyranny at Washington is by far the most despotic ever exhibited among a civilized people, Warren E. Wright, Republican candidate for congress from the 20th district in Illinois, declared here today. He spoke at the Knights of Pythias homecoming.

Wright is a candidate for the seat now held by Speaker of the House Henry T. Rainey, Democrat, whose party he censured repeatedly.

"Some Democrats are always asking," Wright said, "what is the Republican plan to take the place of what is being done to the country now by the Democratic party. George III. and his ministers in England might just as well have asked what plan Washington and the rest of the 'rebels' had.

"Get Rid of Tyranny."

"I give the same answer as the Revolutionary patriots. My plan is to get rid of the tyranny at Washington—by far the most despotic example of tyranny ever shown among a civilized people.

"My plan is to get rid of it so thoroughly that no poisonous cult culled from a group of untried mentalities, impregnated with the doctrines of anarchism and destruction, ever shall get a foothold again in the capital of our country."

In discussing the NRA Wright severely criticised it as having strangled initiative. He asserted that if he is elected to congress he will vote to take away from the President or any one else the authority to stifle the initiative on which the success of life depends.

"Over in the small village of Murrayville in this county, where I was born and raised," he said, "a little girl takes from her mother's kitchen the discarded bright tin cans that fruit and vegetables come in. By the use of a pair of shears and some bright colored tissue paper she makes these cans into flower pots filled with beautiful tin and paper flowers.

"Their beauty has attracted many tourists and she has sold them to people from far and near for a very small sum. These few dimes gleaned from her labors has been spent for an occasional dress for herself or a shirt for her smaller brother.

Cites Mrs. Budd's Case.

"Just recently by an executive order of the President a similar project in which a mother [Mrs. Budd in New York] desired to support her two children in her home, was stopped because of the NRA. She now will be obliged to go on relief; she didn't want to do that, but is forced into it.

"When the initiative of the little Murrayville girl has been called to the attention of the state NRA enforcer, no doubt she also will be obliged to discontinue her labors and will be deprived of the few pennies she now earns."

Pledging himself to do his utmost to avoid the errors of the incumbents, Mr. Wright varied from the usual affirmative promises to his constituents and apprised his audience of what he would "not" do at Washington.

"I will not use a national emergency as an excuse for kicking into the discard the principles of free government, or to inflict oppressive taxes on a people who began their fight for liberty by dumping the British tyrant's tea into Boston harbor," he declared. "I will not be stampeded into putting on the statute books laws that increase the burdens of the people far beyond what they are able to bear.

He Won't Visit Russia.

"I will not make a trip to Russia or to any other country, at my own expense or at the expense of my government or any one else, and then come back to my own land and be the principal proponent for recognition of that country and the consequent lending of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money to any such country.

"I will not vote for measures to put the government in business when practical experience has shown that the government should be kept out of business. I will not vote for regimentation of our people under a Fascist system or for the encroachment of government in private business."

JAIL STUDENT AS SLAYER OF GIRL NEAR MATERNITY

Norman, Okla., Aug. 1.—Neal Myers, 21 year old University of Oklahoma student, was locked in a county jail cell today to await preliminary hearing on charges that he murdered his college sweetheart, Marian Mills, in an effort to defeat maternity.

Myers, who gave himself up last night after authorities had sought him for three weeks in connection with the death of the campus beauty queen, pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned today.

"I had to get out. I couldn't stand to think of the scandal and disgrace it would bring on my family and on Marian's family," he said today in explanation of his flight after Miss Mills' death.

The county prosecutor disclosed today that an instrumental operation had preceded Miss Mills' death July 10. Previously, death had been attributed to the use of "quack" remedies in an effort to defeat motherhood.

WOMAN, 62, ENDS LIFE.

CONDITIONS GOOD AT OAK FOREST, ASSERT WOMEN

Mrs. Guy W. Cornwell, chairman of the Cook county institutions committee of the Woman's City club of Chicago, yesterday made public the last findings of her committee showing that in June conditions were good at the Oak Forest infirmary. In making public the committee findings, Mrs. Cornwell said she was doing so because of the recent criticism of the institution following deaths during the heat wave.

"The committee has visited the institution periodically for some years," says the report. "During the last year considerable painting and repairing has been done in the corridors and wards, which has greatly improved the physical aspect of the institution. The buildings themselves are so constructed as to give a maximum of sunlight and air, with windows on two or three sides of many of the dormitories and hospital wards.

"The last day the committee visited Oak Forest was a very hot day in June, and we noticed with satisfaction the cool and breezy dormitories. The inmates furthermore have access to large and very beautiful grounds where they can sit in comfort under the trees. The beds are clean, with white bed spreads and comfortable mattress, with space between the beds for a small table."

Mrs. Cornwell said the committee visit was unannounced and that they were given free reign on the inspection tour. The report concludes with the statement "It seems there can be nothing much wrong with an institution whose doors are open to the public for inspection."

M'ADOO DIVORCE REPORT GOES TO EARLIER JUDGE

Los Angeles, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Holding that he had not authority to act upon the order of another judge, Superior Judge Charles L. Bogue today refused to hear the motion to strike presiding Judge Frank C. Collier's so-called "report" on the 43 minute divorce of Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo from the record.

Judge Bogue held, however, that Judge Collier was the proper person to hear the motion and continued the case until tomorrow afternoon, transferring it to the presiding judge's department.

Judge Collier in his report described the actions of Attorney Henry Grivi, who represented Mrs. McAdoo in the divorce, as "contemptible if not contumacious," and said by rushing through the decree he had "brought the court into disrepute."

"It is our opinion, and one of the arguments we intend to advance, that Judge Collier butted his nose into these proceedings without any authority whatsoever," Senator McAdoo's lawyer told Judge Bogue. "We consider this document an extrajudicial statement, the act of an irresponsible citizen, and not an act of a Superior court judge."

Mexico Sends Troops to Matanzas to Quell Rebels

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Federal troops were rushed today from Lagos, in the state of Jalisco, to the nearby town of Matanzas to put down a rebellious uprising of a group of armed men who drove out municipal authorities, sacked stores, and robbed the inhabitants. Authorities said the rebels attacked the town with shouts of "Viva Villareal!" Gen. Antonio I. Villareal, defeated presidential candidate, fled to the United States recently after authorities charged he was plotting a revolutionary movement.

SILENT REPORTERS JAILED AGAIN FOR REFUSING EVIDENCE

Danville, Ky., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Jail sentences for contempt of court in refusing to break a newspaper confidence were changed from night time to daylight hours for Jack Durham and Wesley Carty, Danville newspapermen today. This was followed by an offer from the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times to lend a staff man to the Danville Advocate if necessary to fill in for Carty, its city editor.

Gov. Ruby Laffoon at Frankfort, who received a telegram from Johnathan Eddy, executive secretary of the American Newspaper guild in New York, said he might reply to Eddy but indicated he had no authority to interfere in a contempt case.

Carty and Durham have been sent to jail daily since July 24, from three to six hours except yesterday when they were fined $3 each. Each day Police Judge Jay W. Harlan renewed his court of inquiry into the hanging in effigy here of Representative J. Sterling Towles and they declined to tell who tipped them in advance about the affair.

Prior to today they had served their jail sentences in the late day and night. Today, however, they were called up at 9 a. m. and went to jail about 9:30 for six hours. That prevented them from working today. When they were released they were recalled to court and fined $3 each.

LINDY FORCED TO LAND SHIP IN FIELD BY FOG

Brunswick, Me., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Dense fog forced Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to land his plane on a farmer's field here yesterday, but, except for the principals, no one knew of it until today.

David W. Douglas, owner of the field, said today Lindbergh, en route to New Jersey in a borrowed plane, landed on the field after Douglas' hired man had driven off the cows browsing there.

The flyer came from North Havan, encountering heavy fog here. He was forced back in an attempt to reach Portland, and again was balked in his effort to reach Bangor.

McKINLEY WINS CONTESTED 1930 JUDGE ELECTION

Jarecki Rules He Gained Majority of 79.

Ending almost four years of litigation, Charles F. McKinley was declared winner by a majority of 79 votes over the late George V. McIntyre for judge of the Municipal court in a decision announced yesterday by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

Judge McIntyre, a Democrat, was declared the victor by a 2,000 majority in the 1930 election, but shortly thereafter former Municipal Judge McKinley, a Republican, filed suit contesting the election.

In declaring Judge McKinley the winner Judge Jarecki reversed a previous decision and admitted ballots from three precincts which gave Judge McKinley the 79 vote majority. These ballots had previously been excluded for technical reasons.

Awaits Certification of Ruling.

Two other precincts were also in question, but Judge Jarecki announced he saw no necessity to rule on them inasmuch as Judge McKinley already had a majority. There are two more years of the six year term left to serve.

Judge McKinley will take office as soon as Judge Jarecki's decision is certified by the secretary of state and a proclamation issued. This is expected to be accomplished within two or three weeks.

The litigation was carried on despite the death of Judge McIntyre, who died July 15 after a lingering illness, because of a law effective Jan. 1 which provides that no election contest shall be abated by the death of one of the parties.

Consider Appealing Decision.

The law provides that, on behalf of the people, a representative be appointed to carry on the proceedings unless an elector files an intervening petition.

Attorneys representing the estate of Judge McIntyre indicated they may appeal Judge Jarecki's decision.

Judge McKinley said he had not decided whether to sue the estate for the $37,000 salary paid Judge McIntyre, but indicated he would consult the law on the point.

NEW TREASURER OF STATE G. O. P. TAKES POST HERE

H. C. Hornaman, new state treasurer for the Illinois Republican party organization, arrived here from his home in Danville yesterday to take over his duties at the state headquarters on the ninth floor of the 332 South Michigan avenue building. Mr. Hornaman was accompanied by Perry B. McCullough of Lawrenceville, chairman of the executive committee of the party organization.

The two men issued a statement in which they asserted that sentiment in Illinois had turned from the Democratic administration toward Republican principles more rapidly during the last thirty days than at any time during the preceding six months. Chairman McCullough announced that "there is a propitious outlook for Republican candidates in the fall election."

Justus Johnson of Aurora, chairman of the party organization in Illinois, was not in Chicago yesterday. He is in Springfield preparing for the state convention to be held there one week from today.

BACK BROKEN IN DIVE.

Carl Evans, 36 years old, 2967 Fifth avenue, whose back was broken Tuesday evening when he dived from a piling into shallow water at the Oak street beach, was in a critical condition at the Passavant hospital yesterday.

● IF THE EDITOR CAN'T GET AN AUDIENCE for the front page, what chance has the advertiser on the inside pages? Because the Chicago Tribune is a newspaper which people want—because the excellence of its news presentation makes a powerful appeal to the majority of the families of Chicago and suburbs—it today has the circulation—the market coverage—which advertisers want and need in order to get volume of sales in this market at a profit. In Chicago and suburbs alone, the Tribune now reaches more than 620,000 families—52% more than any other Chicago daily newspaper reaches. The Tribune's coverage of the metropolitan market is practically as great as the net coverage of any two other Chicago daily newspapers combined. Because more people see and respond to advertising in the Tribune, it pays out better. As a result, the Tribune carries more general and retail advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

U. S. INDICTS 28 IN MICHIGAN BANKING CASES

Crisis of 1933 Reflected in True Bills.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Twenty-eight Detroit business men, present or former bank officials, were named in true bills returned today by the federal grand jury. The jury for two months has been investigating the circumstances that preceded Michigan's financial chaos of 1933. The maximum for misapplying funds is $10,000 fine and five years in prison; on conspiracy, $10,000 fine and two years in prison. These offenses are charged in the new indictments.

Six of the men named were among the 13 indicted on June 29 by the same grand jury on charges of making or conspiring to make false reports of banking conditions and of misapplication of funds. All of the defendants then indicted have entered pleas of not guilty.

U. S. Law Violations charged.

The new indictments cite two specific transactions as in violation of the federal banking laws. The men involved in these charges are accused of misapplying bank funds and making a false statement.

Fourteen former officers and directors of the People's Wayne County bank, which merged with the First National Bank of Detroit in 1932, misapplied $544,221 of bank funds in the purchase of inadequately secured notes, it is charged.

It is further charged that these purchases were known to 11 officers and directors of the First National bank and of the Detroit Bankers company, holding concern for the First National and other institutions.

A charge of making a false report to the federal reserve bank was placed against three former officers of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., a holding company for the Guardian National Bank of Commerce and several other Michigan institutions. It is alleged they omitted $600,000 of bills payable in a report of the Union Industrial Bank and Trust company of Flint, Mich.

State Warrants Also Issued.

State warrants, based on the same transaction, were issued in Flint last week for two of these men, James L. Walsh, a former vice president of the Guardian Group, and Herbert R. Wilkin, former executive vice president and cashier of the Flint bank.

The third man, Robert O. Lord, former president of the Guardian Group, was among those indicted a month ago.

TELLS POLAND'S PLAN TO REDUCE PEASANTS' DEBTS

Premier Will Maintain Gold Standard.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Aug. 1.—Denouncing radical experiments, Premier Leon Kozlowski told leaders of the Pilsudski party today that Poland must get accustomed to a lower standard of living brought on by the depression, and combat the crisis with a common sense policy and hard work. Kozlowski detailed the new cabinet's determination to remain on the gold standard and the intention to cancel approximately 40 per cent of the indebtedness of the peasants.

Informing radicals that the government cannot be expected to work for everybody, the premier declared the safest policy is the capitalist policy, and the government is determined that no person who has deposited money in a bank or invested it should lose his savings. Poland must continue to fight the depression with its own means, he declared, and the people must be assured that their savings are safe.

Advises Thrift.

The only means of achieving a return to better conditions is to cultivate national, individual thrift, he continued, stating that the country must provide for the future of the half million children being born each year.

Poland, largely agricultural, with upwards of 2,000,000 small peasant farms, is confronted with a price index under which agricultural products have only 40 per cent of their 1929 value, while industrial products have 80 per cent of their 1929 value. The government, instead of devaluating the currency, intends to increase the price of agricultural products to the 60 per cent level and decrease the amount of agricultural indebtedness to the 60 per cent level.

According to the premier, millions of peasants are starving themselves by dumping produce on the market in order to obtain money to pay their debts, thus forcing prices down further. Through decreasing the indebtedness and converting short term credits into long term loans, the peasants will consume more of their own products.

Grain Relief to Refugees.

The premier also revealed the government does not intend to increase the grain subsidy this year, but instead will use the money to purchase grain for the relief of 50,000 families made destitute by the floods, and also to pay laborers employed in relief work in kind.

Declaring it has cost as much to assist one large estate owner as 5,000 peasants, the premier said the big land owners cannot expect further government aid.

Explaining the policy to decrease industrial prices, Kozlowski reported that the government had already reduced the prices of iron, coal, cement, and building material, and would take steps to assist a reduction in prices of other products. Kozlowski promised reforms of the social insurance laws.

The appropriation for the army, which amounts to almost 40 per cent of the budget, Kozlowski said, will not be reduced because of Poland's geographical position and historical experiences.

Reveals Prison Camp.

Kozlowski also included in the speech, which was broadcast to the nation, the government's first mention of the formation of a concentration camp.

"Because of the increasing number of acts of terrorism by hooligans, whose political argument is a club or a revolver, who aimed to establish anarchy and communism by a reign of terror," he said, "the government was compelled to take steps which we tried to avoid. Sabotage, murders, and assaults culminated in the assassination of Minister of the Interior Bronislaw Pieracki, so we established a concentration camp, where about 200 men are imprisoned.

"They were confined to Ukrainians, some communists who are mostly Jews, and lastly a collection of National Socialist roughnecks who attempted to incite pogroms. These extremists will have plenty of work building roads for the nation they were attempting to overthrow."

Runs for Governor

MRS. WILLIAM LANGER.

TROOPERS GUN FOR BEAR NEAR ROOSEVELT HOME

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP)—State troopers scoured President Roosevelt's Hyde Park estate and vicinity with guns drawn last night following a fresh report that a large black bear had been sighted in the wood. Their search, made with aid of flashlights, was unavailing and today a large possé of armed villagers also combed the wood without success.

About a month ago a bear was reported seen by several persons in this vicinity but no animal was ever caught.

A passing motorist who declared he saw the bear prowling about in a field gave troopers their first tip.

TYPHOID SCARE BANS PEANUTS AT EVANSTON CIRCUS

The circus is coming to town for Evanston today, but there will be none of the traditional peanuts and pink lemonade.

Due to typhoid fever, which broke out among the laborers of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey show while it was in Detroit last week, Evanston health authorities have banned the sale of all foods on the circus grounds.

Dr. John W. H. Pollard, Evanston health commissioner, said he had investigated the situation and was satisfied there was no danger of any spread of the epidemic in Evanston, if proper precautions were exercised.

G. O. P. PICKS WIFE OF LANGER FOR GOVERNOR RACE

Ousted Dakota Chief Withdraws.

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 1—(AP)—Mrs. William Langer, wife of North Dakota's deposed governor, today stepped into his shoes as nominee for governor as the Republican state central committee threw its support behind her.

She will head the ticket which Langer, two days before he was sentenced to 18 months imprisonment, led to a smashing victory.

The central committee, by a vote of 36 to 9, voted to support Mrs. Langer who will be offered as a "vindication" candidate by the Langer faction which charges the ousted governor is a victim of "persecution."

Conviction Appealed.

Langer has appealed to the Federal Court of Appeals from his conviction of conspiracy to solicit political contributions from federal relief workers. The State Supreme court ordered his removal as governor because of his conviction and prior to his resignation as the nominee, it was indicated his right to run in the November election would be challenged in the courts.

Before the committee met, arrangements had been completed in caucus for Langer's resignation and Mrs. Langer's indorsement.

Paralleling the "Ma" Ferguson case in Texas, where impeachment of Jim Ferguson as governor was followed by election of his wife as chief executive, Mrs. Langer, a product of a New York socially prominent family, is a newcomer to state politics in which her husband has been active for years.

Mother of Four.

A home-loving person, mother of four daughters, Mrs. Langer was hurled into the state political malestrom when her husband went on trial in federal court last May.

For the first time the daughter of the late J. Cleveland Cady, architect who designed the famous Metropolitan Opera House, took to the political stump to defend her husband and to appeal for his nomination. The electorate replied with a sweep of votes that made him the Republican nominee, and sent his entire ticket to victory.

FARLEY INDORSES KING IN UTAH'S DEMOCRAT RACE

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley today indorsed Senator William H. King of Utah, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for reëlection. Supporters of Herbert B. Maw of Salt Lake, also seeking the nomination, had asked that he refrain from indorsing any one.

In an address the Democratic national chairman also mentioned Reed Smoot, former Republican senator.

"I am happy to be on the stand with Senator Smoot," Farley said. "His was a fine service and a great work. Senator King, with his wide experience, his tireless energy, his native ability, and a culture nurtured in the schools of Utah, is a credit to his church, his state, and his country."

Frederick Pasquay was convicted of spying for Germany and sentenced to 18 months in prison at Metz, and Jeanne Dieudonne to a year in Nancy on a charge of attempting to pry secrets from officers stationed at an aviation field.

Thirty-three arrests have been made since January. More than a hundred persons arrested prior to 1934 await trial on espionage charges.

GOODMAN LOSES FREEDOM FIGHT IN U. S. APPEAL

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday denied a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for John P. Goodman, serving a life sentence in the Indiana state penitentiary under the habitual criminal act.

Goodman, who carried his fight for freedom through the Indiana Supreme court and into the federal courts, maintained that the state court had erred in sentencing him under the habitual criminal act without imposing sentence on a charge of house breaking under which he was indicted.

Court attachés cited the decision as significant, as the same plea was made in the appeal of James [Fur] Sammons, gangland machine gunner and public enemy, who also was sentenced to life under the habitual criminal act in Indiana. Sammons, whose appeal is now before the Supreme court of Indiana, was arrested in Cedar Lake, Ind., charged with carrying a revolver.

The federal decision yesterday upheld the ruling of the state courts that Goodman was not entitled to freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

THE TEACHERS' PAY.

The thing Chicago disliked most in its experience with hard times, aggravated by an infernal tax muddle, was the nonpayment of public employés. There were others than the teachers and board of education employés, but the school case stood out most prominently. At times it seemed hopeless and, moreover, it seemed impossible to expect that the schools could be maintained with the paymaster in such arrears and the teachers in such deprivations and despair.

Although unpaid and in debt and want the teachers stuck to their posts. All the unpaid employés did their work even if the pay window remained closed. Mayor Kelly and his advisers at last hit upon the scheme which of all promised the greatest chance of success, that of a federal loan secured by bonds based upon the real property of the schools not used for educational purposes.

Thanks to the opinion of the state Supreme court that it is within the power of the board of education to make such use of this public property in its charge, the complete pay day is now in sight. The Supreme court judges recognized that an emergency existed and gave a vacation decision. If the rest of the road can be taken without disappointment, if the RFC finds no unexpected difficulties, Chicago will be rid of what it has long considered a disgrace unavoidably imposed, but none the less intolerably prolonged.

THE PIRATE SCARE.

The false alarm that six modern pirates had boarded the excursion steamer City of Grand Rapids on its July 31 trip from Chicago to Milwaukee caused excitement, alarm, and finally mirth, all along the shores of Lake Michigan.

Lieut. S. F. Gray, communications officer at the divisional headquarters of the coast guards, dispatched six boats from as many different spots between Chicago and Milwaukee to converge on the steamer and capture the pirates, if such there were.

There were no pirates, fortunately, and Capt. M. F. Morgan of the City of Grand Rapids almost went into a decline after five different coast guard boats had stopped and searched his vessel. Most people took a humorous view of the situation. In fact, it was a humorous incident.

But there is one fact not to be overlooked. Five minutes after the alarm reached the coast guards the cutters and patrol boats, loaded with armed men, were on the way. Suppose there had been pirates.

If that had been the case the vigilance and prompt action of the coast guards would have trapped them without fail. Converging on the excursion boat from all sides, they would have blocked any attempt to escape by small boats.

In these days of outlaws who escape police trap after police trap it is encouraging to know that there is one arm of service that can and does meet emergencies.

Although the pirate alarm on the City of Grand Rapids resulted in something of a fiasco, it did prove that the coast guards are maintaining the fine name their service has always had. Congratulations are due the men and Lieut. Gray, who directed them.

LOW WATER IN THE MISSISSIPPI.

The government's gauge at Red Wing, Minn., shows the upper Mississippi to be shallower than it has been at any time since records have been kept. Down river the situation is little better because most of the principal tributaries are also extremely low. There is only one tributary of the Mississippi which can be counted upon to deliver its expected quota even in a year of general drouth. That tributary is the Illinois, which in turn taps Lake Michigan.

The diversion of a quantity of water which is negligible so far as the lake is concerned becomes of immense value in maintaining navigation in the river. The fact is well understood by the agitators for the Canadian seaway. They are scheming again to bring about ratification of the Canadian treaty, with its sacrifice by our government of control over Lake Michigan, because they wish to destroy the Mississippi as an avenue of commerce. They wish to make of it a waterway without water and thus to prevent the growth of a rival trade route. It is difficult to believe that senators who have observed the effects of the drouth this summer will be taken in by the story that the diversion is not needed to maintain navigation in the Mississippi. Certainly every Mississippi valley senator has more reason than ever for opposing the treaty.

JAPANESE-AMERICAN RELATIONS.

The new Japanese premier, Mr. Okada, in an interview with foreign correspondents says that while Japan cannot approve the present naval ratio, since it offends the self-respect of the nation, he does not expect parity with the British and American fleets. He asserts an intention to labor for as great a reduction in naval armament as practicable but suggests that the ratio system should give way to some better plan of adjustment.

There is much to be said for the suggestion. A limitation upon ship tonnage by ratio does not sufficiently regard the difference of naval needs of the nations involved and it overemphasizes one factor of naval power at the expense of other essentials. Two fleets having the same total tonnage even if distributed among the same types are not of equal power or of equal value to their respective nations. Ships are not the only factor of naval power. Their value is not merely numerical or solely a question of tonnage and armament. It must be estimated also in relation to the bases available to them, to strategic conditions, and to the responsibilities which national interest and policy impose upon the navy.

Whether ratios are to be retained or not, no change in the present agreement with Japan can be considered without consideration of the agreement as to bases and of our respective responsibilities in the Pacific. It is arguable that an abolition of limitations, regrettable as we may think it from the standpoint of economy, might be conducive to peace. It would be if we were induced by it to build up the navy and develop the other factors of naval power commensurately with our resources. But there is little in our history to justify hope that we shall, and the huge burden of public debt imposed upon us and which succeeding generations must carry still further diminishes any hope our optimism may cherish in spite of past experience. We must, therefore, consider well the expediency of agreements for limitation from the viewpoint of our own predictable course of conduct in naval maintenance. It seems at least plausible that a nation whose commendable hatred of war has always successfully resisted preparation for it would be wise in using what skill and influence it possesses to bring about and enforce limitations by agreement. Yet, if we take this course, as we probably shall, we ought to realize more clearly than we do that the agreements have not been very friendly to our interests up to this time and are no reliable substitute for adequate defense. Japanese naval ambition may gradually bring us to a better appreciation of realities, but our hope of this is feeble.

Meanwhile the American people will welcome Mr. Okada's amiable expression upon Japanese-American relations, which does not support the alarmist tactics of certain army and navy leaders in Japan and many of the Japanese newspapers. No differences between the two nations justify a recourse to war and only a very shortsighted and irresponsible conduct of our relations will permit them to reach the point of armed collision. We have given some occasion for irritation to the Japanese people, and have thus made difficulties for the more temperate and friendly disposed counsels in Japanese government. The diplomatic experiment of Mr. Stimson was an outstanding example and our failure to admit the Japanese to our quota rule for immigration is an entirely unnecessary affront to Japanese national pride which ought to be removed promptly. But such ineptitudes are the result of our lack of a well considered and persistent foreign policy rather than of unmanageable differences.

On the other hand, the American public is impressed with a bellicose temper among the Japanese, their press and certain important forces in their politics, which, taken with the masterful course of their policy on the Asiatic mainland, gives some reasonable occasion for concern among our people. To offset these disturbing factors the responsible statesmanship and press of both countries must work persistently. The preponderant interest of both peoples is the maintenance of peace between them through the avoidance of unnecessary irritations and emphasis upon those major mutual interests which war would seriously or fatally injure.

Editorial of the Day

A DANGEROUS SORT OF JUSTICE.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

The coroner of Cook county undoubtedly struck a popular chord of sentiment in connection with the killing of Dillinger when he remarked: "I hope that it won't be long before the rest of the Dillinger gang is brought to justice in a similar manner, and it will be a pleasure as coroner to conduct these inquests. I am gratified to report that all this cost the county was $6 for a jury."

Such a hope reflects a distrust of the ordinary processes of justice which is not entirely incomprehensible. The thought has been frequently expressed since Dillinger was slain that it was better to have him die at the hands of his captors than to see him turned over to the courts for trial. The Cook county coroner, apparently, thinks this is the better and surer process, and the more economical one, to boot. He would like to see it applied to all the Dillinger gangsters rather than to deliver them to the often tender mercies of the courts.

We doubt, however, that those who are able to keep their emotions in check will recommend, as a broad policy, that the execution of justice be left to police officers. We may readily grant that Dillinger deserved to die and still question the wisdom of encouraging officers of the law to set themselves up as a court and decree death for any criminal. The department of justice operatives quite wisely took no chances with Dillinger. It may be assumed, we think, that they shot in self-defense, and that this element of self-defense fully justified their action.

The fact remains, however, that there is not much to be said for the sort of summary justice that the coroner of Cook county hankers for. It is not up to police officers to decide whether justice can best be served by a bullet, or whether a coroner's inquest, since it is quicker and cheaper than a trial, is to be preferred to it in the case of any individual.

The courts may be slow, and they often miss the mark of justice, but they are still the best place to determine the guilt or innocence of any man and to mete out the penalties for his wrongdoings. It is not a question of whether Dillinger got what he deserved or of whether his associates will get what they deserve if they die in like fashion. The point is that police officers are neither judges nor juries, and that when we urge them to assume that function we strike at the very heart of our judicial system.

ALONG THE WAY YOU GO.

If the world be lonely,
None of beauty there,
Brightly plant a Garden
By the road you fare.
Fondly come you dreaming
Roses, passion-sweet?
'Twas the old illusion
Of another street.

When you gather roses
From a barren tree,
Vandals will have planted
Ruin, as you see.
Deserts yield a harvest
Wantons harrowed there.
Shall you gather roses,
Never knowing care?

Though the day is barren,
Deeply set your prayer,
That another Eden's
Harvest be as fair.
Far the road and lonely . . .
Only you and I.
Fondly came you dreaming
Roses never die?

IT HAS COME TO THE attention of this department that unpaid school teachers shortly will receive checks in amounts from $1,000 to $2,500. These checks, carefully inspected by Mayor Kelly and President McCahey of the school board, have been tested in the courts. They are not rubber. They will not bounce back. They may be exchanged for money in the near future.

With the wish to be helpful and informative, The Wake-Line undertakes to tell the hitherto unpaid teachers something of money. Money is the root of all evil, but evil, like virtue, has its own reward. Money, of itself, is valueless, but it is what it brings that counts, those necessities, even those little luxuries we are so prone to enjoy.

Money buys things. Yes, money buys things, even straight and place tickets for improving the breed of thoroughbreds. And our money bought so many of these at Arlington that we are handicapped at this time in telling you more, dear teachers, of the use of money. So let us refer you to Webster's Collegiate dictionary, viz.:

MONEY (muny) n., pl. MONEYS (—IZ) (OF. moneie fr. L. moneta See MINT for coining). 1. A piece of metal coined or stamped and issued by the sovereign authority as a medium of exchange; also a number of such pieces collectively; coin. 2. Hence, any currency usually and lawfully employed in buying or selling. 3. In general, wealth; property.

MEMORY HARKS BACK.

Harvey: The sight of those Kilts, Sporrans, and Glengarrys in our city carried my memory back seventeen years to Leith on Scotland's River Forth where a Canadian Gunner and an Anzac had met and waxed convivial over much of "Scotland's Best." Leaving the pub, they wove their way to the bus for Edinburgh, which they were about to assist each other aboard when the lad from "down under" saw in a dim haze (at least it was hazy to me) the huge balloonlike envelope atop the bus containing the vaporized fuel.

The Anzac drew back in alarm, exclaiming, "Gor blimey, matey, you cahrnt get me on any blinkin' hairship."

I often wondered if he "stopped one," for I never saw him again, that digger from Codford Wells. Bill of Bramshott.

CATARACT.

The name cataract is derived from a Greek word meaning "something which flows down." It came into use because of an erroneous idea that the obstruction to vision was caused by an abnormal fluid or tissue that had poured down in front of the crystalline lens of the eye. Brisseau, a French army surgeon, dissected the eye in 1805 and showed that the abnormal tissue was the crystalline lens itself, which had become opaque.

We now know that in certain persons past the age of 40, or even younger, the crystalline lens which is normally clear becomes opaque and obstructs vision. This is a manifestation of old age in this particular structure. It occurs to a certain extent in all who live to an advanced age, but, like gray hair, comes much earlier in certain persons than in others. There is a definite family tendency to this early clouding of the lens. Certain diseases, such as diabetes and chronic eczema, cause cataract in younger persons; and small children may even develop it as a result of malnutrition before or after birth, or because of a heriditary tendency. By far the greatest number of cataracts, however, occur in persons otherwise healthy.

The only symptom of cataract is a gradual decrease of vision, usually in both eyes, but often in one eye before the other. Examination reveals a cloudiness behind the pupil, so that in an advanced case the pupil looks white. There is no pain. Various other conditions are called cataract by the layman, but in true cataract only the crystalline lens is affected. Many other eye conditions are more serious than cataract and require prompt treatment. In any case of failing vision an eye physician should be consulted.

There is no treatment by means of medicine which will clear a cataract when it is once formed. Various methods have been tried to prevent further progress of the cataract, especially drops which cause a temporary congestion of the eye. While a trial of such treatment in early cases may often be desirable, it must be understood that it may prove ineffective.

In some cases the opacities in the lens will remain stationary for years with or without treatment. In other cases they progress, and surgical treatment becomes necessary. When both eyes are affected operation is performed on the more advanced cataract whenever the patient can no longer see to carry on his ordinary activities. It is not necessary to wait until the cataract becomes completely opaque or ripe. However, when only one eye is affected operation is performed when the cataract is ripe.

The operation consists in removing the opaque crystalline lens from the eye, often with a slight enlargement of the pupil. It is performed under local anesthesia and usually requires a stay of seven to fourteen days in the hospital. The operation should be done by a surgeon of skill and experience, and in such hands the visual results are good, provided no other disease of the eye is present. A good result means that, with a proper glass to replace the optical function of the removed lens, vision for distance and reading is excellent, often normal. Without this strong glass only large objects are seen.

In the case of children with cataract the procedure differs only in a few details from that in adults, but such children may have other congenital defects of the eyes which interfere with the result obtained.

1. What is a carbuncle?
2. Is it dangerous?
3. Is operation necessary?

REPLY.

1. A carbuncle is an infection of the skin, usually by the organism known as a staphylococcus, that results in inflammation and destruction of tissue wherever located.

2. It may be. The areas of destruction may be very great, and there may be effects involving other parts of the body.

3. There are many modes of treatment. Sometimes the course of infection may be greatly shortened by operative procedure. If allowed to continue serious destruction of tissue may occur.

From Across the Sea

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—The enormous losses to which insurance companies would be liable in the event of aerial bombardment in any part of the world were referred to at the recent annual meeting of the Eagle Star and British Dominions company.

Sir Edward Mountain, chairman of the company, in his address, said that modern methods of war—if ever they should again be applied—would have a very serious effect on insurance companies. He said that the whole question of war risks was receiving the attention of the underwriters.

Owing to the existing custom of covering goods from warehouse to warehouse under numerous different contracts, Sir Edward said, it was impossible for a marine underwriter to know how much he had to risk at any time in any one port. Generally, in times of peace, the risk of war was covered without extra premium subject to ten days' notice, but now the damage could probably be done before notice could be given.

"Even if small premiums were obtained, it would not safeguard against a catastrophe," he said. "This could be eliminated if protection were granted while goods were water borne only."

Speaking to newspaper reporters later, Sir Edward said that the only future solution of the problem seemed to be international agreement among underwriters on the question.

"Of what use today is ten days' warning?" he asked. "That was all right formerly. Before a port could be bombarded, there would be ample warning, but an air attack might be so sudden as to make this clause useless. I know that underwriters are discussing the question, but it is one that bristles with difficulties in solution. Goods are covered during the period of transit from warehouse in the interior to warehouse in the interior, and, of course, the greatest danger would lie at the great ports. If there was a sudden bombardment tomorrow of any great port, the underwriters, by existing arrangements, would be liable for the damage caused."

WHAT'S WRONG WITH RELIEF?

Chicago, July 24.—May I express appreciation of the moderated criticism in this morning's TRIBUNE story about the charges of graft and waste in connection with the administration of relief by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission?

The problem of successful relief administration for some 200,000 families who have virtually been rendered homeless and destitute in an emergency is no small matter, even under the most favorable circumstances. The problems were complicated and intensified by two major factors inherent in the situation in this country generally.

The first of these was in the complicated system of financial control for the disbursement of public funds. Our state fiscal system requires in the disbursement of public funds an intricate and detailed system of written orders, vouchers, checks and counter checks "in payment for services already rendered" which is well adapted to the administration of ordinary public affairs but which, in the judgment and experience of competent relief executives, was much too complicated and cumbersome for the proper and economical distribution of noninstitutional family relief. The application of this system has necessarily required a large staf of clerical workers and accountants not only at the general headquarters of the commission but in every relief station where relief has been dispensed.

The second factor, in the opinion of many well qualified and impartial social work executives, has been the necessity of using the case work method. The method has been develop by family relief and service agencies and is primarily adapted for service to so-called problem families or families who for some reason are not quite competent to manage their own affairs. For that purpose the case work method is admirably adapted to securing results in the rehabilitation of families, which, of course, should be the real object in any intelligent administration of relief.

This was the system which, in the emergency, we had to turn to for the administration of unemployment relief. Since this relief was primarily for families which were not essentially problem cases, the system, in the opinion of many competent observers, is unduly cumbersome and expensive.

That some better method may and should be found is becoming increasingly evident to all thoughtful observers. Perhaps some plan of unemployment insurance or some more adequate and better safeguard plan for controled public works would better meet the need and on a more permanent and economical basis.

Any fair and intelligent criticism of the commission or of the relief system in this state or other states should take into consideration the difficulties with which the relief administrators have had to deal and the really heroic and conscientious efforts which have been applied to the task. Any statement which directly charges, or from which may be inferred any charge of general graft or incompetence, is highly unjust and unmerited as well as grossly untrue.

FRANK D. LOOMIS.

THE NEW DEAL DEFENDED.

Chicago, July 27.—Why doesn't THE TRIBUNE pursue a saner course in its editorial policy? The constant bitter attack on the administration seems to me to be defeating its purpose.

Anybody who is unprejudiced must admit that the New Deal has done much good and that several of its policies deserve retention permanently. Any comparison of the nation's status now, even in the summer letdown, with conditions as they were on March 3, 1933, will show the benefit that has resulted. The cost of the New Deal recovery is large, it is true, but then you can't get something for nothing.

The do-nothing policy of the Hoover administration had brought this nation into such a state of hopelessness that something drastic had to be done to forestall communism in this country. As for your painting of this administration as Red, that is truly irony at its best. The hope that the New Deal has given the workingman is a bulwark against communism. It may interest you to know that the communist paper is as bitter toward the New Deal as THE TRIBUNE is. It would seem that any policies so bitterly attacked by both extreme reactionaries and extreme radicals are following a reasonable middle course.

CROPS ARE GOOD, FARMERS BUSY IN WISCONSIN

Plenty of Pasturage and Enough Moisture.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Eastern Wisconsin farmers are located on one of the lucky squares of America's agricultural checkerboard. Farms are hidden under a thick quilt of crops from Racine to this finger shaped peninsula that projects out into the waters of Lake Michigan and Green bay.

With the exception of Kenosha county in the extreme southeast corner of the state, there is a good outlook in all of the counties northward to Green Bay. Most of the small grain is mature and within a short time will be in storage. The early corn is far enough along to escape damage from normal frosts.

Raising Plenty of Feed.

Farmers in Sheboygan county, typical of these lake shore counties, expect to raise plenty of feed this season for their 58,000 dairy cows, 16,000 hogs, and more than 600,000 chickens. They have decreased the acreage of some of their crops, but have offset this by increasing their plantings of other crops. They cut down this year on oats, rye, red clover and timothy, canning peas, and hogs, but increased their acreage of barley and alfalfa, according to S. S. Mathisen, county agricultural agent. The acreage of old standby crops, including corn, wheat and sweet clover, is about the same this year as last.

Mr. Mathisen says the yields of small grain and hay crops are off some this season, but the corn crop is expected to be about normal. Sheboygan county alone is growing about 30,000 acres of corn and the yield is expected to run between seven and eight tons of silage to the acre.

40 Bushels to an Acre.

Corn that will mature ears is expected to average about 40 bushels to the acre. Little of the small grain has been threshed, but the county agent estimates that wheat will average about 17 bushels; oats, 35; barley, 30; rye, 16 bushels per acre.

He estimates that the two cuttings of alfalfa will average about 1¾ tons to the acre, some fields yielding 3 tons to the acre on the first cutting, while sweet clover is furnishing good pasture for cows this season. Dairymen are running an average of one cow on each three-quarters of an acre. There will be enough corn to fill Sheboygan county's 3,430 silos; the county has 98 silos to every 100 farmers.

Plenty for Canneries.

Sheboygan county grew 4,000 acres of canning peas this year, producing approximately 5,000,000 pounds of peas. This is not far below the average yield, although the early crop of canning peas was short. In addition to the canning peas the county has 700 acres for seed producing purposes. The yield is expected to run about 14 bushels to the acre.

The Door county canneries normally put up about 15,000,000 pounds of cherries and will use about 11,000,000 this year, but the fruit is said to be larger and of better quality than usual.

3 ROBBERS RAID CONGRESS HOTEL AND TAKE $2,000

CRIMINAL COURT.

Peter Martinkus, rape, sentenced to 1 year in the penitentiary; Peter Micus, embezzlement, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Cletus O'Rourke, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Police searched yesterday for some trace of the three bandits who early in the morning robbed the cashier of the Congress hotel of $1,300 and $700 in checks. The robbery was regarded as one of the most daring in recent years.

While one guarded the Congress street entrance to the hotel, the others invaded the lobby. One leveled a shotgun at bellboys and guests in the lobby and the third rushed into the office behind the cashier's cage.

Nick Radevoeff, 3911 West Monroe street, the auditor, was checking receipts.

The bandit forced Radevoeff to walk into the cashier's cage where Paul Nopar, the cashier, was menaced. Nopar was forced to point out the money box which the bandit seized and retreated into the lobby.

Joined by his companion, the two ran to where the third had been left on guard and disappeared.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

August 1, 1934.

THIS is a sort of "in between" period as far as major jobs on the farm are concerned. Not that there isn't plenty of work to do, on the contrary, there is no lack of it. However, August brings a sort of breathing spell marking the transition period between the haying and the threshing and the autumn jobs such as filling the silos, gathering the final hay crop and harvesting the matured field crops.

Thus farm life goes on in well defined cycles in keeping with the seasons. Unless you watch the calendar and the record and variety of work done on the acres out here you hardly realize this fact. Until last week the experimental farm has been rushed with activity because of the work involved in caring for the crops, getting in the hay and then harvesting the oats. All the test plots where visitors can look upon scores of rare or unusual crops had to be taken care of besides cultivating many acres of corn. Now you can lean against the fence along the road and look at row after row of corn that requires but little work from now on. The long days of operating the cultivators are behind. This is the season of ripening, of hoping that the weather man will "do right" and provide good rains much needed all through this valley.

Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm, was outlining some of the odd jobs that he has scheduled for this month which marks the "in between" period here on the farm. Job number one is a relentless attack against weeds. The boys are being scattered all over the place, their main armament a hoe or a scythe in order to wipe out the weed patches. Another job involves a number of barn repairs. [One barn is going to get a new roof.] Some of the farm machinery is scheduled to be overhauled this month and Clarence figures on completing that whitewashing of the chicken coops, too.

The housewives on the farm are having a busy time this week. Now that the sweet corn is ripe and nearly every home garden plot has more corn than can be eaten from day to day, the women are canning a supply of this vegetable. Mrs. Guenther and Mrs. Thurow were busy all day yesterday with this task. They also put up several quarts of tomato conserve.

"Gee, if it would only rain." That was Clarence's remark yesterday when he again inspected the late corn and saw how heavily infested it is with chinch bugs. A soaking rain would put a definite crimp in the activity of the bugs and at the same time give the corn new strength to resist the attacks of the bugs. The Midwest, Macoupin, Ebony, Virginia, and Wilson varieties of soy beans could stand a good rain, too. These crops in the test plots have been seared by the intense heat and now are beginning to show that they need moisture.

Clarence now has the 117 Herefords in a pasture on the north side of the river where they can get plenty of feed and also shade on hot days. A checkup has just been made of the pasturage over there because there was some doubt about the feed holding out in view of the lack of rain. However, Clarence brings back the encouraging report that the Herefords are fat and in good condition and he estimates that there is enough feed to keep the steers in this one pasture for around two weeks. Then they will be shifted to other acreage. These steers probably figure that they are seeing a lot of the country this year because they have been moved so often due to the shortage of feed. They have been shifted around to a new pasture very frequently.

THIS MAN CLAIMS HE HAS A MACHINE TO 'MAKE RAIN'

BRANTFORD, Ont., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Brantford has a rainmaker. He claims he has produced storms, not mere sprinkling. He is Frank Clark, who says he has spent 15 years completing a device that draws moisture from the heavens.

Clark said he had his device "on" for only four hours two days ago and "brought the storm." It did storm at that time.

Clark maintains the "rainmaker" also can receive music—and television is the machine's next development. It will produce any kind of weather, he says.

BANDITS ROB HOTEL MAN.

Samuel Brin, manager of the Glasser apartment hotel, 4826 Sheridan road, was robbed of $339 yesterday. He had just withdrawn the money from a bank for paroll purposes and two young gunmen followed him into the lobby of the hotel.

Fall Kills War Veteran at Edward Hines Hospital

Edward Stumpf, 50 years old, a world war veteran from Miami, Fla., leaped to his death from a third floor window of the Edward Hines Memorial hospital yesterday afternoon. He had recently been admitted for treatment, but officials said he was suffering an incurable disease. Many inmates, strolling on the grounds, saw Stumpf's leap.

DRENCHING RAIN FALLS OVER MOST OF DOWNSTATE

Badly Needed; Showers Due Here Today.

Wilted crops received a drenching yesterday as rain fell in most sections of central and southern Illinois. Heavy showers accompanied by thunder were forecast for Chicago early this morning.

Reports from the parched southern areas of the state yesterday indicated the rainfall in some sections was the heaviest in months. From Havana to East St. Louis rain fell for two hours. In Cass county, to the west of Springfield, an electrical storm accompanied the heavy summer shower.

Rain Due Here Today.

W. P. Day, government forecaster, predicted rain would fall in the Chicago area early this morning, and possibly later today. Southeast winds, shifting to east and northeast during the day, were expected to keep the temperature moderate and bring the much needed water to burned up crops.

"You can't always tell about these summer showers," Mr. Day said last night, "but indications now are favorable for an appreciable rainfall." Yesterday's temperature remained cool, as a southeast wind prevented the mercury from rising higher than 84 at 3 o'clock.

Crops Need Rain.

Relief from the drouth came to southern Illinois as the weekly crop report of E. W. Holcomb of Springfield was announced. He stated that heavy rains were needed to check further deterioration of the corn crop and to discourage the second brood of chinch bugs which are now developing. Northwestward from Macoupin and Jersey counties, much of the corn is already beyond help, his report stated.

Conditions in meadow and pasture lands last week ranged from fair to a failure. However, most of the second crop alfalfa has been cut, and soy beans in districts visited by local showers are promising. Most of the rain last week was in the nature of widely scattered local showers. In some places in the western part of the state securing of domestic and stock water is extremely difficult.

Fall Heavy in Many Places.

The heaviest rainfalls reported yesterday were at Harrisburg, 2.27 inches; Marion county, over 2 inches; Carbondale, 1-3 inch; New Burnside, 2.87; Effingham, 1.66; Chester, 1.64; Springfield, .56, and Anna, 3 inches. Other heavy falls occurred at Olney, Hillsboro, East St. Louis, Cairo, and Evansville and Vincennes in Indiana.

Meanwhile little relief was seen from the intense heat in Kansas, where residents of Kansas City sweltered in the early morning hours yesterday of 100 degree temperatures. During the day the mercury remained over the century mark.

5 FOREST FIRES REPORTED STILL BEYOND CONTROL

Menace Clings to Woods of Northwest.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The fire menace clung tenaciously to the northwest's forests tonight, with five major fires reported raging out of control.

The giant Curlew conflagration in the Colville forest of north central Washington was reported spreading before a heavy wind, adding hundreds of blackened acres to the 15,000 or more already covered. The fire is in isolated country, however, and lives and homes thus far have not been seriously menaced.

1,000 Fight Three Fires.

Three fires in the forest service's No. 1 region still were out of control, but more than a thousand fighters hoped to control them by tonight or tomorrow. Battlers concentrated on flames in the west fork of Trout creek in the Cabinet National forest of western Montana and in the Great Meadow region on the Kootenai National forest in northern Idaho. The third fire in this region, west of Hot Springs, Mont., in the Cabinet forest, was reported to be "troublesome."

Cheering news came from British Columbia, where more than a thousand men have fought huge blazes since Saturday. Scattered rains visited the area last night and more were in prospect.

Build Fire Lines.

The Trout creek fire in Montana was reported to be burning fiercely, but crews of Civilian Conservation corps members had been able to work their way around to the "hot" end of the blaze to build fire lines. The blaze was reported to have a perimeter of seven and half miles.

All other fires in western Montana, northern Idaho, and eastern Washington were reported to be under control.

Rush New Crew.

The Curlew blaze in the Colville forest was reported to be still burning fiercely. Fifty fresh fighters were rushed there from Spokane today. The area of this blaze has not been definitly determined, reports here said.

The forest service at Missoula said it had received an unofficial and unconfirmed report that three fires were burning today in Yellowstone National park.

LINDY EXTORTIONIST ARRESTED AGAIN FOR THREAT TO WIDOW

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Gilford Clobridge, 38 years old, a disabled war veteran who was once arrested for sending a $50,000 ransom letter to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was again arrested today in Staten Island for sending letters demanding $10,000 from Mrs. Francis Davis, 45, a Staten Island widow. The letters threatened to kidnap Mrs. Davis and her 23 year old daughter.

The letters were mailed on July 13 and 23 to St. George, where Mrs. Davis was living at the time. They were written in pencil. The first letter said: "I am going to make you pay ransom for all the trouble you caused me." The second letter said: "I am going to make you pay me $10,000 or else I will kidnap you and your daughter Mildred."

Clobridge was arrested in March, 1933, in Miami for sending a ransom note to Col. Lindbergh in connection with the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby. He also had sent a pint of liquor to Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter. Following his arrest he was examined by physicians who pronounced him sane. He was sentenced to the Atlanta penitentiary on his conviction of attempted extortion and is now under five years' probation.

RECKLESS DRIVER GETS $100 FINE AND 30 DAYS

Hit Parked Car, Injuring Man and Woman.

Cornell Stortecky, 41 years old, a painter living at 1330 South Kilbourn avenue, was given two concurrent 30 day sentences to the Bridewell yesterday and fined $100 on charges of reckless driving by Judge Justin McCarthy in the Trafic court. The mittemus was delayed until Aug. 4 to permit Stortecky to enter a plea for a probation. He is free on $400 bond.

Stortecky was accused of driving his car into the machine of Mrs. C. F. Raming, 3710 South Western avenue, which was parked at the curb near Western avenue and Archer avenue, the night of July 2.

Woman Slightly Hurt.

Mrs. Raming was slightly injured in the crash, and William J. McCarthy, 2454 West 39th street, who was near the Raming car at the time of the accident, was also injured. Both signed complaints against Stortecky.

Raymond Przybyla, 22 years old, a steel worker living at 10453 Bensley avenue, was sentenced to ten days in jail and fined $100 on a charge of driving while intoxicated by Judge John J. Rooney in the new Safety court.

Przybyla struck an automobile parked in an alley near 93d street and Commercial avenue Tuesday night. His car careened and struck a telephone pole and he was arrested while trying to drive the machine from the scene.

Admits Having Drinks.

"I was driving down the alleys because I had been drinking beer and I didn't want to hit anybody in the streets," Przybyla told Judge Rooney.

The jam of minor trafic cases that has prevented the Safety court from handling the major actions for which it was created was largely ended yesterday. There were 125 cases on call, as compared with 360 cases on Tuesday and 588 on Friday of last week. Speeders, arrested by the Lincoln park police, made up a large portion of the day's defendants.

FRED N. WEBSTER DIES SUDDENLY IN EVANSTON HOME

Frederick Norton Webster, former member of the Chicago Stock exchange, died suddenly at his home yesterday at 911 Elmwood avenue, Evanston. Mr. Webster, who was 49 years old, was a member of the Chicago Stock exchange from 1915 to November, 1933, during which period he was several times a member of the governing committee. He was educated at the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Webster is survived by his widow and his brother, Virgil C. Webster of Chicago, and Mrs. S. R. Capps of Washington, D. C. Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 o'clock at Graceland cemetery chapel.

Dr. Holbrook, Professor of French at California, Dies

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Dr. Richard Thayer Holbrook, 63, head of the French department of the University of California and widely known author of textbooks and fiction, died in the University hospital here last night after a brief illness.

FIVE OF FAMILY DIE IN CRASH; FIVE INJURED

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Five persons are dead and five injured here today, the result of a collision between a broken down truck and a small automobile sedan on route 48, four and one-half miles south of Bellflower, Ill., a small town in McLean county twenty-five miles southeast of Bloomington.

Mrs. John Booker, 34; Ralph Booker, 16; J. B. Booker, 13; Nellie May Booker, 6, and Ella Booker, 8 months.

The injured are: John Booker, 41, possible skull fracture; Clarence Booker, 20, arm and leg fractures; Quintin Booker, 15, leg fracture; Vernon Booker, 18, minor head injuries, and Miss Mildred Debolt, 22, cuts and bruises.

All of the injured, with the exception of Miss Debolt, are residents of Dewitt and members of the same family. Miss Debolt is a resident of Foosland, Ill., and a cousin of the Bookers.

The Bookers were driving north on route 48. The truck, owned by Floyd Wells of Brazil, Ind., was parked on the highway because of a broken axle. Basil Wells, also of Brazil, Ind., driver of the truck, was near his machine at the time the collision occurred. He was preparing, it was said, to light torches as a highway warning signal. None had been lit, however, when the Booker car struck the rear of the truck.

Force of the collision demolished the sedan in which the ten people were riding. The truck was little damaged.

The injured were taken to Brokaw hospital in this city. Mr. Booker has a farm near DeWitt, where he has resided for several years.

TRAFIC ARRESTS FOR JULY SHOW 50 PCT. INCREASE

Trafic arrests during July increased 50 per cent as compared with the preceding month, Capt. David Flynn, chief of the trafic division of the police department, announced yesterday. The increase, he said, is directly due to the campaign to cut automobile deaths in Chicago and Cook county.

"The coöperation given us by the Municipal court lately and the work done by newspapers in letting people know that trafic regulations are being enforced," he declared, "is the greatest factor for safety on city streets and highways."

A total of 11,241 arrests were made during the past month for trafic law violations by the trafic division, the motorcycle division, the accident prevention detail and outlying police districts.

Exmoor Club Dinner Series Opens Tonight

Thursday Buffet Suppers Are Popular.

BY JUDITH CASS.

"WILL YOU GO to the club with us on Thursday night?" is a question on the lips of many a housewife during the summer who welcomes the opportunity to take her family and friends to her husband's country club for dinner on "cook's night out." Knowing that housekeepers feel that it is more pleasant to sit on a wide, cool porch and enjoy food prepared by some one else than to stay at home and plan and prepare hot or cold suppers for hungry men and young people, most clubs are wise enough to plan special parties for every Thursday, certain that they will be well attended.

Today the Exmoor club in Highland Park is starting its popular August Thursday mixed foursomes and al fresco buffet suppers, and if the weather is fair there is sure to be a large number of golfers, masculine and feminine, and an even larger number of diners. Beefsteak cooked on a grill near enough the tables so that the delicious aroma of beef being broiled whets the appetite and still far enough away so that the heat from the fire isn't felt, sweet corn, salads, fresh fruit pie, ice cream, melon, and iced drinks compose the menu each week.

This large north shore club has a dinner-dance every Saturday during the summer and huge crowds, with the majority of the dancers of the younger set, attend each one.

Glenview Dances Held on Thursdays.

The Glenview club has its weekly dinner dances on Thursday and they, too, are immensely popular with the members of this attractive club northwest of Evanston. The Indian Hill club, to which smart Winnetkans belong, has a buffet supper every Thursday and an occasional Saturday dinner-dance. The next one will be on this coming Saturday night.

The old and popular Chicago Golf club in Wheaton, which numbers among its members many Chicagoans, provides something special in the way of entertainment every Thursday night, and tonight Sammy Williams, the colored pianist who plays such good dance music, will be there.

The Thursday night buffet suppers at the Onwentsia are well attended each week and always many who dine at home wind up the evening's festivities with dancing on the outdoor terrace at this smart Lake Forest club. The De Forest Hulburds will be among those entertaining guests at tonight's party at the club.

In town the Saddle and Cycle, that delightful oasis that is just fifteen minutes by motor from the loop but that still retains many of the characteristics that made it a country club when it was started about forty years ago, makes a specialty of its Thursday night buffet service and there always is a pleasant company there on Thursdays. Tonight Miss Dorothy Schmidt will be one of the hostesses.

Governor to Give Bride in Marriage.

Illinois' bachelor governor, Henry Horner, will give Miss Mary Callender in marriage the morning of Aug. 11, when she becomes the bride of Thomas J. Donovan in a ceremony at 10:30 o'clock in historic SS. Peter and Paul church in Naperville. Miss Callender is the daughter of Mrs. W. D. Callender of Naperville and the late Mr. Callender, who was a well known Chicago publisher, and Mr. Donovan is the son of Lieut. Gov. and Mrs. Thomas F. Donovan of Joliet.

Miss Joan Callender will attend her sister as maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Ann Callender, another sister; Miss Priscilla Sims, Miss Dorothy Ruttle, and Miss Valerie Haight. James Donovan is to serve his brother as best man and ushering will be John Limacher, Francis Dunn, Robert Philim, and Hubert Zolar, all of Joliet.

Following the ceremony there is to be a reception at the lovely Naperville estate, Oakhurst, of the Callender family. The colonial home was built more than 100 years ago.

Miss Callender attended St. Mary's of Notre Dame at South Bend, the University School for Girls, and the Finch school in New York City. Mr. Donovan studied at Notre Dame university at South Bend, the Catholic University of America in Washington, and Loyola university law school.

During the last several weeks Miss Callender has been entertained at dozens of parties and showers. Miss Sims was hostess recently at a luncheon and shower at the Bellevue place home of her parents, the Edwin W. Simses, and will entertain again at a dinner-dance Saturday evening at the South Shore Country club. Other hostesses have been Miss Haight and Miss Ruttle.

Nancy Poole Has 2 Guests.

There have been all sorts of gay informal parties in Lake Forest for the last week for two young eastern girls who are visiting Nancy Poole, the subdeb daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Poole. The guests are Frances Murdock of Long Island and Winifred Wylie of New York.

Nancy Poole, who finished at St. Timothy's last year, is to go to Sarah Lawrence college in the autumn, and she will not make her debut for at least another year. Her sister, Barbara, who is engaged to James Murray Washburn Jr., is planning an autumn wedding.

Mrs. John Jay Bryant and her daughter, Anne, left Wheaton Tuesday for Washington, D. C., where they will board a boat for Norfolk. Anne, who will return to the Shipley school in October, will be the maid of honor at the wedding of her uncle, R. Stedman Voight, on Saturday. Mrs.

Shows Collie in Dog Show

In a white dress and a small pink bonnet, little Miss Muriel Ann Richburg was one of the most enthusiastic participants in the Glencoe pet dog show held Tuesday in the parish house of St. Elisabeth's Episcopal church. Her bright smile and handsome collie playmate won the hearts of both judges and audience. She is the 3 year old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis A. Richburg of Glencoe.

ONE of the unsung visitors in town this week was John Henry Titus, one of the claimants to authorship of "The Face on the Barroom Floor." Mr. Titus is an elderly man, in his 80s, according to Dr. Graydon Powell, who talked with him while he was in town. He said he wrote the now famous ditty when he lived in a little town in Ohio near Anti-Saloon league headquarters. He has written several other things, but nothing that is as well known. While Mr. Titus was in town he and Mrs. Titus, who was with him, went out to a south side church that had invited him to speak, and while he was there his pocket was picked. He had only 14 cents left in his pocket at the end of the evening. Mr. Titus complained to the pastor. The pastor said that the preceding Sunday he had preached a sermon at a church in Louisville, and that his pocket had been picked there. It was little consolation, possibly, to hear this, but it was a little news note of interest.

SIGN in a tavern window near the Biograph theater, where Dillinger was shot:

"Come In and See the Last Chair in Which Dillinger Sat."

MRS. WILLIAM TARG tells of the so-called "intellectual" woman who was awaiting the birth of a child. As the doctor passed her door she was wailing:

"Mon Dieu! Mon Dieu!"

He looked in and said professionally,

"No—not yet."

The woman stopped complaining for a time, but soon she began again,

"O, my God!" she cried. "O, my God!"

The doctor again visited the room and again said, "No, not yet." In a few minutes he was called back into the room and he heard the patient crying:

"Oly Gavalt, oly Gavalt."

"Now is the time," the doctor exclaimed.

A THREE year old boy visiting in a home where there is a four months old baby walked over to the crib and tried to talk to him, then walked away in disgust.

"Why don't you talk to the baby?" his mother called a little later, noticing that the child was moping by himself at the other end of the room.

"Why should I?" retorted the child. "I'm no fool. He doesn't know any answers."

Solve Yuletide Gift Problem at Show Here

With Christmas only five months off, the age-old problem of what to give already has been solved by some 280 exhibitors at the Chicago Gift show now under way at the Merchandise Mart. Some 2,000 buyers, who must do their Christmas shopping early, are expected to view the showing before its closing date, Aug. 11.

Inexpensive gifts are featured in a majority of the exhibits, but innovations, many of which appear to be throwbacks to the Victorian era, are being shown in all lines.

Toys are trending to the unbreakable, with rubber, kapok, and light weight metals being used extensively. Trinkets are getting smaller and pictures are getting larger. School bags are being covered with pictorial linens. Serving trays are getting long and narrow, and embroidered handkerchiefs are getting small.

One of the important changes is that in lamp shades, which are rushing away from their austerity of recent times to tassels, fringes, and loops—appliqued or fastened to burlap, shantung, celluloid or chiffon lastex.

"A table for every occasion" was the theme of a table setting display yesterday at the fall glassware, china, and pottery market being held at the Merchandise Mart. Twenty tables, correctly set for 20 different eating occasions, were included in the exhibit.

The tables varied from a bridge table, completely set at a total cost of $2, to a formal Thanksgiving dinner, set with white and gold china and etched crystal. Unusual table effects were attained in a Hollywood bolero dinner table, set in yellow and peacock, with matching linen, and a "wood" table, on which all plates, goblets, and cutlery were of highly polished wood.

The display sponsored two modernistic table settings. One, for a home dinner, showed tableware of cloudy crystal, square, used on a gun metal cellophane tablecloth. The other, an informal luncheon, used amethyst glassware and frosted crystal with a centerpiece of underwater orchids in amethyst and crystal globes.

New accessories for drinking are featured in the Eastern Manufacturers and Importers exhibit at the Palmer house, at which 700 buyers registered yesterday. Among the drink-serving novelties are chromium folding trays, cracker racks, and concealed bottle openers.

Longer Skirts Are Decreed in Paris Showings

PARIS, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Longer skirts appeared in today's display of winter fashions as the occasion began to get down to serious business.

Although the largest dressmakers have not yet exhibited, the others have almost unanimously decreed that sports tailleur skirts must reach to within 11 or 12 inches from the ground, day clothes 8 or 10 inches, and afternoon frocks six inches.

This is in keeping with the slender silhouette, with tubelike skirts, slit at the back, front, or sides, generally favored.

The greatest display of two toned or multicolored tweeds, woven in a harmonious blend of colors, which Paris ever has exhibited is notable this season, indicating they will be all the rage this fall.

Creed launched costumes of two types, the first being multicolored tweeds in which browns predominated, combining a slender skirt with a classic tailored jacket or a loose five-eighths length coat. They were worn with plaid blanket blouses, fur vests or bright sweaters sometimes topped with a hip length cape.

The second was reminiscent of the styles of 1900 and the models were designed of plum, dark green, and gray wools. They had fitted thigh length jackets and with them were worn white lingerie jabots, brocade vests, and colorful velvet blouses.

The hats were dark felts turned up in back and down in front and trimmed with brilliant features.

The afternoon frocks were designed with stemlike lines fashioned of new changeable velvets, taffeta velvets and such cushiony fabrics as quilted crêpes and heavy corduroy wools.

There were numerous lamé vests and collar linings giving a silver and golden touch.

Good Makeup One Feature of "British Agent"

Historical Characters Live on Screen.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Some excellent results in makeup which cause Hollywood actors to look like modern historical figures will be seen in the Warner picture "British Agent." The picture has been previewed to a professional audience here. It is intended for general release next month.

Percy Westmore, head makeup at the studio, is the man who deserves the credit for making Leon Trotzky, Nicolai Lenin, Lloyd George, and Kerensky live on the screen. The representation is so striking that the audience which saw the preview didn't catch the names of the real actors. The onlookers merely said, "There's Trotzky, "There's Lloyd George," and so forth. J. Carroll Naish is the actor who played Trotzky. The others were not marked in the screen credit I saw.

Leslie Howard as the hero and Irving Pichel as the head of the cheka give outstanding performances [as they seem always to do], and the shots of the marching liberated Russians and the mowing down of the loyal young cadets in Petrograd are very striking.

The late Marie Dressler left a fortune of several hundred thousand dollars, according to Hollywood estimates. Her sister, Mrs. Richard G. Anthony of Richmond, England, is the only near relative known and is expected here to close the estate. Allen Breed Walker, close friend of Miss Dressler, is executor in her will. A number of bequests are said to name her film friends and old servants.

The name of Rosemary Ames' just completed film has been changed from "Wanted" to "Pursued." Victor Jory, Pert Kelton, and Russell Hardie also are in it.

The heavy bidder for the late Lew Cody's 11 year old pet dog, Trafic, which is part fox terrier, was James Glenn, Cody's chauffeur. The dog, like every other California possession of the actor, was put up for auction at the sale of Cody's effects. The sale is expected to realize between $80,000 and $125,000.

The dog got its name when Lew Cody picked it out of the street bewildered by rushing, roaring autos and is expecting maternity any day. The dog was as much a favorite of Cody's servants as of its master. A half sister from Maine will inherit Cody's estate.

Censorship defficulties on "The Green Hat" at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have caused seven successive postponements of Constance Bennett's departure for Paris. Connie denies reports she will seek a divorce from Marquis Henri Falaise in Paris. Instead, according to her business manager, Rex Cole, Marquis Falaise is already en route from the orient, where he has been making a picture based on native life, to Paris for a joint vacation there.

C. Henry Gordon has gone to Hollywood hospital for an operation.

May Robson's way of spending spare time to advantage is making Christmas gift neckties. She knits some and others she sews of silk. Her ties are reversible, each end the same.

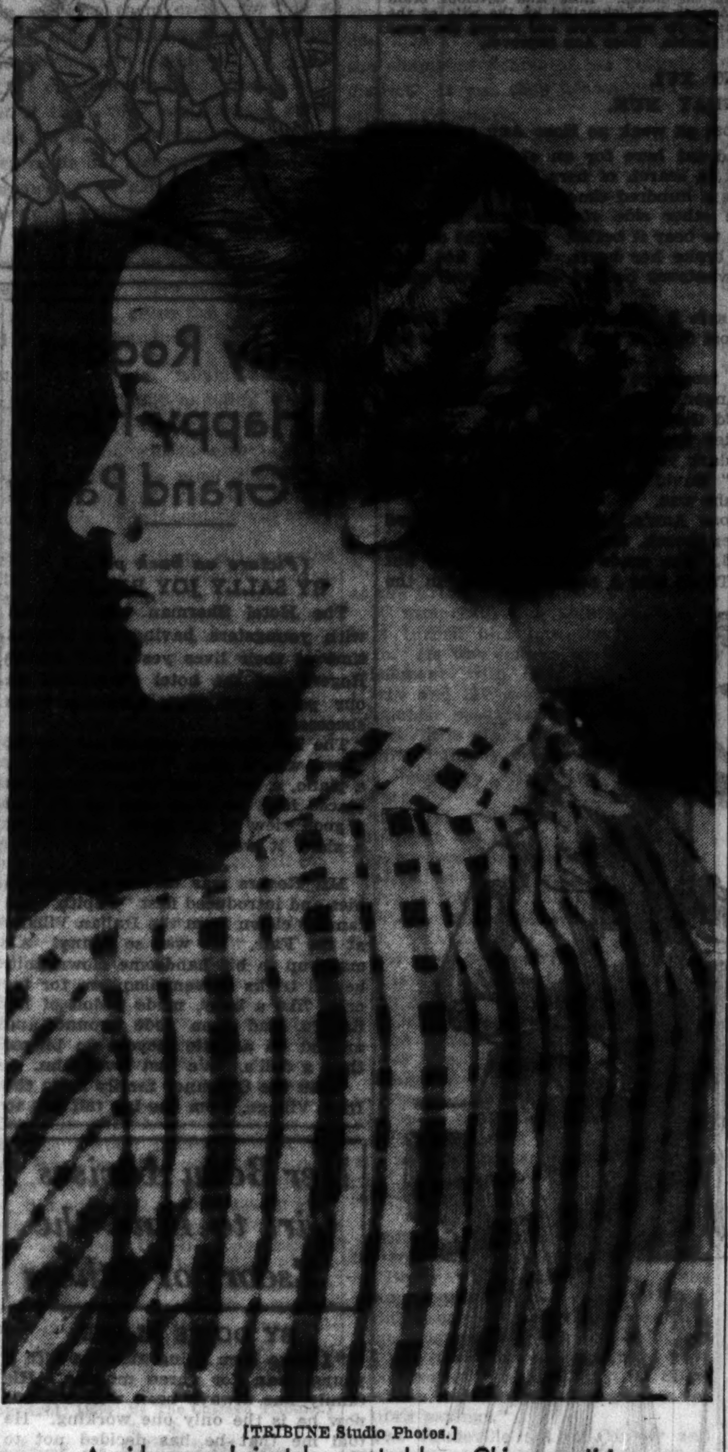
Ted Healy has bought a sailboat and takes his first cruise in it tomorrow. Healy thinks it will be funny to take Minnie, his pet lion, and Red, his stooge, along on the cruise. What makes it funnier is that Red is badly frightened of Minnie.

Benn Levy, English writer and husband of Constance Cummings, is gradually recovering from an extended illness. He is in Cedars of Lebanon hospital.

W. C. Fields is pricing yachts at San Pedro; doesn't want to buy one, but to charter one. He promised to take Norman MacLeod, director, and Jack Cunningham and Howard Green, writers, on a cruise.

Billy Lee, 4 year old actor at Paramount, has had his contract renewed for nine months. He gets $75 a week.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS



[TRIBUNE Studio Photos.]

A midsummer hair style, created by a Chicago artist, that has everything to recommend it. It is becoming, it has distinction, and it is easy to keep in place. Jane McIntosh models it.

Sweet sixteen, and sweet twenty, too, will be doing what with the hair of her head this fall?

A Chicago hair stylist gave us the answers as we watched him create styles for a group of debs who were going to model clothes and coiffures at a country club.

Between snips of the scissors and agitated dives for hair pins, waving nets, and towels we gleaned that hair will be short. Especially in the back.

"Come now," said we, "no curls? Mean to tell us that when the hot weather goes and cold weather comes there won't be curls dangling as usual on the nape of every gal's neck?"

"Curls, yes," says he firmly as he moved a ringlet a sixteenth of an inch from the spot where we thought it looked elegant before, "but NOT dangling. That epidemic is over."

The ringlets will be as swish as ever, it seems, but they'll be nestling practically on the top of our heads, not fluttering dejectedly at a point low enough to flirt with the shoulder blades. The locks can be longish at the sides—lengthy enough, that is, to serve decoratively or smartly as a face frame, the undulations and variations depending entirely on individual contours. The nape of the neck will be trim—and what happens to hair above that is plenty; it can be curled or fluffed or given a trick part. Style will be centered there, so much so that it looks at this writing as though we'll all walk backwards so no one will miss it.

The hats are responsible. Take a peek at millinery and what do you see? Pancakes and pagodas that flap down in front and pop up in back, revealing to all the world what coiffure chic you happen to have between the nape of your neck and the crown of your head.

Your hair style, if this Chicago creator is any prophet—and he seldom misses—will be grown high on the back of your own head.

Knitted Clothes Are Feature of Style Showing

Cottons Have Luster for Autumn Weave.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

With two major fashion reviews in progress simultaneously last night, and more than 4,000 persons intent on the highlights of the winter mode as interpreted by leading Chicago designers and manufacturers, Chicago's increasing eminence as a style center was still further augmented during this current fall market week. Had there been sufficient facilities, the total would have reached nearly 5,000, it was estimated by prominent apparel men.

A throng of more than 3,000 persons witnessed the initial showing of moderately priced garments at the Merchandise Mart, in the vast auditorium on the second floor of that building. The various runs featured knitted ensembles for street and sport wear, and cotton mixed garments which will be worn well into cold weather by women, children, and infants. This display will be repeated next Tuesday.

Dozens of mannequins tripping down the spacious runway, hung with artificial icicles, demonstrated the attractiveness of the new cottons combined with synthetic materials, in bright plaids, vivid stripes, and with a new and silky luster to delight the feminine heart. Knitted suits have taken to wooden belt buckles and buttons, gay tasseled girdles, and numerout other novel accessories to enhance their proven popularity.

A sellout for the second night of the Chicago Wholesale Market Council fashion show resulted in scores of disappointed buyers being turned away at the Chez Paree, where space was again at a premium. Enthusiasm ran high for many of the "high style" garments included in the promenade.

Designers whose creations won the accolade of approval included Helen Ardlen, with a formal reception gown of black with wide, trailing silver cloth sleeves, and a double train of the same material; Hermine Friedman with an ensemble of coral lamé and a green bagheera formal costume, the gown topped with gold lace and trimmed in sable, and Virginia Loeb, who introduced a novel note in a formal frock of jungle green in sheer woolen, with a three quarter jacket collared and cuffed with mink.

May Irwin to Return to Stage for 3 Nights at Eastern Theater

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Breaking a retirement of 12 years, May Irwin, 72, "queen of laughter" on the American stage in earlier years, will return to the theater here for a three night stand Aug. 9, 10, and 11.

The woman to whom President Woodrow Wilson offered "the portfolio of secretary of laughter," who "discovered" Charles K. Harris and introduced his "After the Ball," will appear in one of her greatest successes, "Mrs. Peckham's Carouse."

The occasion is the moving of the summer civic theater from Clayton to Watertown.

Her Husband's Fiancee

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Cecily Marshall returns after a year's absence to the home in Bellchester, England, where she had lived with her husband, David Marshall, the city's leading merchant prince. Cecily had been a shopgirl at Marshall's. Beautiful Audrey Lowe, who had wanted David herself, and her cousin, Reggie Davies, had contrived to break up Cecily's marriage. David believed Cecily unfaithful and won a divorce from her and the custody of their small child, Rose Ann. The child doesn't know the cause of her mother's long absence and grieves for her. Fearing for the child's health, Nanna, her nurse, wires Cecily. David, who is about to marry Audrey, is giving a dinner party for her when Cecily arrives. Nanna admits Cecily secretly. David stops in the nursery before retiring and sees Cecily sleeping beside Rose Ann. Suspecting she plans to kidnap the child he lies in wait till morning. Then he orders her and Nanna from the house. Rose Ann develops brain fever, and David is forced to send for Cecily. Audrey is blackmailed by the wife of the deceased innkeeper she had bribed to swear that Cecily and Reggie had shared the same room a night they were marooned due to motor trouble. Rose Ann improves.

INSTALMENT XVI.

THE LITTLE GRAY NUN.

Cecily swayed a little. She was almost as weak as Rose Ann and quite as tired. It seemed to her that she had sat here for an eternity, always ready when the little hot hand crept out in search of hers. How often had she sung, "Sleep Little Baby"? Perhaps a hundred times.

David had not always been on the other side of that little bed and when he was away, Cecily had been able to bear it better. The sight of him so anxious and yet able to do nothing, broke her heart. She did not hate David now. You couldn't hate a man whatever he had done to you when he was so utterly shattered.

Now that Rose Ann was reasonably safe it seemed to Cecily—and David must have thought of it, too—that the most difficult part of their problem lay before them.

Rose Ann had been dragged back from the gates of death by love and only love would keep her out of danger. What were they going to do about it? What sort of compromise could they contrive?

The child took them both for granted again and it seemed as though Rose Ann had completely forgotten the dark year which lay behind.

"You ought to get some rest, now," David said to Cecily. It was impossible for him not to notice how worn she was.

She gave him a smile that like Rose Ann's had a tired, middle-aged quality. There were little lines about her mouth, too.

"Perhaps I had better," she agreed. She made a motion to rise but was suddenly overcome with dizziness. There was a numb prickling in the calves of her legs, too.

"You're not going away from me again, are you, mummy?"

So she had not forgotten after all.

David hastened to assure her. "Poor mummy's very tired, sweetheart. She's been helping to look after you and now we must look after her a bit."

"Couldn't she sleep in the chair? I'll be very quiet, daddy."

"I think she had better lie down in Nanna's room. We'll leave the door open."

Reluctantly Rose Ann agreed. She did not trust them, but she wanted to.

"Daddy, you promise she won't go away again?"

David promised. He got up and went around to help Cecily. In the end he had to pick her up and carry her to the couch in Nanna's sitting room.

What on earth were they to do about it?

He had neglected his business quite a lot lately, but that did not matter very much. What did matter was that he had neglected Audrey, too, and he was almost afraid to go near her now.

Times without number he had turned the matter over in his mind and could come to but one logical conclusion. He could never forgive Cecily—that was beside the question, however—but he wasn't going to risk Rose Ann's life again.

Would it hurt the child to lose him, her father? If he let Cecily take her, not too far away where he could see her now and again, would that meet the situation?

The house without Rose Ann would be incredibly lonely. It occurred to him as it had done to Mrs. Lowe that he might have other children, and that idea curiously enough filled him with bitter distaste.

But behind all this David Marshall was harboring another idea which he had not as yet admitted to his full consciousness.

If—and it was a big "if"—he could persuade Audrey to give him up, he could go through a form of marriage with Cecily again and permit her to live at the Grange as his nominal wife. It would be sheer hell for both of them, but no doubt Cecily would see eye to eye with him on Rose Ann's account.

The gossips of Bellchester, already on tiptoe with expectancy, would have the time of their lives if such an arrangement was decided upon, but David had been gossiped about so much that a little more of it was of no importance.

Presently the idea came clearer to him and with greater decision.

David did not relish the prospect of telling Audrey.

In one matter, he had yielded to her. He was now supposed to be staying at the Constitutional club, and it is true that he slept there, but for the rest of the time anybody who wanted to get in touch with him could always find him at the Grange.

Cecily and he had kept away from each other, however, except when they met at Rose Ann's bedside. Otherwise, she was Nanna's guest, sleeping—when she got a chance to sleep—on the couch in the little sitting room and having her meals on a tray there. The west wing was quite self-contained and there was another room, which could easily be turned into a bedroom for Cecily. She could come and go by the back stairs and have the use of the garden room if she liked.

David may not have realized it, but he seemed to be purposing to turn Cecily into a sort of upper servant should he decide to remarry her.

She would probably be grateful enough. Her attitude of humility might have touched him had he not ever before him the memory of her unfaithfulness.

That evening, hearing that she was really quite rested, he sent her a message. Would she dine with him? It was more a demand than a request, but he felt sure she would understand that the situation would soon need definition, and they must come to some mutual arrangement.

When Nanna told her, Cecily said: "Very well. I suppose he means have dinner with him here in the dining room."

"Yes, dearie," said Nanna, fluttering hopefully. Romantic old soul, she thought she knew what was coming.

Cecily, however, did not seem to be very stirred.

"Haven't you got a proper evening dress?" Nanna asked, when she arrayed herself for this great occasion in a plain grey woolen garment which, though serviceable and becoming, was anything but festive.

"No, I had no use for such things in Newcastle," Cecily replied.

"But I sent you all your clothes, dearie."

"I sold some and gave the others away," Cecily said briefly.

She did not care to tell Nanna that the sight of all those pretty things, chosen and worn when she was a happy wife and mother, was more than she could bear in her altered circumstances. Nanna may have guessed, however, for she said no more.

David frowned when Cecily came into the dining room looking like a little gray nun. He thought she had done it on purpose.

He himself had dressed as meticulously as though he had been expecting Audrey in her diamonds, pearls, and satin. Indeed, it had refreshed him to change into evening clothes after practically living in his day attire for the better part of a week.

Although he scowled at her, he looked very handsome.

Forestalling Mason, he placed her chair for her. It was opposite his where it had always been in the old days, and the table had been made small for just the two of them.

Perhaps Mason had romantic ideas, too, for the dining room had an intimate, cosy air, and pink roses. Cecily's favorite flowers were on the table. All her favorite dishes, too—cream of tomato soup, sole done with a cheese sauce, chicken stuffed with mushrooms and truffles, and strawberry ice cream.

The only blot on the perfect landscape was the little gray nun who looked as though she was sitting at this rich man's table under protest.

Buddy Rogers a Happy Host at Grand Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The Hotel Sherman was overrun with youngsters having the biggest time of their lives yesterday! Buddy Rogers and the hotel coöperated on our party and they certainly were successful!

The Bal Tabarin was all set for us. There was a huge "Welcome" sign, a piano, a mike, and plenty of chairs placed in a circle so that we all had a good view of the show. And what a show it was!

Mr. Rogers was master of ceremonies and introduced first "Pepito," the famous clown from the Italian Village at the Fair. He was so funny! All made up in his handsome clown suit, he did tricks in ventriloquism for us, cried like a baby, made a doll of his fingers, and then rode around and around on a little bicycle no bigger than a doll's. We just loved him.

Then the O'Connor family from the Irish Village, from the big tall boy to the little tiny girl, sang and danced for us. The Irish step dancers, Peter Bolton and Dorothy Donahue, charming, unaffected youngsters just over from the old country, did their turn expertly and were highly enjoyed by my guests.

Next on the program was sweet little Marion Holmes, who sang charmingly for us and talked and joked and gave autographs untiringly.

Doing perfectly amazing things, the five bouncing Maxellos, also from the Inn, jumped and balanced and made us all scream. They even tossed one of my guests, little Elaine Brown, expertly and lightly into the air, and maybe she didn't think that was fun!

Then our host, the handsome hero of the occasion, sang a song for us and gave every single youngster present an autographed picture. The athletic young man entered right into the spirit of things and I think he enjoyed himself just as much as we did. He has a simple, easy way with children and they all adored him.

The final treat of the afternoon was chocolate ice cream and numerous cookies provided by the manager of the Sherman, Frank Bering.

We finished off the afternoon showing what we could do, with singing, reciting, and tap dancing by my young guests, while a good natured young pianist played for every young performer.

It was a marvelously gay afternoon, with clean, expert entertainment, and we're all very, very grateful for a splendid time, aren't we, boys and girls?

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The Argentine ambassador and Mme. Espil and the Greek minister and Mme. Simopoulos have returned here from Hot Springs, Va., to attend the funeral services tomorrow for Paul May, Belgian ambassador. The services will be held tomorrow in the embassy, according to the Jewish ritual and a short service will be read at Arlington cemetery, where the remains will be kept until returned to Belgium aboard a United States cruiser.

Her Beau Advises Girl to Find the Escort of Others

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have been going steadily with a young man for three months. His family has always been well off, but now he is the only one working. He told me that he has decided not to come to see me any more because he can not afford it. His idea is that if a fellow can't take a girl out for a good time he should not expect to be harbored in her home. I told him that it is not money that counts. With summer here, there are so many places we could go free. But he won't listen, says I had better go around with others. Is he right? L. M."

Right or wrong, you'd better accept the boy's advice about seeking other escorts. If that's the way he feels on the entertainment question, you can't do much about it. Had he been a friend of longer acquaintance, he might have been convinced that this is simply a period of financial embarrassment in which you have a right to share. But a three months' friendship would hardly justify that stand with you. In these early stages of romance, if romance the boy also considers it, such a girl can't be a weight on the boy's mind. She can't be always there and waiting for invitations, phone calls and the like. Unless he is desperately gone on the girl, this constant pressure is apt to sour the whole relationship. However, there is no reason why he cannot be included in home parties every now and then.

Under no circumstances make him feel, however, that you are providing home entertainment to save him money. You are having a party, you want him to come, and that's all there is to it.

Then there is, perhaps, the question of whether the young man is not trying gracefully to get away. No fault of yours, necessarily, L. M. Just that his heart is not sufficiently involved to wish to continue on. It's wise, in any event, when a young man suggests others as escorts, to take him at his word. If his interest is genuine he'll hop back into pursuit should he see a rival making headway.

Bryant and Anne have no definite plans for the rest of the month except that they won't be back in Wheaton until early September.

If the Norfolk weather is pleasant they may stay there, or they may go to Jamestown, R. I., where they have been for several vacations. Mr. Bryant hopes to join them around the 15th, wherever they are.

Leave Today for Canadian Rockies.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason Phelps are leaving today for a month's vacation in Jasper park, the Canadian Rockies, with their family, Mary and Mason Phelps Jr., and Miss Jane and Miss Betty Brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler Jr. left Tuesday night to spend three weeks in Altadena, Cal., with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Culbreth Sudler. The senior Sudlers are in Washington, D. C., this summer and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler is spending the summer at Harbor Point, Mich., where her husband joins her very often for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence and her daughter, Nancy Blaine, returned recently from a motor trip in the east and Nancy left last night for the Timberline ranch in Arizona, where she has spent the last two summers and where she will be until almost time for school to open. John Lawrence is spending the summer in Idaho and the baby, of course, is at home in Hubbard Woods with his parents.

Nathan D. McClures Buy Geneva Farm.

The Nathan D. McClures have bought a small farm west of Geneva and they plan to move to it as soon as the house is enlarged and remodeled.

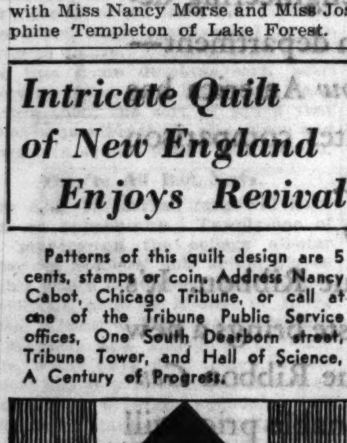
Mr. McClure's sister, Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart of Lake Forest, and Mr. Stuart and their children are leaving the first of next week for a vacation on a ranch that is on the border between Montana and Wyoming.

Mrs. Walker Szukalska and her daughter, Kalinka, are returning early next week from Desbarats, where they have been occupying the summer place of Mrs. Szukalska's father, the late Dr. Samuel J. Walker. Mrs. Szukalska's brother, "Jack" Walker, and his wife and family, who have been visiting relatives on a ranch in Wyoming, will occupy the place at Desbarats the rest of the summer. They arrived at home in Lake Forest on Tuesday from Wyoming.

John Smithies and two of his Princeton classmates, who went abroad with the Princeton-Cornell track team, are spending this week at San Sebastian, in Spain, as the guests of Miss Gladys Fernandez of Havana and New York. Miss Fernandez went to Dobbs Ferry with Miss Nancy Morse and Miss Josephine Templeton of Lake Forest.

Intricate Quilt of New England Enjoys Revival

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.



Crazy Ann.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Crazy Ann" originated in New England about 1790, but was such a difficult and complicated block to piece that the design rarely was utilized by quilt makers. Recently the pattern has been finding its way into popular favor, which might indicate that proficient needleworkers are becoming more numerous. Its popularity also emphasizes the prophetic talent of a woman who lived in 1790, since the design undoubtedly is modernistic in color and form.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

A VALUABLE INFERENCE WHICH THE OPENING BIDDER CAN GIVE.

Take a hand such as this:

Sp. A Q x　　Di. A Q x
Hts. K x　　Cl. K Q J x x

This is a very powerful hand, containing in fact potential slam material. Yet you should not bid a no trump with it, because you have a weak spot, in hearts, and do not control the time factor in your long suit. It is to be feared that the adversaries will open hearts and force out your king. You will then have to let them in with the ace of clubs to run off their hearts, and will be discarding high cards before you can get in again and cash in your winners. Therefore your bid is a club.

When Time Control Is Restored.

If, however, your partner can bid a heart over your club, now you have the timing under control and game is a certainty in no trumps. Your hand has regained its no trump characteristics, because it now turns out that your weak spot is no longer a source of danger. Your next bid is two no trumps—the heart fit is not good enough to encourage a slam.

Only if your partner had previously passed should you take the strain off him by bidding three no trumps over his heart one-over-one. If he can now secondarily bid spades or diamonds—an encouraging bid under these circumstances—you can safely bid five no trumps, telling him that you want to be declarer and that he is to go to six no trumps if his hand contains an ace and if each of his suits is headed by a card as good as a king or by Q J, the hand as a whole having one and one-half to two tricks, mostly in primary form.

Your two no trump rebid really tells him that you have a very strong no trump type of hand with which you did not care to bid no trumps until you had news of the hearts.

Suppose, on the other hand, that he bids a diamond or a spade over your club. Now you make a gentle slam try in view of your two aces, your fine all around strength, and specifically your strong support for his suit. Your bid is three no trumps. This tells him that you have a powerful no trump hand on which you first bid a club because of a weak spot, but it also tells him that this weak spot was not in his suit, otherwise you could not bid three no trump [but only two] in reply to his one-over-one. With no additional values and a weak hand or weak suit, he must pass. You have told him that in your judgment the game is safe in no trumps though his suit does not fill out your weakness. However, he should respond to the slam try provided:

1. That his hand contains an ace.
2. That his suit is of five cards headed by at least the king or Q J.
3. That his hand contains in all about two tricks, and that he has a face card in each of the unbid suits.

Examples of Highly Informative Slam Acceptance Rebids.

With

Sp. K 10 x x x　　Di. J x x
Hts. Q 10 x　　Cl. A x

or

Sp. K 10 x x x　　Di. J x x
Hts. A x x　　Cl. x x

With

Sp. K 10 x x x　　Di. J 9
Hts. Q x x　　Cl. A x x

I think four clubs would be the most informative bid, showing that particular ace and accepting the slam try.

With

Sp. K J x x x　　Di. x
Hts. A x x　　Cl. x x x x

I would advise a response, over three no trumps, of five spades, showing a strong distributional inducement for suit play. In a rubber game the opening bidder would then bid six spades; in a tournament undoubtedly six no trumps in view of the tenace holding in diamonds and the likelihood of a heart lead. Remember that a bid of four spades over three no trumps would be a weakness bid, seeking safety and not encouraging a slam. With no ace and nothing but a long spade suit to the queen or jack, this would be your partner's right bid even though you have made it clear that you consider three no trumps a safe contract.

Beauty and Fashion Sing Swan Song for the Skimpy Eyebrow

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One does not have to talk eyebrow pruning to the young women. The trouble with them is that they take to their tweezers too darned energetically, leaving not enough eyebrow to talk about. Who on earth tells these eyebrow skimpers that they look well that way? And why, being so snappy and on to everything that's style new, don't they see that the hairline eyebrow has been doomed for some time now? And why do you shave those eyebrows of yours, girls? Don't do it. Tweeze them because you're not apt to make such a botch as you do with the razor. Then, when they do begin to grow in again, the tweezed brow looks infinitely more human than the growth resulting from shaving. I don't know how many girls do use the razor on the eyebrows, but I do know that I have seen several cases lately whose result was completely ruinous.

However, what I started out to do was not to attack the young women for their overuse of tweezers but to attack older women for their reticence about touching their eyebrows at all. You see any number of older women with hair smartly done, well dressed and so on, but whose eyebrows are overgrown and weedy looking. If the hair is gray therein the effect is just that much more untidy.

I know many of them say they simply can't stand having the eyebrows touched. But is that any excuse, I ask you, for any point of grooming today? One's vanity is expected to rise above any twinge of pain. After all, it is only a twinge. If one can't do it herself she can go to a salon where they have the art down so well now that, with a stretch of the skin between two clever fingers, the twinge is reduced to nil. Too, a little preparatory treatment is administered with softening cream and hot pads for sensitive skins.

One doesn't have to go weekly to have this job done. Once a month or longer between treatments will keep the sector clear enough of straggling hairs to matter. As one gets older the eyebrow hairs sometimes jog off this way and that, some growing noticeably longer along the path than others. Frequently they end too abruptly, in which event a light penciling to complete the line makes a great improvement.

Leftover Meats Reincarnated in New Salads

Delightful Recipes Use Yesterday's Dish.

"Let's Have a Picnic," a booklet of picnic plans, menus, and recipes, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

The smartest meats these days are making their bow in salads. It's too hot to fuss over new and exotic dishes. It's even too torrid to cook meat very often. So wisdom dictates that, once a roast or a set of chops is decided upon, it or they be bought large and numerous enough to supply a husky family salad for the day after.

These cold, leftover meats should be chilled well, then cut into small firm cubes about 1-3 inch across. If the meat is calling for salt, sprinkle it and let stand while the vegetables are getting themselves prepared. But don't be exclusive. Two or three kinds of meat can grow quite chummy when united with a nippy salad dressing. Cut-up pork chops and the tail end of a veal roast like each other's flavors. Ham hits it off excellently with chicken. A small tin of canned chicken does the trick if you ate the last biddy down to the wishbone.

And the morning after the night before, when there's been a Dutch lunch with its multitudinous cold cuts of meat, gather together the leftovers and whip up a zestful sausage salad. Cold sausage such as Mettwurst, Vienna, or salami, mixed with potatoes, macaroni, or mild vegetables, forms a smart and satisfying combination.

Or, if it's to be a crowd that you're feeding and you plan on chicken or veal salad for the piece de resistance, don't resort to leftovers, but cook the meat to order. Take a care not to overcook, however, as there's nothing more gruesome than a stringy salad with meat cubes falling to pieces all over the place. Cook until just tender, then cool thoroughly before cutting up the meat for salad.

Unless the salad meat itself is very peppy [as in the case of sausage salads] choose vegetables to combine with it which are crisp, colorful, and flavorful. Celery, radishes, peppers, and cucumbers are prime examples. Wise cooks often discreetly add pickles, olives, nuts, and some tart fruits to meat salads. But, whatever you combine, stay afar from limp and watery vegetables which weep when they're mixed with dressing. Some of these occasionally are well chosen for garnishes on the top.

But even these ingredients are not always enough. Not enough, at least, to give that tingle which means vivacity in salads. So if your creation seems too meek and mild, dress it with a tablespoon of lemon juice. Or marinate the various parts in French dressing for half an hour before combining the final cool triumph.

For this marinade or French dressing use 1 part of vinegar to 4 parts of salad oil. Touch it up with salt, red ground pepper, and mustard. The gay flavor trickles through the salad foods, merrily turning up later when these foods have been drained and mixed with mayonnaise.

And if the salad plate service has always been the thing at your house, turn the tables and serve up a meaty something in a big wooden salad bowl with a salad spoon and fork for the lifters. Line the bowl with crispy leaf lettuce or any green which appeals, then drop in the salad lightly, topping off with a ring of green pepper or a cut radish rose.

Ham Salad in Tomato Shells.

6 firm, ripe tomatoes
2 cups cold ham, chopped
1 cup celery
1 dozen stuffed olives, cut in halves
½ cup French dressing
Mayonnaise.

Peel the tomatoes gently and remove the inside pulp. Turn the shells upside down to drain and chill for half an hour, then fill with a combination of the drained ham, celery, and olives which have been marinated and chilled for half an hour in the French dressing, then blended with mayonnaise to moisten. Let the filled tomatoes refrigerate for half an hour, then serve with a small additional topping of creamy mayonnaise.

Then, just in case you were struck by the sausage salad idea, here 'tis:

Piquante Supper Salad.

2 cups diced, cooked, cold potatoes
1 cup cubed cooked salami
3 teaspoons onion juice or 1 green onion
French dressing
¾ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
1 dozen small radishes

Combine the cold diced potatoes, the salami, and the onion. Add a little French dressing and let stand for one hour. Then drain and add the salad dressing or mayonnaise. Toss together well, but lightly, and turn into a salad bowl lined with crisp lettuce. Garnish with the radishes, left as they are, or cut in rosebud form. Serve with crisp hot rolls and iced coffee.

Child Has More Self-Control Than We Think

Objective Must Be Made to Seem Important.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Children have more intelligence than we give them credit for" is a remark quite true and often made by those who know children.

That children have much more self-control than they are usually given credit for is an observation much less often made but also quite true. Here is a quality we associate chiefly with grownups—self-control. With children we think of the control being exercised over them—as coming from outside. Yet they have great capacity for self-control, given the opportunity and the right handling.

Now what, you would naturally ask, does this right handling consist of? In order to bring a child to the point where he will be able to exercise self-control, we must succeed in convincing him of the need of the result which his self-control will bring about.

For example, a little girl was the victim of a chronic digestive disease. It culminated in attacks of excruciating pain. After competent diagnosis, the doctor decided on a rigorous diet which was to last for several months, followed by a limited diet which was to last for a year. The little girl of 11 had the need of this treatment explained to her. Never once, in all that time, did she ask for one sweet, one piece of bread, or one bite of fruit. Her parents never thought of watching her. No one could tempt her. Her sense of conviction was responsible for her self-control.

A little girl of 10 became intensely religious. When Lent came she took the idea of fasting seriously. She would give up what she liked best. What was that? she asked herself. Why candy, of course. She was inordinately fond of sweets. So she made her resolution, and not a piece of candy did she touch for all of Lent. It was a great feat of self-control.

Children will help themselves to overcome certain habits if their co-operation is enlisted. Of course, conditions have to be made favorable first, but they will show amazing self-control if they are made to understand the need for it. One cannot just say, "Stop this habit," or "Control yourelf." It has to be done in the right way. And age must be taken into consideration. But children have great power within themselves if given the chance to exercise it, or if we know how to call it forth.

Hollywood

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 1.—James Cagney—tough guy. A tough guy who paints, collects antique furniture, reads fine books, even poetry, gathers with his mob but doesn't join in when they drink, and never smokes except on the screen.

At the age of 14, red haired, square shouldered, hard fisted, and lacking one inch of standing 5 feet, he was the champion fighter of his Yorkville district. It was then his ambition to study agriculture.

His street fights seldom rose out of arguments. The older boys of the district would arrange for him to fight the champ of another neighborhood. They liked to see him fight. He would fight for the fun of it. He liked it.

He had no inclination to be an actor. He went to Stuyvesant High and was graduated from there. It was while at high that his talent to draw became evident. He registered for the fine arts course at Columbia university, but never went through with it. There was needed money to be earned.

During his work career he had various jobs. He was office boy on the New York Sun. He was a bundle wrapper at Wanamaker's. He carried books at the New York public library. He was a bellhop at the Friars club, the only bellhop to later sit at the dais at the Friars as an honored guest.

It was really his ability to paint that turned him into the theatrical path. He was sent to the Lenox Hill settlement with his two brothers, Harry and Edward, to take a course in public speaking. The settlement staged little plays in which they performed. Jimmy designed and painted the backdrop which was used as scenery.

His first professional job was in a vaudeville act called "Every Sailor." There were six fellows in the act dressed as girls trying to woo the sailor in the act. Tough Guy Cagney was one of the fellows dressed as a girl.

His next job was in the chorus of "Pitter Patter," that show in which Allen Jenkins was also a chorus boy. In that musical was a chorus girl named Frances Vernon. She is now named Mrs. Jimmy Cagney.

Jimmy never really got a chance on Broadway. His two best acting jobs were in "Outside Looking In" and "Maggie, the Magnificent." He was not well known. He believed the play "Broadway" was his big opportunity.

Phillip Dunning had promised him the rôle of the hoofer in it. William A. Brady was to produce it. Then Brady backed out. Jim's brother, William, an advertising salesman, had some money saved and wanted to buy the play for him. "Don't spend your good money," said Jimmy. "Show business is too much of a gamble for a life's savings."

The vaudeville act of Cagney and Vernon went touring the south. They returned to New York the night "Broadway" opened at the Broadhurst theater. The next day Jimmy, with the reviews under his arm, met William. "Broadway" was the biggest hit in years.

"The quicker you're successful the less you know," said Jimmy, who had been long waiting for success. He still believes that something's only worth while if it is difficult to accomplish.

Therefore he is an Irishman who can speak Yiddish. His hands are hard and muscle-bound. He only tried to play the piano to make his fingers flexible. Now he plays well. Those early piano lessons hurt his hands more than when punching an opponent.

He's 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs [illegible] pounds, and has greenish brown eyes. Despite his mop of red hair he has never been nicknamed Red. He has to be careful of his weight. He takes on pounds easily. He can't eat as many cookies, his favorite food, as he'd like to.

He always wanted to own a yacht. Several times he went out to buy a boat, took a sample cruise on it, and became so seasick that the salesman didn't even try to sell him the yacht. This is the same sailor of "Here Comes the Navy."

Then one day he bought a yacht without inspecting it and taking a ride on it. After he owned the boat he went on it and set sail. He didn't get seasick.

He sleeps in pullover pajamas, for he doesn't like buttons. The windows must be wide open. He kicks off the blankets, for he is a restless sleeper.

Money has given Cagney the comforts he desired. It hasn't changed his character. He is one of the few actors who hasn't gone Hollywood. There is no finer praise.

GAIN 5 LBS. IN ONE WEEK OR NO COST!
New Natural Mineral Concentrate From the Sea—RICH IN FOOD IODINE Building Up Thousands of Nervous, Skinny, Rundown Folks Where All Else Fails.
Here's good news for "Naturally Skinny" folks who can't seem to add an ounce no matter what they eat. A new way has been found to add flattering pounds of good, solid flesh and fill out those ugly, scrawny hollows even on men and women who have been underweight for years. 5 to 8 lbs. in 1 week guaranteed—15 to 18 lbs. in a few weeks not uncommon.
This new discovery called Kelp-a-Malt, now available in handy tablets offers practically all the vitally essential food minerals in highly concentrated form. These minerals, so necessary to the digestion of fats and starches—the weight making elements in your daily diet—include a rich supply of precious FOOD IODINE.
Kelp-a-Malt's FOOD IODINE nourishes the internal glands which control assimilation, the process of converting digested food into firm, solid, flesh. 6 Kelp-a-Malt tablets contain more FOOD IODINE THAN 486 lbs. of spinach, 1600 lbs. of beef, 1389 lbs. of lettuce.
Try Kelp-a-Malt for a single week and notice the difference—how much better you sleep, how your appetite improves, how ordinary stomach distress vanishes. Watch flat chests and skinny limbs fill out and flattering extra pounds appear. Kelp-a-Malt is prescribed and used by physicians. Fine for children, too. Remember the name, Kelp-a-Malt, the original kelp and malt tablets. 100 jumbo size tablets, 4 to 5 times the size of ordinary tablets cost but little. Nothing like them, so do not accept imitations. Try Kelp-a-Malt. If you don't gain at least 5 pounds in 1 week, the trial is free. Kelp-a-Malt can be had at all

BLUE RIBBON *Genuine ALE

"THE PERFECT FORMULA WAS FOUND"
"THE ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT DELIVERED"

"AMERICA wants a really fine ale," said our representatives; "what will Pabst do?" Many months ago that report came to us from all parts of the country. It was a challenge. If Pabst was to meet it we knew that ours must be far more than just another ale!

• • •

Our technical staff told us, "Production of the finest ale calls for a brewery built for that purpose. Our Milwaukee brewery is already working full time to supply the demand for our beer. To make genuine ale will require a new plant, costing millions." We replied, "If you can produce an ale worthy of the fame and reputation which Pabst has held for ninety years, the plant will be built."

• • •

Action began! The famous Pabst laboratories, with their vast experience, went to work. The ale extraordinary had to be developed. Foreign breweries were visited; experts were consulted. Pure culture ale yeasts crossed the oceans to be experimented with, tried, selected. Formula after formula was checked, investigated, discarded. Then came success: —the formula was found!

• • •

To give America its own fine ale, we built our plant—the largest ale brewery in the United States—embodying the most recent scientific developments of the brewing art—splendidly located in Peoria, Illinois, at one of the highest points in the State where the air is pure and the water, pumped from deep, cool wells, is just right.

• • •

Our scientific staff, our engineering department, our production department—all have delivered, and now America has a genuine ale which invites comparison with the finest anywhere.

• • •

There is no ale like Blue Ribbon. It's brand new, grand new taste brings a new conception of ale. Try Blue Ribbon Genuine Ale today. Its reasonable price will surprise you. Its mellow friendliness will instantly make it your favorite!

© 1934 Premier-Pabst Corp.

 WHAT ALE IS: We are often asked "What is the difference between beer and ale?" When properly brewed both are wholesome, appetizing malt beverages. But there is a distinct difference in the formula and process for making beer and ale. Hops for ale are blended and worked into the product in one way—and into beer another way. The yeast with which ale is fermented is different from beer yeast and the fermentation of ale is much more vigorous. Ale is the stronger drink, having a higher alcoholic content.

Requiring different yeast and different treatment, the making of ale and beer should be carefully separated. So-called ales, made in the same fermenting and storage rooms with beer, are usually neither true ale nor true beer, but "cross breeds!"

Made in a plant built for that purpose, Blue Ribbon Ale is genuine true-flavored ale—no half way product, no cross breed. Just as Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is true, wholesome beer, Blue Ribbon Ale is real ale, with the tang and aroma and vigor that ale should have. To find out the difference between real ale and beer, drink Blue Ribbon Ale. Try it today—it's exceptional.

HANLEY THINKS THAT ALL-STAR LINE IS A LINE

Bears Will Discover It Aug. 31.

They're All Coming

APPLICATIONS for tickets to the Bears-All Star game thus far have come from fans in 15 states. In addition to Illinois orders have been received from Oregon, California, Utah, Colorado, New York, Massachusetts, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Missouri, and Tennessee. Iowa leads in number of requests.

BY DICK HANLEY.

[Northwestern football coach.]

The answer to a football coach's prayer is an accurate description of the feeling Andy Kerr of Colgate and I share as we survey the all-eastern football squad which meets in Evanston each fall, preliminary to going to California for the annual East-West game in San Francisco. Eleven outstanding seniors from the Atlantic coast join forces with a similar number of gridiron luminaries from the middle west to form a truly all-star aggregation.

Can you blame a football coach for rejoicing over an opportunity to mold such gridiron greats into an effective machine? At the same time, however, our enthusiasm is tempered by the realization that Dana Bible of Nebraska, Babe Hollingsberry of Washington State, and Percy Locey of Denver have exercised just as much care and scrutiny in selecting their western team to oppose our group.

From the western boundaries of the Mississippi to the Pacific ocean they pry loose all of the fine senior athletes. Too often, they prove equal or superior in ability. But into what a contest this game develops each year! There are 44 of these East-West stars. Picture then, the sort of squad that would be possible if the all-eastern and all-western squads might be combined.

They're All Bad News.

On Aug. 31 football fans will have such an opportunity. Twenty-one of the players on the college all-star roster for Soldiers' field action played in this year's East-West game. Other individuals, such as Krause of Notre Dame, Wistert of Michigan, Mehringer of Kansas, and Rosequist of Ohio State, would have participated in this contest had they not been members of basketball or wrestling squads.

Corbus of Stanford and Montgomery of Columbia were kept out of the game because of previous engagements at the Rose bowl. But on Aug. 31 there will be nothing, barring injuries in the practice sessions, to prevent the great majority of the group from participating.

I have been privileged to observe all but three of the All-Star group at one time or another during their college careers. Perhaps I should say it has been my misfortune to have seen some of them in action.

Krause Is a Wonder.

Krause, known to Chicago followers since his old De La Salle days, has, for instance, in the three years of competition against Northwestern, been one of the greatest tackles of all time. I am glad Sauer and Masterson of the All-Stars were only sophomores when Nebraska came to Dyche stadium. The only members of the cast I have not watched are Mehringer of Kansas, Manekis of Chicago, and Montgomery of Columbia. But they will do.

The All-Star lineup impresses me particularly in the line. Here it should meet on an equal basis the great power of the Bear line. Bernard, one of the great centers of modern football, has everything. He is a fine passer, a grand defensive player, who is at his best playing out of the line. Rosenberg and Schammel are nearly as big and possibly as fast as any pair of guards in football. Krause of Notre Dame, Schwammel of Oregon, Rosequist of Ohio State, and Mehringer of Kansas have bulk enough to be formidable on defense. Any or all of these can do their share offensively, also.

The All-Star ends are unusually good. Skladany of Pittsburgh is a fine blocker, an outstanding interferer and a real defensive man. He is not an outstanding pass receiver. However, Smith of Washington is a great offensive end. His pass catching made him far and away the best end on the coast.

Reserve Strength Good.

Canrinus of St. Mary's is a big, powerful fellow without a single weaknes. Manske I consider the best end I ever coached. Gillman of Ohio State is one of the fine ends of the conference. In the East-West game of last year he was as fine an end as was on the field.

The reserve strength of the All-Star line should match that of those discussed above. Gorman of Notre Dame plays best in a seven man line. Vuchinich of Ohio is a great defensive player. Jones, on his performance, was the best lineman from tackle to tackle on the eastern squad this year.

Gailus, Hupke, Manekis were outstanding men last year on their own squads. This line has plenty of bulk, excellent speed, and will compare favorably with any line the country has ever witnessed.

If the All-Stars lose, I do not believe it will be because of lack of strength in this po[illegible]

Bonthron Breaks Record in Race at Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Bill Bonthron, Princeton university mile runner who is touring Europe with a picked team of athletes from the United States, today bettered the accepted world's record for the odd distance of 1,320 yards when he was clocked in 3 minutes and 8-10th of a second. Joe Skladany to Bring Wife as His Rooter

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Joe Skladany, University of Pittsburgh's brilliant end, today announced his acceptance of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's invitation to play with the college all-star football team which will meet the Chicago Bears, national professional champions, at Soldiers' field in Chicago on the evening of Aug. 31.

"I don't know whether I can show those pros anything about playing end," said the stocky Lithuanian youngster, "but I'll be in there playing a lot of football against them. With two weeks' practice I think we collegians will be able to give those Bears a beating."

Always Exudes Confidence.

Skladany will have an added incentive to win because one of the rooters will be his bride of a few days. On Aug. 15 Skladany will marry Miss Zenida Kemeza, after which the couple will leave for a honeymoon in Chicago.

Skladany always has displayed confidence in himself. He goes about his business and is not loath to tell the world what a good ball player he is. And he will go out on the gridiron to back up any statement he might make.

Instead of being tall and rangy, as most picture book ends are, he is short and stocky, with powerful legs and arms that enable him to brush aside interference. He weighs about 195 pounds, and for fear of going over this, he plays three or four sets of handball every day.

Speaks Five Languages.

During his high school days Skladany worked the evening shift in a coal mine, handling mules. It was here that he picked up his linguistic knowledge, for he speaks five languages—Russian, Polish, Croatian, Czechoslovakian, and Lithuanian. He

BONURA'S HOMER IN TENTH SEALS 2 SOX VICTORIES

Hose Win for Lyons, 10-6; For Earnshaw, 4-2.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1.—The usually mild mannered White Sox indulged themselves to the limit today by annexing favorable decisions in both ends of a double bill with the Browns. The first affair was almost forced on the grateful Chicagoans, 10 to 6, because of charitable pitching, but they had to resort to some of their choicest tricks to grab the other in ten innings. At that point Zeke Bonura broke it up by launching homer No. 23 after Marty Hopkins had walked with two out. The score was 4 to 2.

Strange as it may seem to those well acquainted with Sox happenings Manager Jim Dykes found it necessary to employ only two pitchers. The first of this pair was Ted Lyons, who despite 13 hits was able to keep his chin above water because his mates did a swell job of mixing hits with some of the eleven passes surrendered by various eccentric Brownie pitchers.

Earnshaw Misses Shutout.

The next of the Sox pair to appear was George Earnshaw. The former Mackman would have registered his ninth victory of the year by a shutout count if he had not bogged down in the eighth when the hostiles tied it.

The first of the many generous Brown pitchers who engaged in the long afternoon of work was Irving [Bump] Hadley. He started the opening battle, but was gone before the second inning was completed. The cause of his removal was four passes in one inning. Manager Hornsby then sent in one of his aces, Buck Newsom, and the ex-Cub gave away everything but his uniform. He issued six passes, two of them in the sixth when the Sox scored four times, a matter which caused him to be charged with the defeat. Subsequent scoring was at the expense of Ivy Andrews and Bill McAfee. Then Hadley came back to relieve in the second game and was present when Bonura delivered the knockout punch.

FIRST GAME

Lyons fanned Clift in the first inning before a storm of base hits began to whistle around his ears. West started it with a single to right and Burns walked. West scored on a single by Pepper. Burns dashed home on Campbell's single. Hemsley's single sent Pepper over the plate with the third and last run of the inning.

Due to Conlan's attempt to stretch a double into a triple in the first inning the Sox couldn't score despite a pair of two baggers, but they did better in the second with practically no hitting. With the assistance of Umpire McGowan, Boken beat out a bunt after Appling had fanned. Bocek walked, Shea flied to center, and Lyons walked. Swanson also walked, forcing Boken to score. Bocek was forced across the plate when Conlan

Risko Scores Close Decision Over Loughran

Freeport, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Johnny Risko, veteran Cleveland heavyweight, tonight pounded out a close ten round decision over Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia before a crowd of 7,000 who packed this little town's stadium.

Risko ripped through the former light heavyweight champion's guard with a series of left jabs to the body in the early rounds and then stood off a belated rally to earn the unanimous decision of the judges.

The victory gave the husky Cleveland baker boy his second straight triumph over the Philadelphian after Loughran had taken the decisions in the first three of their five matches.

There was no question as to Risko's superiority. From the start he carried the fight to the Philadelphia boxer and with the exception of three of the last four rounds threw his right and left continually to Loughran's body.

Loughran failed to show his usual aggressiveness during the early part of the fight, apparently being content to stand off Risko's rushes. With the start of the seventh round, however, Tommy began to look more like the fighter who once ruled the light heavyweight ranks. He stopped Johnny repeatedly with his left jabs and occasionally landed a crashing right to the head.

Risko came out strong for the last round and if there had been any doubt as to the outcome he quickly dispelled it. He bore under Loughran's guard and with a straight left and an overhead right chased Loughran around the ring. Tommy, trying to ward off the rushes, poked his left to the face several times, but they were like so much chaff before the wind.

The fight was staged under the auspices of the Church of the Holy Redeemer with the parochial school sponsored by the church sharing in the receipts.

Risko weighed 195 pounds and Loughran 182¾.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Big Jim Weaver exerted himself to the utmost yesterday to rout the Dean menace, but the exertion got him down after 7 2-3 innings of super pitching. With two out in the eighth the Cardinals had a record of two singles and no runs, but before there were three out in the inning the St. Louisians had chased over four runs. This represented all the scoring done, so the Cubs finished on the worthless end of a 4 to 0 tabulation.

Until Big Jim swooned he had been a somewhat better pitcher than Paul Dean, which is a hairline appraisal since Paul allowed only five hits himself, no two of which came in the same inning. Paul, however, on several occasions had to rely upon brilliant assistance from his infield mates, whereas Jim had to go it practically alone.

Four Games Behind Giants.

It was all very shocking in the light of activities elsewhere in the National league. The New York Giants won two games and now lead the Cubs by four games. And the Cards again are only a game and a half back of the Cubs.

Some idea of Weaver's brilliance prior to the eighth is given in the following memorandum: The Cardinals were retired in order in the first, second, fourth, fifth, and sixth innings. The two hits prior to the eighth were made by Orsatti with none out in the third and Collins with two out in the seventh. Weaver walked only two.

And now the harrowing detail of Mr. Weaver's demise: Orsatti opened the eighth with a tap to Billy Herman. Durocher walked and went to second while Weaver was tossing out Dean for the second out. Martin beat out a hit to English, Orsatti stopping at third.

Rothrock Drives In First Run.

Rothrock looped a single to right center and Durocher pranced home with the run which was enough to win the contest. Manager Frisch, a great hand to be in at the kill, then poked a single into center which scored Martin and put Rothrock on third. Medwick singled to right, scoring Rothrock and putting Frisch on third. Weaver got two strikes on Collins and then made a wild pitch which enabled Frisch to score and Medwick to go to second. Guy Bush came in and threw a third strike past Collins.

The next and last six Cubs who carried bats to the plate failed to get the ball out of the infield.

The Cubs' hopes of pushing off with a quick run or two off young Dean got some encouragement when Billy Herman opened the Chicago offensive with a double off the left field wall. Billy went to third on English's tap to Frisch, but was easily caught at the plate on Stainback's tap to Durocher. Babe Herman forced Stainback to end the inning.

In the second the Cubs again were thwarted. Cuyler opened with a single to center and reached second on Hartnett's sacrifice. Grimm fanned, Hack walked, and Frisch threw out Weaver.

Cards Stir up a Rumpus.

The Cardinals stirred up a little rumpus in the third. Orsatti singled past third and took second on a wild pitch. After Durocher had been called out on strikes Dean walked. Orsatti took third when Martin forced Dean. While Weaver was pitching to Rothrock, Martin broke for second. Hartnett feinted a throw to second with such skill that Orsatti, an actor himself, started for home with utter innocence, never dreaming he was being duped. Instead of throwing to second, Hartnett whirled and threw to Hack to trap Orsatti. A rundown ensued, in which Hack made the putout.

Alert work by the Cardinal infield, excepting Collins, got the visitors out of a jam in the fifth inning. Hack opened with the fourth hit off Dean, a line single to left. Weaver bunted to Collins, who made a wide throw to second in an attempt to force Hack. Billy Herman bunted to Martin, who launched a surprisingly rapid double play. English then fanned for the second time.

The Cards got their second pass and their second hit after two were out in

CAMPBELL GOES TO THIRD ROUND OF PUBLIC LINKS

Wins First Two Matches by 5 and 3 Scores.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Turning back two opponents by decisive margins, Albert [Scotty] Campbell, Seattle, today advanced with 15 fellow golfers into the third round of play in the national public links tournament. Two former champions were put out of the running in today's battles.

Campbell, playing the same sparkling game that won him medalist honors in the 36 hole qualifying round, first eliminated Mike Cestone of Newark, N. J., and then defeated Byron Hunt of Columbus O. Both lost by the same score 5 and 3.

The two ex-champions beaten were Kary Kauffmann of Pittsburgh, only man ever to win the public links championship three times, and Bob Miller of Jacksonville, Fla., the 1932 title holder.

Young Defeats Kauffmann.

Kauffmann lasted until the second round, and then lost decisively to Lorraine Young of San Antonio, Tex., 6 and 5. Miller failed to survive the first round, losing in the biggest upset of the day to J. C. Jewett of Gary, Ind., 2 and 1.

Campbell, who holds the Canadian amateur and northwest amateur titles, was always on top of his game after getting away to a bad start with a 7 on the first hole of the day.

Campbell had a two under par round in the morning and another two under in the afternoon for the 15 holes each match lasted.

Ferrera Beats Carpenter.

I'LL EXPLAIN LATER! RIGHT NOW GET ME A PAN OF WATER AND A COUPLE OF CLOTHS. I'M A LITTLE SCRATCHED UP.
BEEN PLAYING TOUCH-TAG WITH THE COPPERS AGAIN, EH?
SOMETHING LIKE THAT, DAN—ONLY THIS TIME THE SHOOTING WAS DONE BY AN OLD DAME ABOUT SEVENTY YEARS OLD.
AN OLD DAME, EH? THIS SOUNDS INTERESTING, LU. TELL ME MORE.
NOT NOW, DAN. I WANT TO LIE DOWN HERE AND REST. . . . . AND I'VE GOT SOME HEAVY THINKING TO DO.

U. S. Net Team Predicts Long Rule of British

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Take it from the United States Davis cup team, which sails for home Saturday empty handed, the chances of any nation taking the international tennis trophy away from England in the next few years are slim indeed.

A poll of Sidney B. Wood Jr., Frank X. Shields, George M. Lott Jr., and Lester Rollo Stoefen, the American quartet which played grand tennis but could win only one match against the British in the challenge round, failed to reveal even the glimmer of a hope that Uncle Sam's present crop of players can turn the trick.

The problem simmered down to one question:

"How are you going to beat that fellow, Fred Perry?"

Shields also interjected the remark that he'd "like to see the man who can beat Henry Wilfred [Bunny] Austin when he's playing for that cup."

Lott Says He's Through.

Matters were not made any more cheerful when Lott, member of the last three teams, said he was through with cup play.

"This time next year," George said, "I'll be selling mining machinery and letting some one else try to lift the mug."

But in the next breath he said he might be back.

"Maybe I'll go into training for both singles and doubles," he said, "I have a hunch I can at least beat Austin. (Something no other American cup player has been able to do in the last three years of competition.)"

Should Lott hold to his first thought and retire the United States would be left without a foundation stone on which to build a winning team.

On the other hand Great Britain is likely to have a really powerful doubles combination to assist its two singles stars.

Collins, Wilde Impress Critics.

The veteran Ian G. Collins and young Frank Herbert Davis Wilde impressed critics as a potentially great combination and probably would have been chosen for this year's team had not the cup committee, for sentimental reasons, decided to defend the cup for the first time with the same team that won it from the French.

Perry came in for a good deal of criticism for his histrionics during his match with Shields yesterday. Several times he glared at the linesmen when he thought they had made a wrong decision and at other times strutted around the court, his chest stuck out after a good shot.

Lawyer Sues Carnera for Legal Fee of $2,500

Open Final Trials for America's Cup Defender Aug. 22

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Sailing instructions for the trial races to select the defender of the America's cup were announced today by the race committee of the New York Yacht club.

The trials, which are to be held off Newport, R. I. starting on Aug. 22, are to be continued until the America's cup committee has chosen the boat, which will defend the historic cup next month against the English challenger, T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavour.

Yankee, a rejuvenated discard of the America's cup trials in 1930, when Enterprise defended the cup, has registered numerous impressive triumphs in the observation contests this year. Under the guidance of her skipper, Charles Francis Adams, former secretary of the navy, Yankee has furnished the major sensation of the series of races held to date.

Yankee's rivals for the distinction of opposing Endeavour are the new Rainbow, for which Harold S. Vanderbilt is manager and skipper; and Frederick H. Prince's Weetamoe, which like Yankee was unsuccessful in the 1930 trials and which also was rebuilt for this season's contests.

Of the fifteen races which were completed during the recent observation series, Yankee won eight, registering four of her triumphs over Rainbow. Yankee was beaten twice by Gerard B. Lambert's old cup yacht, Vanitie, which does not conform to the new international class rules. Yankee beat Vanitie once.

In the observation series, Rainbow scored two victories over Weetamoe and one over Vanitie. The new craft also lost once to Vanitie. Weetamoe failed to win a race in the observation series and has been taken to the Herreshoff yard in Bristol to have her keel remodeled again.

Although Yankee holds an edge in the number of victories in the observation series, many experts still staunchly support the chances of Rainbow for selection. Inasmuch as the yacht is new and must be shaken down to be at its best, many still consider its prospects bright.

M'CARTHY GOES 4 UNDER PAR IN CALUMET GOLF

Shoots 68 for Plae Dae Tourney Honors.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Maurice McCarthy, the husky young Clevelander whose name is no novelty in national competition, attended the annual Plae Dae of the Calumet Country club yesterday along with 200 other golfers, and before he had gone away had collected three prizes. McCarthy, who held the national intercollegiate title while competing for Georgetown, and who has since distinguished himself in the Walker cup play and the United States amateur, played the afternoon round, doing it in 68, four under par and one over the course record.

His 68 gave him low gross for the day and first afternoon prize among the guests and also aided the trio with whom he played to take the low gross foursome prize with a total of 299 strokes. His partners were Robert Gardner of Shore Acres, twice national amateur champion, who had a 75; R. L. Langford, 76, and M. S. Bernet, 80. McCarthy was one of the few contestants in the driving event who was able to keep his shots in bounds, knocking out drives of 261, 244 and 240 for a total of 745 yards. E. L. Morris, who was second, finished with an aggregate yardage of 568.

Russell Martin Has 149.

Several in the field played 36 holes, while others contented themselves with a single round. Among the better totals for the full distance were Russell Martin, Flossmoor, 74—75—149; Johnny Lehman, Olympia Fields, 76—74—150; Lee Thiltges, Calumet, 76—75—151; Chuck Becka, Calumet, 80—74—154, and A. O. Brett, Calumet, 73—86—159.

Two quartets tied for the low net foursome prize, each with a handicapped total of 292. They were P. G. Robinson, 85—13—72; G. W. Chapman, 87—15—72; F. L. Jerome, 89—16—73; A. J. Kline, 91—16—75, and T. W. Lyman, 105—29—76; E. J. Taft, 87—12—75; P. F. Kuhlman, 80—8—72, and G. S. Devine, 91—22—69.

Martin won low gross in the morning for guests with 37—37—74. The member honors were taken by Brett in the morning with 37—36—73, followed by Thiltges with 37—39—76, and in the afternoon by James Roland with 36—36—72.

Par—Out	544	434	435—36
Par—In	443	435	445—36—72
McCarthy—Out	533	454	334—34
McCarthy—In	443	434	453—34—68

McCarthy Gets Five Birdies.

Maurice knocked down the first of his five birdies at the second hole with a 30 foot putt, and dropped one from four feet on the next green for another. He needed a five on the par 3 fifth, missing his drive and getting into a trap, and then taking three putts after going to the back edge of the green with his explosion. He drove the edge of the 305 yard seventh for another birdie, and was on the 451 yard ninth in two for another.

He got his last birdie at the 15th, where he was again on with two shots, and after hooking into the woods at the 17th, came back with a fine eagle at the home hole, his No. 2 iron shot landing 18 inches from the pin.

Carleton Smith's 151 Wins Tourney at Tam o' Shanter

Carleton Smith of Rolling Green won first honors in Tam o' Shanter's Deon th' Burn golf tournament yesterday when he scored a 76—75—151 for 36 holes. A field of 125 competed in the annual event.

The best 18 hole score of the day was turned in by Jim Ferguson of the home club, who shot 73 to win low gross for the afternoon round. Art Sweet of Ridgemoor won low gross for guests with a 74. Low net for guests in the afternoon was captured by H. B. McCondi with an 84—14—70. The members' prize went to C. H. Holloway, who scored 89—14—75.

Catherine Wolf Is Defeated in Eastern Tennis

Easthampton, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Seeded stars ran into more trouble today as the second round of the ninth annual Maidstone club women's invitational tennis tournament proved more difficult than the first.

Josephine Cruickshank of Santa Ana, Cal., top ranking entry since the withdrawal of Carolin Babcock from the singles, had to play an hour and a half to eliminate the unseeded Los Angeles player, Theodosia Smith, 7-5, 13-11.

Mrs. John Van Ryn of Philadelphia was forced through three long sets before defeating Florence Le Boutillier of Westbury, N. Y., 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, and Virginia Rice of Boston, No. 5, was thoroughly pushed in beating Anne Page of Wayne, Pa., 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Only Mrs. Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., and Mrs. Mary Greef Harris of Kansas City, seeded sixth and seventh, won as they pleased. Mrs. Andrus conquered Catherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind., 6-2, 6-3, and Mrs. Harris eliminated Marianne Hunt of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-3.

Helen Fulton of Chicago, who yesterday upset Baroness Maud Levi, continued her brilliant play by overwhelming Priscilla Merwin, Pasadena, Cal., 6-1, 6-1, but Gracyn Wheeler of Santa Monica, Cal., winner of another surprise victory yesterday, lost to Katherine Winthrop, Boston, 5-7, 6-2, 6-2.

REDS, 7; PIRATES, 6.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Trailing by four runs, the Cincinnati Reds responded by rallying to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 6, today.

Hafey's 14th home run of the season proved to be the winning margin, although it came before a sixth inning bunching of four singles and an error that routed two pitchers and netted four runs.

WHITLOW WYATT OPERATED ON FOR LOCKED ELBOW

Whitlow Wyatt, right handed pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, who was injured in Boston several weeks ago, underwent an operation on his pitching arm yesterday morning at the Passavant hospital. Dr. Philip H. Kreuscher, who performed the operation, said Wyatt would be able to rejoin the White Sox in about six weeks.

"Wyatt was suffering from a locked elbow, the same ailment which bothered Tommy Thomas and Red Faber. Wyatt's condition was good after the operation and I believe he will be ready to pitch again in six weeks," Dr. Kreuscher said.

Yankees Lose Lead; Red Sox Triumph, 7-4

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Dusty Rhodes, a former Yankee, pitched air tight ball in the pinches today to give the Boston Red Sox the third game of the series with New York, 7 to 4. The defeat dropped the Yankees from the lead behind the Detroit Tigers, who won from Cleveland.

A four run rally started by Bill Werber's home run in the fifth settled the game and also Johnny Broaca's tenure on the hill. Russell Van Atta replaced him and stopped any further scoring after Lary hit a double to bring the rally to a climax. Score:

SENATORS, 11; ATHLETICS, 7.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 1.—(AP)—In a duel of extra base hits the Washington Senators squared the current series with the Athletics today by pounding out an 11 to 7 triumph.

Roger Cramer hit two for the Macks, while Heinie Manush and Pinkie Higgins got one apiece. Washington cinched the game by scoring two runs in the sixth, and adding three more in the 8th and 9th. Score:

TIGERS, 10; INDIANS, 7.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Pounding three Cleveland pitchers for 17 hits, the Detroit Tigers today regained first place in the American league race by winning, 10 to 7, as Boston defeated New York.

Hal Trosky, Indian first baseman, was knocked unconscious in the eighth inning when he was struck in the head by Goose Goslin's double. He remained in the game, however, and next time at bat got a double for his fourth hit. He previously had knocked a home run, as had Owen, Detroit third baseman.

The Indians loaded the bases in the ninth with one out, but Manager Mickey Cochrane removed Phillips and sent in Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe, who fanned Trosky and Hale to end the game.

Today's victory gave the Tigers two out of three in the series and left the Indians six and one-half games out of first place. Score:

Tietje Will Hurl Today in Final of Browns' Series

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1.—Les Tietje, who won his last two starts, will pitch to the Browns in the final of the series here tomorrow. Dick Coffman, who beat the Sox in the opener of the set, will make a return appearance in the windup.

The Sox will leave here at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening, bound for Detroit, where they are scheduled for three days of battling with the Tigers.

Consider the Railroads —for Reliability

In the first half of this year the railroads of the United States carried 225,000,000 passengers and 350,000,000 tons of freight.

Railroads go everywhere. They carry everything. They operate day and night, in all seasons, under all conditions. Their trains are fast, on time and, above all, safe.

Railway charges too are reliable. Rates and fares are published and adhered to. All patrons pay the same and are treated alike.

Sox Win Pair as Bonura Hits 23d Home Run

Chase Newsom in Sixth.

The Browns got after Lyons again in the second and scored once to make their lead 4 to 2. This happened because of a double by Newsom and a single by West. The next outbreak was staged by the Sox. They scored once in the fourth on a single by Conlan, double by Hopkins, a pass to Bonura, and Appling's infield out.

Newsom began to pitch himself into the clubhouse when he walked Swanson at the start of the sixth. Conlan forced Swanson and Hopkins walked. Bonura singled through short, Conlan scoring. Appling singled to right, scoring Hopkins and putting Bonura on third. Appling went to second on the throw-in. Then Boken singled to left, sending Bonura and Appling home. Andrews stepped in as relief man and promptly picked Boken off first. Bocek rolled to Bejma for the third out.

Lyons' Lead Reduced.

The Browns got to Lyons in their half of the sixth and melted away two runs from his three run lead. It all came after the first two men had been retired. Strange walked and Andrews singled. Clift also singled and Strange scored. West came through with his third hit to count Andrews, making the score 7 to 6.

The Sox made it a bit safer for Lyons in the eighth by scoring once. This run was slightly tainted, but nevertheless was acceptable. After two were gone Appling hoisted a fly to short center which West couldn't quite reach. Appling made two bases on the effort and registered a moment later on a single by Boken. Two more were added in the ninth on a double by Conlan, a single by Hopkins, and a double by Bonura.

SECOND GAME

Hits by Appling and Bocek served for Sox scoring purposes in the second inning. Appling slapped a single to right after a fly ball had put Bonura out of the way. Boken was dispensed with on a tap to the pitcher, after which Bocek rode Appling across the plate on a single to center.

Earnshaw didn't have much to bother him until the third, when Grube led off with a single to Appling. This proved of no consequence because Earnshaw fanned two of the next three batters. A threat of greater proportions arose in the fourth. With one out, Campbell singled to right and took third on a single by Clift. This was cleaned up on Bejma's roller which was converted into a double play.

Earnshaw Upsets Strategy.

After the second inning the Sox weren't able to do much until the seventh and then they made headway only because of Knott's wildness. The inning started with a pass to Appling, who was sacrificed to second by Boken. After Bocek had flied to right Knott gave Madjeski a more or less intentional pass. Earnshaw upset this strategy by singling to center to score Appling.

The little matter of tying the score on Earnshaw in the eighth was inaugurated by Burns' single to right. Earnshaw revealed his fear of West by walking him. Garms popped out. Campbell then singled to right to score Burns and send West to third. Clift walked, filling the bases. Hopkins made a leap for Bejma's high bounder and threw him out, but West dashed home with the tying run. Boken tossed out Strange to end the disturbance. After this there was nothing except Bonura's homer.

Leon Wilson Sets Record in Motorcycle Races

Leon Wilson set a new track record in winning the scratch event, feature of last night's motorcycle races at Logan Square park. His time was 1 minute 16 2-5 seconds. The handicap race was won by Cliff Hills, who covered the distance in 80 seconds. Carl Power, competing in the junior races, suffered two broken ribs when he fell off his mount and was run over by Otto Waldvogel. In a team event Chicago beat Milwaukee, 5 points to 3.

Then came the sorrowful Cardinal eighth, about which you've been advised.

Chuck Klein was sent to the Illinois Masonic hospital yesterday to undergo treatment for injuries which he suffered in Boston on July 11. The trouble heretofore has been diagnosed as a charley horse but fear developed that there may be a ruptured blood vessel. Chuck has been in and out of the lineup since his leg was hurt but Manager Grimm now says the star will have to stay out until he is pronounced fully recovered.

Bob O'Farrell, recently deposed as manager of the Cincinnati Reds, will be in Chicago today for a conference with Manager Charley Grimm with a view of becoming the Cubs' second string catcher and a pinch batter of parts. Grimm said yesterday he'd like to have the former Cub-Cardinal-Giant-Cardinal-Red if satisfactory terms can be agreed upon.

The Cincinnati Reds will be here tomorrow for a four-game series, which will include a double-header Sunday.

MELINKOVICH TO LEAVE TODAY FOR CZECHOSLOVAKIA

George Melinkovich, Notre Dame full back, whose illness forced him from school last year, will leave today for Karlsbad, Czechoslovakia to take mineral baths before the opening of the football season, Dr. Deno F. O'Connor, his personal physician, announced yesterday. Melinkovich, who expects to return to Notre Dame this fall, will fly east. Accompanied by Dr. O'Connor, he will sail from Quebec, Saturday, returning to South Bend just before the start of the training season.

JOE SKLADANY TO BRING WIFE AS HIS ROOTER

Pitt End to Be Married Before All-Star Game.

also makes himself understood in Italian, but he picked up most of this at Pitt in conversation with Frank Mecca, the Pitt stadium groundkeeper.

Predicts He'd Be Star.

Skladany entered the University of Pittsburgh from Larksville High school in the fall of 1930. The towheaded Lithuanian was rated as one of the best prospects on the squad, and even at that time he was perfectly willing to announce that he was Pitt's 1933 All-American end.

After a season as the regular right end on the freshman squad, Skladany went on to the varsity, but discovered there were things he did not know about his position.

At the time the regular right end was Rip Collins, who was just as big as Skladany, taler, and had the advantage of two years of first string experience. As a result Skladnay spent considerable time on the bench. When Collins was graduated Skladany moved into the right end position and immediately distinguished himself.

Will Play Pro Football.

In 1933 seventy-two attempts at skirting Skladany's end resulted in a net loss of six yards. One team, Minnesota, gained 25 yards around his side of the line, but eight other opponents lost 31. Skladany wound up his college career by playing for the all-east team in the San Francisco Shriners game on New Year's day. To obtain money for the study of law he will play professional football with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

U. S. ATHLETES WIN 6 EVENTS FROM GERMANS

MUNICH, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Led by the California stars, Fay Draper and John Lyman, American track and field stars won six out of eight events in a meet today. Rain fell throughout the competition.

Draper won both dashes, while Lyman took the discus throw and shot put. Other American victors were Ivan Fuqua of Indiana and George Spitz of New York university.

Draper took the 100 meter dash in 11 seconds, with Viss of Germany second. Then he won the 200 meters in 22.3 seconds, leading Neumier of Germany to the tape.

Fuqua captured the 400 meter run in 48.3 seconds, with Poeschl of Germany second. Spitz high jumped 6 feet 4¾ inches to defeat Borneder of Germany.

BANKER PARRISH IS A HAPPY GUY; NEW DEAL WINS

BY FRENCH LANE.

Folks down in Midway, Ky., who call on Banker J. W. Parrish this morning for a 60 or 90 day lift on a friendly loan no doubt will find the banker in rare good humor. He should be willing to accommodate them.

Out at Hawthorne yesterday afternoon, where the largest crowd of the three day old meeting gathered to wager some $200,000 on the day's races, the banker's horse, New Deal, a son of Broadway Jones-Ethel Dear, which has been trying to beat Cavalcade and other leading 3 year olds all year, found his happy hunting ground.

He paraded to the post in a field of seven for the $1,500 Maywood handicap. The Hawthorne regulars wagered on Bien Fait, Blessed Event, and Isaiah as if the race had been run the night before.

New Deal Is Forgotten.

New Deal, which had been running in those mile and a quarter 3 year old specials trying to beat Cavalcade, went neglected.

The Kentucky banker's colt didn't give his backers much encouragement in the early stages of the 6½ furlongs. Isaiah was out in front cutting out a dizzy pace, while Mr. James and Bien Fait were right with him. New Deal was a good half dozen lengths behind them.

On the turn into the stretch Jocky Buddy Haas went to bat on New Deal. Up he moved. He appeared to be flying as he reached the top of the stretch about ten yards out from the rail. This speed killed off the early leaders and he went on to win by a length still running on the extreme outside. Bien Fait was second and his stable mate, Blessed Event, was third.

New Deal threatened to shatter the track record, but missed by four-fifths of a second when he ran the 6½ furlongs in 1:18 4-5. He paid $12.54 for a two dollar ticket.

Wise Player Wins.

Earlier in the afternoon six of the better grade 2 year olds at Hawthorne came together in the Crystal Springs purse. An unexpected winner turned up when Wise Player, racing for Fred M. Grabiner of Chicago, who developed the great horses, Chicago and Windy City, came with a belated rally after being headed at the top of the stretch to beat the favorite, No Saint, by a neck.

Wise Player is royally bred. His sire is Strolling Player, a noted English horse, while his dam is Heart o' Gold. An energetic ride by L. Balaski who applied the whip freely all the way down the stretch when the Englishman was inclined to be a bit lazy made the victory possible.

Newell, which races for Banker Parrish, finished third, but the fight for honors was strictly between Wise Player and No Saint for the entire route.

No Saint Leads for Awhile.

Wise Player was the early leader. Rounding the turn out of the back stretch Jocky Dublin Taylor rushed No Saint up on the outside and took the lead as the field wheeled into the stretch. It isn't often that a horse which falls back as Wise Player did comes again. Balaski was giving him a breathing spell, however, and finding racing room next to the rail when Taylor went a trifle wide with No Saint, Balaski drove Wise Player up through the narrow opening and got the decision in the final strides.

Wise Player ran the 5½ furlongs in 1:07 and in the mutuels he paid $16.80.

Ebony Lady to Race Today at Hawthorne

Ebony Lady, one of the fastest horses in the central states earlier in the season, will get back into action in the Apex handicap at Hawthorne this afternoon. She no doubt will rule as the favorite over such fast steppers as Wacoche, Cabezo, Brown Witch, Chance Line, Mr. Joe, Dust Girl, and Dusky Devil.

After beating the Australian champion Winooka at Churchill Downs last May Ebony Lady journeyed to Latonia to win the Inaugural handicap. Since then little has been heard from her except that the clockers report she has been showing sensational speed at Hawthorne during the training hour lately.

* * *

Chief Cherokee, which won the Thomas Curran Memorial stakes at Washington Park so impressively that he loomed as a possible 2 year old champion, is back in training and has been named for the Ellerslie handicap to be run tomorrow afternoon.

* * *

Thomas D. Taggart, the boss of French Lick Springs, lunched at his famous watering place in Indiana yesterday, stepped into his plane and reached Hawthorne in time for the running of the first race.

* * *

An old fashioned betting coup was reported to have been staged when Petty Taw, owned by Mrs. Phil Reilly of Chicago and trained by her husband, won the first race yesterday at odds of nearly 10 to 1.

* * *

The fine saddle skill Jocky Buddy Haas is showing at Hawthorne has won him many followers. He is under contract to John Marsch of Chicago.

* * *

Blue Lillian, the daughter of Blue Larkspur-Artistic, from the stable of Aarons & Weil, appears to be a rank in and outer. About every six weeks she turns in a sensational winning performance. In her other trips to the post she runs ordinary races. She was heavily backed in the Crystal Springs purse at Hawthorne yesterday, but finished out of the money. Wise player, No Saint, and Newell all showed her the way home.

* * *

Albert Sabath, the president of Hawthorne, will go on the air over W-G-N Friday night and tell something about the history of the Hawthorne track, which is among the oldest in America.

Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 2:51. At post 2 minutes. Start good from Bahr gate; won handily; second and third driving.

POLLY DISKIN, a strong factor from the start and on the outside throughout, took command quickly after reaching the stretch but was mildly ridden out. RENAISSANCE, on the inside throughout and much used to race HOT SHOT into submission, was under strong urging after reaching the stretch and although failing to withstand winner, held on well. MISS FLIP lost much ground and weakened slightly in final eighth, but outstayed KING PIN.

Winner trained by owner. Went to post 3:19½. At post 6 minutes. Start good from Bahr gate; second and third driving.

ADELAIDE A, taken out after reaching the turn, responded to strong urging in the stretch and was up in final stride. INFINITY raced wide early, continued to lose ground when improving his position fast on the turn and held on stubbornly. LUNA MICA rushed to front on inside before going a quarter, weakened badly after reaching final stretch.

WISE PLAYER took a short lead under energetic riding, failed to withstand NO SAINT after reaching stretch, but aided by saving ground and holding on gamely, was up in closing strides. NO SAINT forced the early pace under light restraint and weakened after going to front. NEWELL saved ground on the turn, had to come out in stretch and closing resolutely outfinished LOVE SICK.

Latter, taken back repeatedly in first half-mile, responded stoutly when called upon and was wearing down the winner. FOXIANA had good speed, saved ground after first quarter, and weakened in last three-sixteenths, but was best of others.

NEW DEAL, outrun early and raced wide, particularly on stretch turn, gained rapidly after straightening up in stretch and wearing down BIEN Fait, drew out fast in closing stretch. Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

The common mudhen [coot to the ornithologists] is causing a headache among a large number of Illinois waterfowl hunters at the height of the summer season. If it were not for this water bird sportsmen of the state could easily get together on a recommendation to the department of agriculture regarding a 1934 waterfowl hunting season this fall. As it stands now sportsmen are arguing about the open season, with the mudhen shooters insisting upon an early season so that the "battle of Grass lake" can be staged when the coots are in the northern Illinois lake country.

Charles F. Thompson, acting director of conservation of the state of Illinois, informs us that the duck shooters favor an open season on waterfowl so set up that the sportsmen will have a chance to hunt three days a week for ten weeks. The opening date suggested is Oct. 26. By opening then the season could be continued to the end of December.

* * *

Oct. 26 is a rather late opening date when considered from one angle. However, any one who knows about migrations of waterfowl in Illinois is aware of the fact that the first good autumn storm to push the ducks down rarely comes until around the 20th of the month. Therefore Oct. 26 is a date that comes after the mallards and pintails usually have moved into the Illinois duck country. As for the goose hunters around Cairo, they usually do not open up until the first week in November.

The coot hunters naturally are greatly concerned over an Oct. 26 opening date. They want the state of Illinois to start the waterfowl season earlier so that they can bag mudhens in the northern Illinois lake country before the hens leave that territory. One who has never seen the opening day on Grass lake cannot appreciate the numbers of shotgun owners that rent boats and bombard the mudhens on the northern Illinois lakes. Several thousand gunners are on the job. They may fire between 300,000 and 500,000 rounds of ammunition the first day. For the first few weeks of the season the boys apparently have a lot of fun chasing mudhens through the lotus beds.

In order to assure the mudhen shooters their party this fall, the demand is for an early opening date in Illinois. And here is where the whole set up of the 1934 waterfowl season for this state has been stymied.

Just how the problem will be worked out is a question. In order to satisfy everybody it may be necessary for Illinois to go on a schedule of two shooting days per week for 15 weeks. The department of conservation is now in touch with the Biological Survey regarding methods of settling this problem.

CUNNINGHAM AND FORMER CO-ED AT KANSAS WED

Marion, Kas., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Glenn Cunningham, Kansas middle distance runner, and Miss Margaret Speir of Peabody, Kas., were married here today by the Rev. A. W. Urquhart.

The couple boarded a train for the west, presumably to go to San Francisco. Cunningham said earlier he would sail Aug. 16 for Japan with the United States track team.

Both Cunningham and his bride were graduated from the University of Kansas last spring.

450 HORSES AT DADE PARK FOR 26 DAY MEETING

Dade Park, Ky., Aug. 1.—(AP)—More than 450 thoroughbreds, a record in recent years, were quartered at Dade Park race track today and an additional 50 are expected before the 26 day meeting opens Saturday.

The Inaugural handicap at six furlongs for a purse of $1,000 is expected to draw a high class field of sprinters. Probable starters include Cherry Time, Bartering Kate, Leros, My Blaze, Friend Charlie, Integrity, Jessie Dear, I Pass, Prevail, and Sunboy.

Chinese Empress Wins Sprint by Head.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The return of thoroughbred racing to Rhode Island after a 29 year lapse today drew an enthusiastic but light wagering crowd of 37,281 to this well equipped track which only nine weeks ago was an abandoned airport.

The Narragansett Racing association's first offering was an eight race program, featured by a $5,000 added 6 furlong sprint for three year olds and upwards. Although it was the first time Rhode Islanders could make legal wagers on the horses, the mutuel handle totaled only $351,482.

The first day honors went to the three year old chestnut filly Chinese Empress, which raced under the colors of Abe Bartelstein, although he had turned this daughter of Kai-Sang over to Harry Unna, his trainer, and Percy Pike, a few days ago in a private sale.

This filly, with Howard Hughes abroad, clung to the leaders until the last pole and then beat out Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Red Wagon by a head in a stirring stretch duel. The even money favorite, C. V. Whitney's Trumpery, coupled with Clotho, trailed the Vanderbilt gelding by a length in the show position.

WORLD GRAIN PRICES ADVANCE ON CROP NEWS

Wheat Rises More than Two Cents.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Grain values appreciated sharply in the Chicago market yesterday as the bullish aspects of the world grain situation were brought into sharp focus by advances in wheat in the Argentine, Liverpool and Winnipeg markets.

News on the Canadian and Australian wheat crops was an important factor in providing the background for the rise in prices. A somber picture of the recent crop changes in this country given out by the weather bureau coupled with the faint promise of any genuine drouth relief helped shape market sentiment.

All Grains Share Rise.

All grains shared in the advance here, but wheat was the conspicuous leader, regaining the position which corn has held most of the time recently. Trading was particularly active in the last two hours with good public buying reported.

The net advances in wheat futures ranged from 2¼ to 2½ cents a bushel, while corn futures rose 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents. The final quotation on September wheat was $1.03¾, while corn for delivery during the same month was quoted at 71⅛ cents at the end of the day. Advances in rye futures extended to 2¼ cents a bushel, while barley recorded similar gains. Only oats futures displayed relative sluggishness and closed less than a cent higher.

Foreign News Dominant.

As a market factor foreign news was more important than reports on domestic crops, the fate of which is regarded as largely settled. There is general agreement among crop experts that the corn crop is sharing the fate of wheat, oats and other crops, and will turn out to be one of the smallest on record.

When the big shortages in wheat and oats became generally recognized a month ago there was still hope that the corn would make up for the deficiency. That hope has been blasted. Today most of the private forecasters will make public their estimates, and all indications suggest that the prospective yield will be the smallest in more than 30 years.

Canada Reports Damage.

The official Canadian report confirmed early news that the wheat crop there has deteriorated badly in the last few weeks. Prospective yields, the Canadian government said, have been severely reduced, and it added the prediction that further retrogression will take place unless heavy rains relieve the situation.

Another gloomy touch was added by a Winnipeg grain house, which said a continuation of present conditions will prove its previous crop forecast "far too liberal."

Broomhall, foreign crop agency, relayed the news that rains were urgently needed in the south Australian wheat belt. It was the Canadian and Australian news that was regarded as the prime cause of the advance in the Liverpool market which some authorities believe will lead any advance in world wheat prices.

Country Sales Increase.

With prices again rising offerings of cash grain in the country increased again, and Chicago dealers purchased 300,000 bushels of corn, to arrive here in the next 20 days. Corn is also going in material volume to other markets, some of which are overbidding Chicago prices.

The strong basis which is being maintained for cash grains is playing an important part in the rise in futures. In Minneapolis yesterday a car of No. 1 dark hard wheat brought a price 19 cents over the September future price, or around $1.25 a bushel. Five cars of dark hard wheat brought 15 cents a bushel more than the September future prices in Duluth.

U. S. WILL MAKE NO MORE LOANS ON STORED CORN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The Commodity Credit corporation denied today that it had any plan under contemplation for loaning additional funds on stored corn in the mid-west. John Goodlow, general counsel, said reports that the corporation intended to loan between 70 and 75 cents per bushel on stored corn were erroneous.

"We are not considering such a proposal and would not without a recommendation from the secretary of agriculture," he said. "No such recommendation has ever been received."

The Commodity Credit corporation pegged the price of corn at 45 cents a bushel by loaning that amount to farmers on corn stored under government seal.

Kreutz Made Examiner of Federal Savings Bureau

Oscar R. Kreutz, vice president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago, has been appointed chief examiner for the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation, now being organized in Washington under the new national housing act. Mr. Kreutz came to Chicago from Sioux City, Ia., last fall as field organizer for the home loan board in the Illinois-Wisconsin district. At the annual meeting last winter he was made vice president.

Bank of Spain Absorbing Private Loans on Wheat

MADRID, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The Bank of Spain announced today it is taking over all loans made to wheat growers by private banks and is reducing the interest rate to 4 per cent from the customary 6 per cent.

Cotton Loan Interest Rate Cut to ½ Pct.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Using the leverage supplied by recent legislation, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace yesterday slashed the rate on a 90 million dollar bank loan to less than one-third the rate being paid previously.

The loan was made six months ago to provide the department of agriculture with funds to finance the cotton producers' pool, to which some 1,950,000 bales of cotton have been consigned, with the understanding that it would not be sold prior to Aug. 1 at less than 15 cents. The extension of the loan for another six months indicated that this cotton would not be dumped on the market for six months at least.

The banking syndicate that underwrote the loan yesterday was virtually the same as that which underwrote the original loan. It was headed by the Chase National, Guaranty Trust, Chemical, and Central Hanover banks of New York and the Continental Illinois National of Chicago. Participation in the loans will be distributed to other banks throughout the country.

RFC'S 4 Per Cent Offer Refused.

When the loan was originally made the Reconstruction Finance corporation offered to lend the department of agriculture the 90 million dollars at an interest rate of 4 per cent per annum. Department of agriculture officials balked, protesting that they could and would borrow from the banks at a much lower rate. They applied to the banks and got the money at a rate of approximately 1⅝ per cent.

Later congress passed legislation empowering the secretary of the treasury to lend the department of agriculture funds at much lower rates of interest. This forced the banks to cut the rate and the 90 million dollar loan was extended yesterday at an interest rate of ½ of 1 per cent per annum.

Thus the administration at Washington has reversed its position completely. Whereas six months ago it was attempting to force interest rates up, at present it is doing its utmost to force them down.

Bond Men Fear Repudiation.

It isn't often that anything ruffles the dull calm that has pervaded the investment banking business ever since the long term financing of industry was made virtually impossible by the federal securities act of 1933. Those bond men who don't have a few municipals to sell twiddle their thumbs and scan Kiplinger for shreds of hope that never seem to materialize.

During the last few days, however, there has been much commotion among La Salle street bond men over the action of one of their number in taking a step which the majority believe encourages repudiation of debts by municipalities.

A circular letter sent out to several hundred municipalities by Haskell, Scott & Geyer, a well known La Salle street house, started the ruckus. In it they suggested that it was the "patriotic and economic" duty of municipalities to take advantage of the amended bankruptcy laws which permit municipalities to scale down their bonded debts. They even offered services free of fees unless and until bondholders should agree to accept any reorganization plan which might be undertaken.

Invitation to Cities to Default.

To investment houses selling municipal bonds this seemed an outright invitation to default.

Haskell, Scott & Geyer explained yesterday that such was not their intention and that furthermore the letter was sent out by a new employé who had made the mistake of not showing it to the partners of the firm before he mailed it. It was supposed to have been directed only to some 300 local governments in desperate financial straits, they said.

"Our only object is to help preserve rather than destroy the credit of municipalities," a representative of the firm said.

Meanwhile the other bond houses along La Salle street have been arguing sanctity of contract and viewing with alarm what they regard as encouragement to politicians to default.

Bryant Elected Governor of Chicago Stock Exchange

John J. Bryant Jr. of James H. Oliphant & Co. yesterday was elected to the governing committee of the Chicago Stock Exchange to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of B. F. Stein.

COMMODITY PRICE INDEX IS HIGHEST IN ALMOST 4 YEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—Although the rise for the month was only 75 cents, or 0.45 per cent, Dun's index number of wholesale commodity prices was lifted to $167.912 on Aug. 1. This places it at the highest position reached in nearly four years, as it is necessary to trace the records back to October, 1930, to find a higher figure. At that time the index stood at $168.209. For the sixteenth consecutive month now the index has been maintained at a level above that of the year preceding.

The distance covered since August a year ago, when the index registered $156.134, amounts to $11.778, or 7.5 per cent, while the advance from the 1933 low of $127.606, reached on March 1, has widened to 31.6 per cent. When compared with the lowest level reached in seventeen years, which was touched on July 1, 1932, at $125.316, there has been a rise of $42.596, or 34 per cent. The current index is higher by 7.5 per cent, 30.4 per cent, and 15.3 per cent respectively than the Aug. 1 figure for 1933, 1932, and 1931. It is only 0.85 per cent under the $169.352 set down for August, 1930.

Dun & Bradstreet's weekly food index remained at $2.18 for the week ended July 31, compared with $1.97 in the same period a year ago.

INCOMES OF 250 COMPANIES GAIN FOR HALF YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—Corporate reports for the first six months indicate that industrial company incomes were substantially greater than in the like period of 1933, but that "the return on invested capital is still relatively low," according to the National City bank.

A compilation by the bank of statements of 250 companies with total net worth of about $9,724,000,000 indicates net profits of $276,563,000 for the first half year compared with net income of $86,362,000 in the first six months of 1933, or a 5.7 per cent return upon net worth against 1.7 per cent in 1933.

About 23 per cent of reporting companies showed deficits, compared with 44 per cent last year. Industries showing appreciable improvement were: Chemicals, auto accessories, electrical equipment, household supplies, petroleum, and non-ferrous metal mining, including gold mining. The high level of operations in the second quarter made it possible for the steel industry to break even for the six months, while earnings of baking and food companies were about the same for the half year, although second quarter returns were smaller than last year.

5 CENT PACKAGE OF CIGARETS IS HELD UNLIKELY

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Louisville 10-cent cigaret manufacturers today expressed the opinion that nothing would come of the suggestion of J. B. Hutson, chief of the tobacco section of the Agricultural Adjustment administration, for a 5-cent package of cigarets.

George Cooper, president of the Brown-Williamson Tobacco company, said the government was getting $450,000,000 a year in cigaret taxes and would be "reluctant to jeopardize this revenue without determining first whether a new tax system could work."

Edwin J. Helck, executive vice president of the Axton-Fisher Tobacco company, said the experience of tobacco men had been that increasing consumption by reducing taxes was a "myth." He said it would take considerable calculation to determine whether there would be any profit in a nickel package.

Power Output for Nation Up 1.3 Per Cent

Production of electricity in the United States last week showed a gain of 1.3 per cent over the corresponding week of last year, the Edison Electric institute announced yesterday. Output in the Chicago district increased 4.3 per cent over a year ago, reaching the highest figure for a midsummer week in the history of the Commonwealth Edison company.

The total of 101,514,000 kilowatt hours for the Chicago district was also the highest since the week of March 3 of this year. The gain was attributed to unusually hot weather, which stimulated the use of electricity.

Detail Output Here.

Week Ended.	—Kilowatt Hours— 1934.	1933.	Pct. Increase.
July 28	101,514,000	97,350,000	4.3
July 21	99,418,000	96,754,000	2.8
July 14	98,505,000	96,798,000	1.8

The total for the nation was 1,683,542,000 kilowatt hours, against 1,663,771,000 for the preceding week. Production in the New England area declined 7.1 per cent, compared with a decrease of 9 per cent during the preceding week, and that of the Rocky mountain district was down 3 per cent, against a drop of 2 per cent.

Five Show Increases.

Other regions showed gains as follows: Middle Atlantic, 1.7 per cent against 3 per cent; central industrial, 0.2 per cent against a decrease of 0.1 per cent; west central, 8.7 per cent against 4.8 per cent; south states, 4 per cent against 1.2 per cent; Pacific coast, 4.6 per cent against 5.1 per cent.

Output of electric energy of the American Water Works and Electric company for the week ended July 28 totaled 32,758,000 kilowatt hours, a decrease of 11 per cent from the output of 36,946,000 kilowatt hours in the same week last year.

INAUGURATE AIR EXPRESS SERVICE TO LATIN AMERICA

Miami, Fla., Aug. 1.—(AP)—A new, farflung system of international shipping between the Americas was inaugurated today. Nearly 300 parcels left Miami by plane with the placing in effect of new arrangements by which 23,000 cities of the United States are to be joined by rail and air service with 32 countries and colonies of Latin America through recent agreements signed by the Railway Express agency and the Pan-American airways system.

Airways officials declared all red tape previously required for international shipping has been eliminated down to one airway bill, which will take a package from any city in the United States to Miami by air or rail and thence to any of 150 ports in the West Indies, Central and South America.

They predicted the new system would increase Latin American freight cleared through Miami by seven to ten fold in the next two or three years.

NORTH CANADA NAVIGATION TO BE OPENED AUG. 10

CHURCHILL, Man., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Warm winds were wafted across Hudson bay today, brightening prospects for northern navigation which will open at this port Aug. 10.

Ten steamers have been scheduled to make calls here, and it was expected that more will arrive, some to take part of the 2,500,000 bushels of wheat which fill one huge elevator.

The first vessel expected is the S. S. Dalworth, which is bringing a general cargo of merchandise from Antwerp and Newcastle.

STEEL BUSINESS EASES; OUTPUT IS 26 PER CENT

Tin Plate Division Also Declines.

Ingot output has declined 1½ points to 26 per cent of productive capacity, the lowest rate, with the exception of the first week in July, since the beginning of the year, according to Iron Age. The decline is attributed to seasonal influences and the absorption of stocks by consumers.

Steel business during July receded more sharply than expected. Shipments declined more than production, since the operating rates were sustained partly by the rebuilding of mill inventories. With replenishment by producers nearly completed, ingot output now will measure more accurately the volume of current consumer needs.

Tonnage Sources Drying Up.

Several leading sources of tonnage are drying up. Most of the railroad tonnage remaining on the books will be delivered before the close of this month and there is a more pronounced decline in automobile output. Estimates of car production during July have been revised downward to 260,000. One of the largest automobile manufacturers will be idle during at least part of this month. Tonnage purchases on the new car programs are not anticipated before September, it is said.

Tin plate business, a bright spot in the trade for many months, is also stated to be declining. Mill output during the week has slipped 5 points to 45 per cent of capacity and further curtailment is probable in view of heavy stocks in the hands of consumers.

Drouth Threatens Output.

The drouth continues to be a serious threat not only to the purchasing power of farmers and the activity of the farm equipment makers and other industries directly dependent on agriculture but also to the railroads which face heavy losses in trafic. Most carriers have already tightened up on purchases.

The Pennsylvania, however, plans to build 3,000 hopper cars in its Altoona, Pa., shops and various roads are going ahead with the construction of streamlined passenger trains. The Gulf, Mobile and Northern has ordered two high speed trains and the Burlington has placed orders for two additional three car trains of the Zephyr type.

Added to the list of price reductions made since July 1 is a cut of $1 a ton on long ternes. Iron Age composite prices for finished steel, pig iron, and scrap are unchanged at 2.124 cents a pound, $17.90 a ton, and $10.42 a ton, respectively.

JUNE SETS 4 YEAR HIGH IN STEEL EMPLOYMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—Employment in the steel industry reached the highest level in four years during June when there were 455,966 persons at work, a gain of 6,604 over May and 117,820 over June, 1933, according to the American Iron and Steel institute.

Wages and salaries in the industry during June amounted to $49,466,664, a decrease of $2,429,267 from the previous month because of a small reduction in hours. Average hours per week declined from 36.[illegible] in May to 35.7 in June. Average earnings were 63.9 cents an hour in June, compared with 64.6 cents in May and 47.3 cents in June, 1933.

"While the operating rate in the industry was only 16 per cent higher in June than it was a year ago," the institute says, "employment had increased 35 per cent, total wages 66 per cent, and the average hourly earnings 35 per cent. At the same time the average work week was reduced 9 per cent. Although the industry was operating at only little over half of its capacity, its employment was virtually the same as in 1929."

INFLATIONISTS LAY PLANS TO FORCE ISSUE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Advocates of further currency expansion, some of whom are dissatisfied with the manner in which Secretary Morgenthau is making use of new monetary legislation, today laid their plans to force the issue with the administration. Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.], a spokesman for inflationists, said today their program would include these steps:

An effort to "line up" for the next congress those who favor new monetary policies and then to force issuance of more currency, if necessary, by declining to dispose of anything else until the money issue is out of the way.

Thomas, who has taken advantage of the summer recess to conduct a quiet poll of members of congress, now almost completed, asserted he had found encouragement for the belief that congress would be inclined to force direct inflation action next session.

Favorable Dividend Changes in July Total 98

Favorable dividend changes in July numbered 98, compared with 138 the month before and 71 in July, 1933, according to the Standard Statistics company. For the first seven months of the year the total was 832 favorable changes against 353 a year ago.

Cook County Auto Sales Rise in July

Automobile sales in Cook county during July rose nearly 33 per cent above the preceding month to a level approximately 30 per cent above July last year. Registrations of new vehicles for the period, revealed last night by R. L. Polk & Co., totaled 8,458, against 6,431 in June and 6,580 in July, 1933.

A large portion of the increase was furnished by the low price field, with Ford, Chevrolet, and Plymouth accounting for the bulk of the improvement. However, there were gains in the number of more costly cars as well, notably in Packard, of which seventy-one were sold, compared with forty-five in June.

Ford Leads Field.

Ford continued to lead the field with a total of 2,305, against 1,618 in June and 952 last year. It showed the greatest increase. Chevrolet was second, selling 2,046 cars, against 1,473 a month earlier, and 1,647 last year. Plymouth, in third place, reported 1,241, against 871 ad 1,230.

Buick, which in June held down fourth place, was ousted by Dodge, Buick falling back to seventh. Oldsmobile crept from seventh to fifth and Pontiac fell back from fourth to sixth.

ABOUT $40,000,000 OF B. & O. NOTES REPORTED SOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad has sold about $40,000,000 of the $50,000,000 of 4½ per cent secured notes put on sale on July 18, it was learned today. The notes were sold at par through Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Speyer & Co., and Brown, Harriman & Co. as agents for the company.

The extent to which the RFC would be asked to purchase unsubscribed portions of the issue was said at the B. & O. offices today to be uncertain. Included in the purposes of the issue is the repayment of $25,000,000 due the RFC by the B. & O. on Aug. 10. Whether the RFC would accept payment on this debt and simultaneously take up notes from the B. & O., or whether a portion of the RFC debt should be extended is understood to be a question which may be discussed soon by RFC and railway officials. Of B. & O. debts due on Aug. 10, only $17,500,000 is due the public.

Lowe Building Corporation Seeks Reorganization

Reorganization under Section 77-B of the amended bankruptcy act was sought in a petition filed yesterday in the United States District court by the Lowe Building corporation, owners of a thirty apartment building at 6616-20 Lowe avenue. Attorney F. E. Brithman, who filed the petition, stated that the liabilities of the company approximate $100,000 while the assets consist of the undetermined value of the building.

CHICAGO BUILDING PERMITS ARE HIGHEST SINCE DECEMBER, 1931

Chicago's building permits issued during July reached the highest estimated value of any monthly period since December, 1931, according to Richard E. Schmidt, building commissioner. Last month forty-seven permits, with an estimated total value of $1,185,965, were issued. In December, 1931, the total was $2,474,550.

The July totals exceeded both the preceding month and the same month last year. In June fifty permits were issued, with an estimated value of $355,025, and in July, 1933, fifty-four, having a total value of $257,400.

ASSERTS NATION UNABLE TO FILL ALL ITS NEEDS

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The theory of a surplus economy in America was decried as false by Robert R. Doane, research director of the government's national survey of potential product capacity, who summarized the survey's five months' activity in an article in the current issue of New Outlook.

"Our so-called 'economy of plenty,' with its 527 million acres and its 6 million farmers," Doane wrote, "has failed [not only in one year but in a five year average test] to meet the adequate food requirements of its people to the astonishing extent of nearly 100 billion of pounds of foodstuffs."

Doane's preliminary résumé of the work of his group disclosed "on the basis of the most accurate figures an annual deficiency of approximately 27 billion pounds of milk [the equivalent of 13 billion quarts], 1¾ billion pounds of tomatoes and citrus fruits, 12 billion pounds of fruits and green vegetables, 2 billion pounds of meats, and more than 13 billion eggs and 2½ billion pounds of butter."

In the matter of shelter—"the second ranking human necessity"—the Doane group reported "an even more appalling story." The findings indicated a present shortage in excess of 6,000,000 dwellings.

N.Y. BROKERS PLAN MEETING TO PEP UP BUSINESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—To devise plans for overcoming inertia in the securities business the Association of Stock Exchange Firms has arranged for a meeting Monday of representatives of approximately 600 firms holding membership in the association, according to an announcement made today by Frank R. Hope, president.

The discussion, according to present plans, will take the form of the New England town meeting. Brokers will be allowed to express themselves freely on policies which they believe the exchange, the Association of Stock Exchange Firms, or the brokers themselves should pursue in order to rehabilitate the brokerage business.

It will be the first open forum, within the memory of the oldest brokers in Wall street, at which representatives of substantially all of the stock exchange firms have ever been given an opportunity to talk freely on matters of policy affecting their business.

STATE REJECTS BANKS' 3⅛% BID ON RELIEF NOTES

Treasury Will Use Funds on Hand.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The bid of a syndicate of Chicago banks for the purchase of $5,000,000 state of Illinois relief notes was rejected yesterday, State Treasurer John C. Martin announced. The Chicago banks, which submitted the only bid, offered to lend the money to the state at a ratio of 3⅛ per cent. The last time the banks bought a $5,000,000 block of relief notes—on June 5—they paid a price which gave them a return of ¾ of 1 per cent.

Mr. Martin asserted that in place of selling the notes, the state will meet its emergency relief requirements during August through available state funds in the amount of $2,500,000.

Funds Available at 2%.

"The state treasury has temporary funds available on a 2 per cent basis which represents a substantial saving over the 3⅛ per cent rate of interest submitted by the bankers," Mr. Martin said.

The $5,000,000 offering formed a part of the $30,000,000 emergency relief program which has been authorized. The syndicate which made yesterday's bid has already taken $20,000,000 of relief notes. It includes the First National Bank of Chicago, the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, the Harris Trust and Savings bank, the Northern Trust company and the City National Bank and Trust company.

Rejection of the bid followed a meeting in the First National bank which was attended by bank officials, Mr. Martin, K. L. Ames Jr., director of finance, state of Illinois, and A. W. Armstrong, representing State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

Banks Explain Rate Boost.

Bankers privately explained their reason for increasing the amount of interest they were asking over the preceding rate by saying that there has been a change in bond market conditions which justified their position. There recently has been a slowing up in the bond market as a result of which several state and municipal issues have not moved as well as had been expected, it was said. In this connection the syndicate which handled $12,000,000 city of New York corporate stock recently had to reduce the maturity date on the unsold amount in their hands by six months to facilitate the sale.

The Illinois revenue notes are payable from the proceeds of a $30,000,000 emergency relief bond issue which is to be voted upon Nov. 6. In the event the voters fail to approve the bond issue, the notes would be payable through a statewide tax, estimated at 63 cents for each $100 of assessed valuation, the imposition of which has already been authorized by the state legislature.

MAY DROP BANK SERVICE CHARGE RULING IN CODE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—Important changes in the trade practices section of the bankers' code through which the NRA would refrain from preserving a uniform system of service charges by banks on checking accounts and of uniform banking hours and minimum rates of interest on accounts, are expected to be formally submitted to the NRA for approval in the near future, according to information in banking quarters today.

The code now provides banks in a given district or group maintain a uniform practice whereby services shall be compensated for either by adequate balances carried or by a scale of charges. This would be changed so that if 75 per cent of the banks in a given community or banking region are in favor of a set of charges such charges would be binding on all institutions in the region. The matter of determining boundaries would be left to the banks.

Under the proposed changes the section of the bankers' code relating to establishment of maximum banking hours and noninterest paying provisions for demand accounts in commercial banks would be eliminated entirely and new rules left to the banks to determine.

DIVIDEND PAID BY SOUTHWEST TRUST RECEIVER

A dividend of 10 per cent, amounting to $165,066, for depositors of the Southwest Trust and Savings bank was authorized yesterday by Edward J. Barrett, state auditor. Checks were distributed yesterday.

This is the second dividend to be paid since the bank closed. William L. O'Connell, receiver, stated that $739,761 had been paid to preferred creditors and $340,500 had been paid on bills payable. The present payment is being made out of funds acquired in the ordinary course of liquidation.

INFLATION TALK HELPS BOOST STOCK PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—The stock market advanced sharply today, with some shares climbing 1 to 4 points. One common explanation for the advance was a renewal of inflation possibilities. As usual when inflation is the big topic of the day, gold and silver mining shares led the upturn, with farm, food, and other shares in line to appreciate with any artificial aid forthcoming in their behalf from monetary "expansion" in the runner-up division. Homestake jumped $13 a share on a single sale, U. S. Smelting bobbed up 4 points, and gains of 1½ to 2 points were recorded by Alaska Juneau, Cerro De Pasco, and American Smelting.

Buoyancy in grains was a bullish factor, inspiring short covering particularly in the implement and mail order sections.

Business News Brighter.

Midweek business news was a mite more cheerful. Some good apparently was done by the cheerful quarterly report of the United States Steel corporation.

Publicity over the rising prices for foodstuffs gave some of the food shares a bulge. That was especially notable in the canning division, doubtless on the supposition that canned goods would be shipped in large quantities into the devastated regions of the west. The most buoyant stock was California Packing, which rose nearly 3 points to the best price since 1931. Other stocks to score gains of 1 to 6 points were Snider, Corn Products, Armour, and Wilson.

Sugar stocks of companies producing in Cuba also were good. Tobaccos were boosted on the outlook for tax reduction. Chemicals were as strong as they usually are in a rising market. Allied Chemical and Du Pont each moved up about 2 points.

Chrysler Leads Motors Up.

In the automobile division, Chrysler moved higher on rumors that earnings for the quarter will be better than expected and that dividend action may be taken tomorrow, while a 25 cent extra payment by General Motors was also one item of gossip which went the trading rounds.

Industrials were prominent in the advance, American Can rising more than a point and Westinghouse about U. S. Steel gestured its appreciation the dividend declaration by a rise more than a point on both the mmon and preferred.

COTTON RISES MODERATELY AS HEAT WAVE CONTINUES

Cotton made only a moderate response yesterday to reports of continued drouth and high temperatures and that the crop was deteriorating steadily. The government weekly weather crop summary was construed as decidedly bullish on the western belt. It showed generally favorable conditions in the eastern section. The first bale of cotton has been ginned in Oklahoma, establishing a new record for earliness.

Hedging pressure and profit taking offset to a large extent buying induced by the weather reports, and the close was 3 to 8 points higher in Chicago and 5 to 9 points higher in other markets. Spot cotton was 5 to 10 points higher, with New Orleans, 13.10 cents; Galveston and Houston, 13 cents, and New York, 13.20 cents per pound. Prices follow:

COOLER WEATHER BRINGS ADVANCE IN LIVE STOCK

Commercial Meat Supply Continues to Drop.

All species of live stock brought strong to higher prices yesterday as cool weather remained and supplies of commercial meat animals continued to drop at all leading packing centers. Combined receipts of cattle, hogs, and sheep intended for regular trade channels totaled 526,000 head at the 20 markets the first three days of the week, against 631,000 a week ago and 631,000 a year ago.

The run was lighter than for any corresponding period in more than five years. Bullish reports from the wholesale trade stimulated buying of live stock at other markets and brought a heavier movement of direct shipments to Chicago.

Most Packers Get Stock.

All save one of the small Chicago packers which closed down for a day because of labor trouble, received live stock from other points to supply consumers with meat, and to date there has been no acute shortage of meat or any unreasonable rise in wholesale quotations.

Quality buying was reported in cattle at outside places, and anything carrying a good corn finish indicated gains of as much as 25 to 50 cents compared with a week ago. Plainer classes improved in the last two days.

Calves were wanted at all places at strong rates, selected vealers at points nearest Chicago selling at $5.00 to $5.50.

Hog Prices Strong.

Hog prices ruled strong to 15 cents higher at leading markets yesterday, high points in the east selling top grades upward to $7.75, tax included, while the lowest spot in the west reported $7.00, of which $2.25 tax went to the federal government.

Hog supplies are running smallest in many years as a result of the pig killing program of last summer.

July receipts of hogs at Chicago at 405,497 were smallest for the month since 1910, and compared with 604,000 a year ago.

Lamb prices around the market circle ruled unevenly strong to 50 cents higher, some points nearest the Chicago yards showing the full advance because of extremely light supplies. Top grades of lambs near Chicago sold up to $7.00. Supplies of lambs have been running light for many weeks, and the July receipts at Chicago at 206,085 were smallest for the month since 1894.

PRICES OF BUTTER FUTURES REACH NEW SEASON HIGHS

Purchases of 2,250,000 pounds of butter by the government yesterday were instrumental in starting a wave of speculative buying of futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Offerings were quickly absorbed and prices advanced ½ cent to a new high for the season. The close was within a fraction of the top.

Speculative buying of eggs showed marked improvement, the turnover for the day being the largest in some time past. Closing trades were ¼ cent higher on October and at a new high for the season. Hedging and profit taking sales were readily absorbed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—Drouth conditions today caused the Agricultural Adjustment administration to modify somewhat its restrictions on planting lands retired from production under the corn-hog limitation program, but control of cotton production will be fully enforced under the Bankhead act, officials said.

Farmers may now plant wheat or other small grains on lands covered by reduction contracts, provided the grains are used for hay or pasture. These may not be used as cash crops, however. Feeder pigs may also be bought in unlimited numbers until Nov. 30, but must be kept separate from hogs produced on their new owners' farms.

C. W. Alvord, assistant to the chief of the cotton division of the AAA, declared it was the official opinion that any relaxation of the Bankhead act would be unfair to cotton farmers who limited production in expectation of the act. He indicated that even should the total cotton crop fall below the level of 10,460,251 bales which may be marketed without a ginning tax under the act, the individual who exceeded his allotment would be taxed.

Carryover Reduced.

New Orleans, La., Aug 1.—(AP)—Despite declining exports and a drop in world consumption compared with the year before, the 1933-'34 cotton season, ending yesterday, left a carryover of cotton considerably under that of 1932-33 and 1931-'32, according to the annual report of Secretary Emeritus H. G. Hester of the New Orleans Cotton exchange.

With the opening of the new "cotton year" today, Hester reported a carryover, including linters, of 10,921,000 bales, comparing with 11,783,000 bales on the same date last year, and of 13,449,000 bales on Aug. 1, 1932.

Commercial Crop Lower.

Exclusive of linters, the 1933-'34 carryover was 10,598,000 bales, the 1932-'33 carryover, 11,339,000 bales, and the 1931-'32 carryover, 12,911,000 bales.

Hester reported the commercial crop of the season just closed at 13,368,000 bales, comparing with 15,083,000 the year before, and 14,898,000 two years ago.

American exports, including those of Canada, amounted to 7,729,000 bales in 1933-'34, 8,616,000 in 1932-'33, and 8,831,000 in 1931-'32.

COURT ORDERS PEPTOLENE CORP. TO HALT ACTIVITY

An injunction restraining the Peptolene corporation from carrying on its business and from assigning or in other ways disposing of any of its assets was granted yesterday by Superior Judge John C. Lewe to Otto Kerner, attorney general for the state of Illinois. Karl Vieth was appointed receiver for all properties owned by the company and its subsidiaries in the order signed by Judge Lewe.

The petition charged that Poole Harrison and John F. O'Connor, heads of the company, conspired to defraud the state of more than $50,000 in motor fuel taxes. It is charged in the bill that the company changed the labels on shipment of naphtha, gasoline, and other taxable products to show that the products were distillate fuel oils free from taxation.

Mr. Gately stated that Harrison was sentenced to serve ninety days in jail in 1932 after he had testified for the state against Louis Weiss, who was accused of fixing the taxes for him. Weiss, a voluntary inspector for the state department of finance under the late Garrett Kinney, was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $3,000 for his part in the affair. Mr. Gately added that in his efforts to defraud the state of tax money due it. Harrison changed the name of his company numerous times.

U. S. TO REQUIRE CONSUL'S INVOICE ON GOLD IMPORTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—With some exceptions consular invoices will now be required on all incoming gold shipments into the United States exceeding $100, Secretary Morgenthau announced today.

Treasury officials said that by using consular invoices the treasury department would be able to keep a more accurate check on incoming shipments. At present, it was said, the treasury department is often unaware of gold shipments until the metal actually arrives. The order read as follows:

"Effective tomorrow, consular invoices will be required for all shipments of gold to the United States exceeding $100 in value. Exceptions are made for gold already in transit, gold imported into the United States for reëxport, and crude gold."

DOLLAR ADVANCES ON POUND, FRANC; TRADE LISTLESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—The dollar continued firm in the foreign exchange market today with trading extremely dull. Sterling sold off ⅜ of a cent to $5.03⅛ while the franc dipped an eighth cent to 6.59. The market for the franc was hairline with quotations given at times in sixteenths instead of in the usual eighths. The low was 6.58 15-16.

The mark was unchanged, the guilder steady and the lira a quarter point lower on the day. The belga was the only exchange to advance, moving up a point. The yen dropped 4 points to 29.90 cents. The premium on the Canadian dollar was reduced by ⅛ of a cent to $1.01⅝.

Although the federal reserve bank in its daily gold statement showed no imports of gold, the S. S. Champlain arrived today with gold reported to total $6,000,000, of which $5,000,000 was loaded at Plymouth and $1,000,000 at Havre. Part of this, at least, is expected to show up in tomorrow's statement.

Richard E. Schmidt, Chicago's newly appointed building commissioner, inaugurated a campaign to clear the north side of unfit buildings and at the same time performed his first public act in his new office yesterday morning when he swung a pickax and started the demolition of the condemned three story residence at 54 West Superior street. This is the first step in a campaign started and sponsored by the Metropolitan Housing council to rid Chicago of unfit dwellings.

The demolition program calls for the wrecking of 365 more condemned buildings on the north side during the next few months. Wreckers are now at work tearing down sixty-seven decrepit houses on the south and west sides. Seventeen condemned structures already have been entirely demolished and their grounds cleared. As fast as possible these cleared spaces are to be converted into small neighborhood playgrounds.

Speakers Hail Program.

Following Building Commissioner Schmidt's pickax wielding and a short speech yesterday, Fire Commissioner Seyferlich, Health Commissioner Bundesen, Mrs. C. K. Timmons, and Mrs. H. W. Hartough of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's clubs, made brief comments on the slum clearance program. John Reed Fugard, chairman of the Metropolitan Housing council, directed the program.

The house now being wrecked probably was erected shortly after the fire of '71, according to Building Commissioner Schmidt as the walls are of handmade bricks. Much of the woodwork is of black walnut. Several large pieces of it were turned over to the Illinois emergency relief commission for conversion by disabled veterans and others into inlaid checker, chess, and backgammon boards.

10 Days to Wreck.

The building is owned by Wilhelmina Gruley, conservatrix for the estate of George W. Gruley. The wrecking, which will take about ten days, is being done under the supervision of the Ogden Wrecking company by relief labor.

Several years ago a man committed suicide in a front room in the residence. Since then the rumor spread about the neighborhood that the house was haunted and it became increasingly difficult to rent it. It had been vacant for several years.

ANGLO-GERMAN MONEY EXCHANGE AGREEMENT NEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Difficulties experienced by British exporters in obtaining payment for their goods from Germany following the recent tightening up of currency restrictions may soon be overcome as a result of negotiations between representatives of the two governments in Berlin.

It was learned tonight that discussions are proceeding smoothly, and there is every prospect that an agreement restoring trade to normal will be signed almost immediately. The settlement will be similar to those already in operation between Germany and Italy, Poland, Holland, Norway, Sweden, and other countries.

The principle of the exchange agreement is that German importers will be allowed to pay debts to the British exporter through the medium of marks placed in a special account at the Reichsbank. The marks will then be placed at the disposal of the central bank of the country concerned in the agreement, and the value is offset by amounts paid into that bank by firms importing from Germany.

U. S. OPENS PROBE OF ALLEGED LEAK ON GOLD PRICES

FCC Seeks to Solve Wall Street Mystery.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The federal communications commission today began an investigation to find out if there are Wall street interests with telegraphic facilities that enabled them to obtain information on the government's gold price quotations ahead of everybody else.

The complaint that persons in the New York financial district obtained the treasury's daily gold price quotations before the arrival of flashes by direct wires was heard several times last winter.

One explanation offered was that the price quotations left Washington simultaneously but that some firms, or individuals, had so-called "emergency service" which carried the figures to Wall street even faster than other wires geared for speed.

A committee was named in New York to determine if there were "leaks," and now the newly created government agency intends to see if it can solve the "gold price mystery."

Seeks Other Information."

But that is just one of the pieces of information sought in a formidable list of questions propounded today to telegraph companies.

Following up orders issued a few days ago requiring the five telegraph companies to supply by Sept. 15 information on their corporate setups—interlocking directorates and such—the commission asked information on the rates charged and the service rendered in return.

By Oct. 1 the telegraph companies must send the FCC copies of all their contracts, particularly those that may have to do with arrangements with railroads and other concerns for exclusive service privileges.

Ball Game Services.

The commission, in this connection, wants to know whether either Western Union or Postal has contracted for exclusive rights to send out service on ball games.

One general fact sought was whether customers doing a large amount of telegraph business got better service than the little fellows, and whether any company offers special service inducements to get business.

Another item was whether legitimate cash business is being diverted over subleased wires that amount to private systems. The FCC wanted to know whether such leased facilities are used for the business intended, or if everybody with access to the wires may use them for private telegrams.

Utah Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: Would appreciate your advice on Utah Power and Light 5s, due 1944.—Mrs. R. A. G.

Answer: Utah Power and Light company is both a holding and operating company, controled by Electric Power and Light corporation. It supplies electricity to a population of 467,000 in 278 communities, including Ogden and Salt Lake City in Utah, Idaho, Colorado, and Wyoming. It also supplies traction service to Salt Lake City.

The territory is not widely diversified. Mining and beet sugar production are the two main industries. Earnings of this utility tend to fluctuate with those industries. Their activity has been quite limited during the last few years, although some recovery has been evidenced during the last few months.

The company has not been immune from agitation for rate reductions. One heartening factor is the rejection of the proposition to construct a municipal plant by the Salt Lake City electorate.

Earnings for the 12 months to April 30, 1934, covered fixed charges only 1.19 times. In 1933 charges were covered 1.20 times. This compared with coverage of 1.57 times in 1932, 1.78 times in 1931, and 1.94 times in 1930.

Net income for May, 1934, before property retirement, reserve appropriations, and dividends totaled $69,439, against $109,996 in May, 1933.

The first 5s, due 1944, are secured by a first mortgage on all properties and pledge of securities. Despite an excellent lien position, low rate of earnings entitles them to no more than a speculative rating.

Eaton Manufacturing.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly furnish me with information on Eaton Manufacturing?—K. S. C.

Answer: This $14,000,000 manufacturer of automobile parts and accessories sells about 75 per cent of output as original equipment on new cars and the remainder as replacements. Products include valves, tappets, springs, bumpers, and similar equipment. Numbered among its customers are General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler. Its main plant is in Cleveland, O.

Net income for the six months ended June 30, 1934, totaled $776,557, or $1.16 per share, against $31,253, or 5 cents per share, for the corresponding period of 1933.

Current assets as of June 30, 1934, including cash of $1,208,058, amounted to $5,819,171, and current liabilities were $922,320.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists solely of 656,144 shares of no par stock which pay 25 cents a quarter. The stock is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Moderate recoveries in domestic corporation issues contrasted with irregularly lower prices for foreign loans and long term United States government bonds on the Stock exchange today. Trading totaled $10,470,000, against but $8,241,000 on the previous day.

Liberty Loans Rise.

Declines of 1-32 to 6-32ds point occurred in United States government issues with the exceptions of Liberty 3½s and First Liberty 4¼s, which were up 2-32d and 1-32d point respectively. The yields on long term government issues now range from 2.61 to 3.06 per cent, except for the Liberty loans, which are selling at minus yields when figured to the call dates.

A sizable list of domestic corporation bonds advanced 1 to more than 3 points on the day as far as bonds which were at all active were concerned. Public utility issues, particularly obligations of communications companies, were firm. Speculative railroad bonds were in demand once more and a number of industrial issues were actively bought.

Foreign Group Dull

Foreign loans were lightly traded. Most of the German issues showed but fractional variations in prices, including the government loan. Austrian, French, and British government issues continued firm. The feature of the South American group was the recovery in Argentine government loans, which jumjed 2 to 4½ points, with virtually all of the various issues of 6s closing at 80, the high of the day.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Raw sugar was quiet today, but the tone was firm and refiners were showing more interest at the last paid prices of 3.20c for spots and 3.23c for later shipment. Offerings, however continued light, and while there was a sale of 25,000 bags of Cubas late yesterday at the 3.23c level, there was nothing offered today below 3.25c.

Continued firmness in the spot market and a growing belief that the duty on Cuban sugar will be lowered again when the reciprocal trade agreement with that country is concluded, was responsible for further advances in futures, with final prices 1 to 3 points net higher. Sales were 18,100 tons. Prices:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
September	1.74	1.77	1.74	1.76	1.74
January	1.81	1.81	1.81	1.81	1.80
May	1.90	1.90	1.89	1.89	1.87

Refined was unchanged at 4.75c for fine granulated. A moderate withdrawal demand was reported, but new business was light and supplied through resale offerings at 4.70c.

SILVER FUTURES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Silver futures advanced around ¼ of a cent an ounce in another fairly active trading session on the commodity exchange today. The turnover aggregated 425,000 ounces. August closed at 46.70c compared with 46.40c on Tuesday, and September ended at 46.70c, against 46.45c the day before. Bar metal gained ¼ of a cent an ounce at 46⅝c.
